TRUMAN EASES WAGE FREEZE; ASKS LABOR AID

WLB Is Continued Temporarily

PEACE DEVELOPMENTS

Stories today on developments following victory include: President to make recommendation on universal military training, page 8; President decides no official V-J holiday necessary, page 8; relaxation of convention and sports travel restrictions, pages 9 and 21; industrial contract cutback, page 23; state post-war plans, page 23, and effect of cutbacks on employment and civilian production, page 24.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman today called upon organized labor to renew its war time no-strike pledge, relaxed wage controls slightly to meet the immediate reconversion period, and temporarily continued the war labor board. He urged management to keep the no-lockout agreement in force.

Mr. Truman said he would call a conference of representatives of labor and industry soon after congress reconvenes. In the meantime, and for a brief period of adjustment thereafter, he said, the war labor board will continue to handle disputes.

The wage stabilization policy would be eased to allow voluntary increases automatically, the President said, "upon condition that they will not be used in whole or in part as the basis for seeking an increase in price ceilings." Proposed wage increases requiring price relief must continue to be passed upon by the board. The war labor board also will have a greater freedom in granting pay raises to correct maladjustments and inequities.

Employment Bill a "Must"

The labor-industry conference would aim at an agreement "to minimize the interruption of production by labor disputes in the reconversion period," the President said.

Earlier, the President told a press conference that his employment plan—a bill pending in congress—is "must" legislation. It would enable the government to set up yearly a program envisioning "full employment" even if the government has to provide work. Unemployment compensation of $25 a week for six months also is proposed.

Expect Union Demands

At the same time the President issued his appeal to labor, CIO President Philip Murray said it was "reasonable to assume" that every major CIO union would immediately press for higher wages.

The bulk of CIO contracts—as well as those of the United Mine Workers and AFL—contain provisions permitting reopening of the agreements in the event there is a substantial change in the administration's wage policy.

Murray held a press conference after a meeting of his vice presidents, and released a statement for that group urging a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour; continuation of price controls, and unemployment compensation of $25 a week for 26 weeks.

[Half of the million members of the United Automobile Workers' union (CIO) will be out of jobs within a week, officials estimate. Story on page 23.]

Churchill Says Big 3 Failed on Many Issues

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 16—Speaking in a new role as leader of the opposition, former Prime Minister Churchill admitted in the house of commons today that the Big Three at Potsdam had failed to reach agreement on many important problems and at the same time warned that in the Balkans and eastern Europe Communists have obtained or are in the process of obtaining dictatorial powers.

"Democracy," he asserted, "is on trial as never before. We must uphold it."

Labor Prime Minister Attlee, speaking in debate on the government's policy, also conceded there were a number of unsolved problems which he said he hoped would be solved at a forthcoming meeting of foreign ministers in London. He added there were a number of other questions which must remain for settlement at the peace conference.

"Shouldn't Delude Ourselves"

Elaborating on the Potsdam failure, Churchill said, "We shouldn't delude ourselves in supposing the results of this first conference of the victors is free from disappointment or anxiety or that the most serious questions before us were all brought to a good solution."

"It would be wrong to conceal the possible divergence of view which exists inevitably between the victors about the state of affairs in eastern and middle Europe," he added.

The Laborite government, he contended, must realize none of the three leading powers can impose its solution upon others and the only solutions possible are those in the nature of compromise.

Churchill indicated Britain was no longer in a position to dictate to Europe when he said, "We British have had very early and increasingly to recognize the limitations of our own power and influence—great tho it be—in the gaunt world arising from the ruins of this hideous war."

He demanded that the Labor government make clear its policy toward the Balkans and eastern Europe.

Worried Over Polish Border

Of Poland, Churchill said, "There are few virtues the Poles do not possess and there are few mistakes they have ever avoided."

He expressed misgivings about the westward extension of the Polish frontier, which he said the provisional government had pushed "far beyond what necessity or equity requires." He added:

"I am particularly concerned at this moment with the reports reaching us of the conditions under which the expulsion and exodus of Germans from the new Poland have been carried out. Between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 people dwelt in those regions before the war.

"The Polish government says

GRIM GIs FIGHT RAVAGES OF T.B.

Strong Will Is Needed in Hospital Wards

Speed Wounded Home

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 16 (AP)—All wounded soldiers in the Pacific area will be returned to the United States within the next 90 days, Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, army surgeon general, said in an interview tonight.

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 16 — Not all of the war's battles are over, and not all were fought at the front.

Here at Bruns General hospital in picturesque Santa Fe hundreds of returned overseas veterans are fighting a grim, crucial war against death or invalidism.

What got them was not bullets, but tuberculosis.

For them victory is so far off that you marvel at their faith in it. Their only weapons are medical treatment and a great deal of will power. Even this might conceivably grow dull around the edges when you have nothing to look forward to but more months, even years, flat in bed.

But not for these G.I.s.

Plan New Careers

They are determined to get well. Moreover, they are utilizing their long period of bed rest to build a new kind of life—in which they can substitute brain work for brawn.

Instead of resigning themselves to the even-if-I-do-get-well-I-can't-work attitude, these men—former cooks, machinists, or perhaps truck drivers—are now taking courses in insurance, accounting, business methods, law, and languages.

In four months more than 200 T. B. patients enrolled in USAFI courses [United States Armed Forces Institute.]

And they are reading. They are reading as they have never read before. On every bedside table you will find books—fiction, history, biography, political science, and textbooks on everything from plane geometry to Greek.

"I figured it was as good a time as any to start catching up on my education," said a sergeant who had spent two years in New Guinea.

Many Men Feel Fit

Many of these patients are still healthy looking, even husky. Some do not feel ill. Their lung cavities were discovered thru routine army physical examinations and X-rays.

"That's what makes it rough,"

News of War's End Turns U. S. Ships to Home Ports

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—Here's the army's story of where its men are, what happened to 14 transports bound from France to the Philippines when the news of the Japanese surrender was flashed around the world, and how fast soldiers are going to be sent home.

There are 7½ million soldiers in the army—2,760,000 in Europe, 1,800,000 in the Pacific, 2,750,000 in the United States, and 190,000 elsewhere, including South America.

While troops are streaming home from Europe the army's first job is providing occupation troops in Japanese held areas. But first priority in returning veterans from the Pacific will go to American wounded and sick and American prisoners liberated from the Japanese.

Many Ships in Service

Veterans will be speeded from Europe and the Pacific in hospital ships, cargo ships equipped to carry passengers, troop transports, all appropriate navy combat vessels, transport and combat planes, British troop ships, and by every means that can be used.

Seven German ships are being converted into troop carriers and half the million tons of Japanese shipping the navy didn't get around to destroying probably will be used.

The British ships Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, and Aquitania will be available until Dec. 31, after which a new arrangement may be made with the British for continuing their use. By that time more than half a million troops will be coming home from overseas each month.

Spread Out in Islands

The task of bringing men home from the Pacific will be more difficult than returning them from Europe because they must be gathered from many islands.

Fourteen troop transports were bound from Marseille, France, to Manila when the Japs surrendered. Thirteen were ordered to make for American ports. The 14th, carrying service forces troops needed for construction work, was kept on its way.

Four hundred supply ships also were bound for the Pacific. Those with general cargoes were told to proceed, but those loaded with ammunition alone were returned to American ports.

Half Million a Month

The army will be reduced by five million men in the next 12 months at the approximate rate of half a million a month. Twenty-two discharge centers have been designated and five more will be established, one probably at Fort Custer, Mich.

The soldiers will be discharged at the center nearest their homes.

This is the way the army discharges a man, or "separates" him, as the army is saying in this war:

His clothing and equipment are inspected and he is asked to turn in all unessential items. When his records are completed, he is given new clothing if his old clothes are worn. He's to have two uniforms, new or looking new, one of wool and the other of cotton. He gets new shoes if he needs them, or the ones he has on if he doesn't, and he can keep his handkerchiefs, neckties, socks, and toilet articles.

"He wants to make a creditable appearance upon arriving home," Maj. Gen. Joe N. Dalton explained in an interview today, "and we share his desire."

Informed About Rights

GI Joe then gets a lecture about pay, transportation, insurance, his right to disability claims, the benefits to which he is entitled under the GI bill of rights, and the problems he will face on returning to civilian life.

If the soldier wants advice he can get it from a counselor, like himself an enlisted man. From then on it's a breeze. He signs final papers and then is inspected again to make sure that he's dressed spic and span.

If the army decides he is, he gets his final pay, a dicharge emblem for his civilian clothes, and his railroad ticket home.

The army holds a special ceremony to tell him his nation appreciates his service, and home he goes.

VETERANS RETURN

More than 3,000 European veterans reached New York yesterday. Names of those from Chicago and vicinity who were taken to Camp Shanks are on page 15.

Japs Get Red Ultimatum to Quit Fighting

LONDON, Aug. 17 [Friday]—(AP)—The Russians today gave the Japanese Kwantung army in Manchuria until noon Monday to disarm and surrender and charged that the Japanese had counter-attacked on several fronts "at the same time" that their headquarters was appealing to soviet troops to cease hostilities.

"As soon as the Japanese troops begin surrendering their arms, soviet troops will discontinue war operations," Marshal Alexander M. Vassilevsky told Kwantung headquarters in a broadcast order, the Moscow radio reported.

A soviet war bulletin last night said counter-attacks had been repulsed and the Russians had captured the prize communications cities of Kangching, Kiamusze, and Taoan. In addition, the broadcast bulletin said, soviet troops repelled an enemy attempt to recapture the Korean port city of Seishin.

Gives Japs More Time

The soviet commander was quoted as saying that he allowed the Japs until noon Monday to surrender in order to give the Japanese commander time to communicate with all of his troops.

Vassilevsky sent this radiogram to the enemy commander, Moscow said:

"Headquarters of the Japanese Kwantung army has got into touch by radio with headquarters of soviet troops in the Far East with a proposal to cease military operations, thereby not mentioning a word about the capitulation of the Japanese armed forces in Manchuria.

"At the same time, Japanese troops passed to the counter-attack in a number of sectors of the soviet-Japanese front.

"Lay Down Arms"

"I suggest to the commander of troops of the Kwantung army to cease operations against the soviet forces on all fronts, lay down their arms and surrender by 12 midday on Aug. 20.

"The above time limit is being given to enable the headquarters of the Kwantung army to bring the order of cessation of resistance and surrender to the knowledge of all its troops.

"As soon as Japanese troops begin surrendering their arms soviet troops will discontinue war operations."

The radiogram was timed at 6 a. m., Tokyo time.

[Three hours later the Japanese Domei agency quoted a message from the Kwantung commander to the allied forces saying that the Japanese would send "small type aircraft" over the Manchurian front between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Friday "to effect swift transmission of the order to cease all military activities and to surrender all arms."]

YANKS IN EUROPE GIVEN VICTORY HOLIDAY TODAY

PARIS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Every American service man waiting to come home from Europe will have a chance to celebrate final victory tomorrow—in his own way with no strings attached. Headquarters of United States forces in the European theater [USFET] announced today that tomorrow would be a one-day holiday.

USFET also announced that two more veteran divisions—the 5th armored and 14th armored—had been alerted for shipment home and that in all, 170,000 combat veterans of the 3d and 17th divisions and the 16th corps would be sent home during September.

GREW RESIGNS; DEAN ACHESON NAMED TO POST

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—Joseph C. Grew, veteran career diplomat who was United States ambassador at Tokyo when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, tonight resigned as undersecretary of state.

Dean G. Acheson [top] and Joseph C. Grew

President Truman designated Dean G. Acheson, who resigned yesterday as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations and international conferences, as Grew's successor. The nomination will be submitted to the senate after congress convenes Sept. 5.

Altho the veteran diplomat explained he was leaving because he has passed retirement age, his departure stirred speculation that he will appear soon in Tokyo as civilian adviser to Gen. MacArthur, supreme allied commander for conquered Japan. Grew and MacArthur are the same age, 65.

Warned of Jap Attack

Grew was ambassador to Japan from February, 1932, to Dec. 8, 1941. Three times during his last year in Tokyo he sent warnings to Washington that the Japs were contemplating attack, naming Pearl Harbor.

He is considered to have a more intimate knowledge of Japan and its people than any American. For this reason considerable credence was attached to the reports he would serve MacArthur much as Robert Murphy, state department officer, attached to Gen. Eisenhower as an adviser on European problems.

Earlier in the day, President Truman said the situation in Japan differs from that in Europe, but he did not finally exclude possibility of assignment of a civilian state department adviser to the general.

In Versailles Delegation

Grew, who is of an old Boston family, entered the state department by the Groton-Harvard route in 1904 and has served in posts thruout the world. He was on the American peace delegation at the Versailles conference at the end of the World war.

He was undersecretary of state in the Coolidge administration. He returned to the post almost a year ago after former State Secretary Hull retired and Edward R. Stettinius, then undersecretary, succeeded the Tennessee veteran.

She Has 6,841 Pressing Engagements with GIs

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—Now that the war is over, Mrs. H. L. Michael can put aside her needle and pressing iron, with a feeling of duty well done. Since Pearl Harbor, she has cleaned, mended, and altered, free of charge, uniforms for 6,841 service men.

Manila Conference Delayed on Plea by Enemy

MANILA, Aug. 17 [Friday] (AP)—Gen. MacArthur was informed today by the Tokyo radio that Japanese planes have attacked and damaged 12 allied transports off southern Japan. A spokesman said no American reply has yet been made to the notification.

MacArthur earlier today had postponed the momentous surrender conference at Japan's request and guaranteed safe conduct for members of the imperial household flying to the battlefronts to enforce orders to "cease firing."

The Jap message on the air attack was considered in Manila as an official notification from the Japanese government, a spokesman said, because it came on the prescribed frequency. There was no official indication of MacArthur's reaction.

"Venture to Attack"

The text of the Japanese message:

"Radiogram No. 3, Aug. 16—At about noon, Aug. 16, a group of some 12 allied transports approached extremely near the coast of Kochi, Shikoku. At that time the imperial order to cease hostilities had not yet been issued, and our air units ventured to attack the allied vessels, apparently causing some damage.

"At 4 p. m. the order was issued to cease hostilities, as stated in our radiogram No. 1. It will take some time for the said order to reach the front line and produce full effect. It is earnestly requested that the allied forces will refrain from approaching the islands of Japan proper until the order will have been fully effected."

More than 12 hours prior to the time the attack took place, Gen. MacArthur's radioed message to Japan ordering an immediate cessation of hostilities had been acknowledged by several Japanese radio stations.

Japs Request Delay

Unofficially, however, an absence of any immediate condemnatory reply was interpreted as an indication that the incident was regarded as one of the unavoidable events in the closing hours of war.

The Japanese asked for a delay in the meeting at Manila, at which they will receive the stern terms of capitulation, and the supreme commander replied that their messages had been received "and are satisfactory."

MacArthur's reply was surprisingly lenient for a conqueror, but behind him was a vast array of allied power such as the world never had seen and it was obvious he would not allow Japan to take advantage of his tolerance and stall for time.

Sets No Deadline

MacArthur set no new deadline for the Manila conference, evidently in recognition of Emperor Hirohito's problems in getting his warlords to accept defeat. His first message to Hirohito had instructed the Jap envoys to take off this morning in a specially marked plane and land on Ie Island.

The commander now seems bent on letting the Japanese solve their own problems to insure a minimum of hostilities before his occupying armies land in Japan.

It is probable now that the preliminary conference here will not be held until early next week. The added time will permit the Americans to complete hurried plans for the occupation of Japan.

Will Fly to Japan

A great aerial armada is expected to transport many key officials to Japan, prepared to handle details of occupation. All regular air transport between the Philippines and the Central Pacific has been frozen except for highest priority officials. These include, it is understood, several generals, admirals, and officials slated for important roles in Japan.

The Japanese gave no reason for the inability to send envoys to

Jap Prisoners See No Trouble

WITH 6TH DIVISION, Luzon, Aug. 16 [Thursday]—(AP)—A Japanese naval officer in this division's prisoner of war camp said "There will be no trouble when American soldiers go to Japan if it is the wish of the emperor. The army, navy, and Japanese people exist only by the will of the emperor."

Most prisoners agreed all enlisted men would lay down arms, but expressed doubt that officers would surrender as willingly. Some will commit hara kiri, some will surrender, and some may continue fighting, they predicted.

An infantry sergeant from Yokohama expressed the belief soldiers who had surrendered previously now could return home without feeling shame or disgrace. "With this unconditional surrender [by the emperor] every one is in the same class," he said.

Feel Different in Guam

GUAM, Aug. 16 [Reuters]—Japanese prisoners here do not want to return to their homes. Because the emperor made no mention of the status of prisoners of war in his speech they feel they are still in disgrace. The fact that the emperor has capitulated does not seem to lessen their loss of face.

Manila as MacArthur had directed, but said the flight would be arranged "as soon as possible."

Unofficial observers believed the delay indicated either that there was trouble in Tokyo already or that it was expected, and the Japanese wanted no trouble with the militarists after the occupation.

"Will Take 13 Days"

This would be consistent with Hirohito's rescript request against any hostilities which might endanger peace. It is always possible, however, that the Japanese are stalling for some reason not now clear.

[An imperial rescript has a significance for the Japanese which goes beyond Webster's definition of it as "an official or authoritative order, decree, or the like." The emperor is to the Japanese the direct descendant of the sun goddess and as such is their divine authority. His rescripts are accepted by Nipponese as historical fact and obeyed without question.]

The Japanese message said the order to cease hostilities had been sent to all their forces, but it would require at least 48 hours in Japan, six days in China, Manchuria, Korea, and most of the Philippines, eight days in Bougainville, and probably 12 days in isolated areas of the Philippines and New Guinea, for the order to become effective.

A second message said the imperial family party bound for the continent would leave Tokyo at 9 a. m. today, Japanese time, and the party bound for southern regions would leave tomorrow.

Ask Safe Conduct

The imperial party bound for Manchuria will fly to Keijo [Seoul], capital of Korea, the Japanese said. The party bound for China will leave Tokyo, fly to Shanghai, and then go on north to Nanking, the old Chinese capital. The southern party also will travel by way of Shanghai, stop over one night at Canton and proceed on to Saigon, in French Indo-China.

The Japanese then asked safe conduct. They described the planes bound for Manchuria and China as medium, twin engined low wing monoplane transports. The southbound one is a twin engined medium bomber. All will be marked with a sun flag and a red streamer.

In reply MacArthur assured the Japanese every possible precaution would be taken to insure the safety of "the planes bearing the Japanese representatives on their missions."

MacArthur directed the Japanese to notify him at the earliest moment of the flight of the representatives to the Manila surrender conference.

The Japanese in their reply had said they did not understand the type of plane to be used in the Manila flight and to repeat instructions. MacArthur repeated the designation of the plane as a "Douglas DC-3 type transport, understood to be your navy type Zero model 22 112 D-3 or your army type 100 transport plane K 111 57."

However, MacArthur added that if necessary the Japanese were authorized to change the type of the plane to be used, but must advise his headquarters.

MacArthur had sent a second note to Tokyo Wednesday demanding that the Japanese break off hostilities at once, whereupon the allied forces would be directed to cease firing.

Note Takes 30 Hours

At the same time he told the Japanese their representative of the imperial government must be "accompanied by competent advisers representing the Japanese army, the Japanese navy, and the Japanese air forces."

The Japanese reply arrived shortly after midnight, or over 30 hours after the first message was sent to them by MacArthur. It said:

"We feel greatly embarrassed as it is impossible for us to arrange for a flight of our representatives on Aug. 17 due to a scarcity of time allowed us.

"We will, however, proceed at once with the necessary preparations and notify MacArthur as to the date of flight of such representatives which will take place as soon as possible."

Thailand Quits War

The Japanese radio at Bangkok reported that the regency council of Thailand had declared its declaration of war on the allies invalid in the name of King Ananda Mahidol, who is 20 years old and living in Switzerland.

A British plane carrying surrender leaflets over Burma was fired upon by Japanese forces. Allied commanders in southeast Asia went ahead, however, with arrangements to accept local surrender in Burma, Thailand, Malaya, and the Dutch East Indies.

Scattered fighting also was reported in northern Luzon, where captured Japanese said high officers might refuse to obey the imperial order to cease fighting. Gen. Yamashita, who lost the battle of the Philippines, may be among those officers.

Will Sign on Flagship

Where the final signing of the articles of surrender will take place has not yet been disclosed. A dispatch from Guam indicated it would take place aboard the flagship of Adm. Nimitz.

The dispatch said Nimitz had invited Gen. Spaatz, commander of the strategic air forces, and Lt. Gen. Roy Geiger, commander of the fleet marine forces in the Pacific, to be his guests on the flagship "to witness the surrender to which your forces contributed so much."

MacArthur is expected to be joined by representatives of the British, the Chinese, and the Russians. Adm. Bruce Fraser, commander of the British Pacific fleet, possibly may be Britain's delegate.

Sees Trouble from Fanatics When Yanks Occupy Japan

BY PERCY WHITEING

[Former correspondent in Tokio, who lived 35 years in Japan.]

The emperor's order to all Japanese forces to lay down their arms will almost certainly be obeyed wherever they are stationed, as soon as their commanders are assured that the order comes, in fact, from the emperor. The possibility that our forces of occupation may encounter some trouble, however, cannot be entirely excluded.

The most recent case of military disobedience to the emperor followed the mass assassination of cabinet members and other high official on Feb. 26, 1936, in which the recent premier, Adm. Suzuki, was a near-victim. The assassins, a score of junior army officers, and their tools, 1,300 men of the Tokyo garrison, entrenched themselves in central Tokyo, and the emperor ordered them to return to their barracks.

Denounced as Rebels

The officers refused, upon which they were denounced as rebels, and after the troops had been persuaded to desert them, they were captured, tried, and executed—not for the assassinations, but for disobeying the emperor. This miniature rebellion was not against the emperor but against his cabinet and advisers.

In the early years of Emperor Meiji's reign, the beginning of the modern era and a period of great unrest, there were some armed rebellions, which were suppressed by force. In the present situation, the new government, aware of the tense feeling that will exist, will almost certainly take vigorous measures to enforce rigid obedience.

May Attack Yanks

In the home islands there may be sporadic cases of violence against occupation troops and officials. The Japanese are suffering the bitterest humiliation of their 26 centuries of history, and it is likely that some fanatical individuals will resent this so deeply that they may try to assassinate American personnel or Japanese officials, absolving themselves from disobedience to the emperor on the ground that he has been badly advised—as did the 1936 assassins.

The selection of Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni for the post of premier is evidently due to the fact that with his personal prestige it is expected he can effectively control the home population and the army and naval forces at home and abroad. He is the ablest and most forceful member of the imperial house.

See Chaos in Tokyo

Despite Domei's broadcast denial of any disorders in Tokyo, there evidently is considerable chaos, even if hidden behind closed doors.

Hirohito's rescript accepting the allied Potsdam declaration illustrated considerable opposition to surrender. The cabinet change obviously disrupted the country's normal political life. This was further underlined by the relative delay in naming the new cabinet.

Ordinarily investiture of a new cabinet would precede the appointment of any mission bound for such an important diplomatic undertaking, such as the envoys who are to meet MacArthur.

Noted for Stalling

Japanese officials thruout history are noted for prolonged delays in answering official documents. The principal reason for this is the sense of "face" they believe they gain by forcing the other party to wait, particularly if the incident is to Japan's disadvantage. In surrender, they would be consistent in attempting to gain the last measure of face.

Everywhere on the way to the meeting with MacArthur, the Japanese delegation will see the handiwork of their own forces during the street fight in Manila and the preparations the Americans had made to use the city as a springboard for future operations.

MacArthur's office is in one corner of the battered city hall where shell holes still gape in some walls. Across the street is the tumbled ruins of the legislative building. Near-by is the neatly stacked rubble which marked the outer edge of the Intramuros [walled city].

HIROHITO NAMES WIFE'S UNCLE AS PEACE Ppremier

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Domei dispatch recorded by the FCC last night said the new cabinet of Gen. Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni was sworn in at the imperial palace in Tokyo Friday morning [Japanese time].

The wireless dispatch said that following the investiture ceremony the new ministers returned to the premier's residence and held their first meeting. FCC monitors said Domei had censored without explanation the exact time of the investiture ceremony.

Includes Prince Konoye

An earlier dispatch said Higashi-Kuni had completed his cabinet which included Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who was premier at the time of Japan's attack on China.

Prince Higashi-Kuni himself took the war minister's portfolio in addition to the premiership, the dispatch said. Emperor Hirohito had asked the prince, who is his cousin and the empress' uncle, to form a new government.

Prince Konoye was named minister without portfolio and Mamoro Shigemitsu, former foreign minister, returned to that post, the dispatch added. He will also hold the post of greater East Asia minister. A later Domei broadcast said Konoye would be vice premier and that the choice of premier was made by the emperor without the customary approval of advisers.

Other appointees as listed in the dispatch included: Adm. Mitsumasa Yonai, navy minister; Chikuehei Nakajima, munitions minister; Iwao Yamasaki, home minister; Juichi Tsushima, finance minister; Dr. Chuzo Iwata, justice minister; Kenzo Matsumura, minister of education and welfare; Kotaro Sengoku, minister of commerce; Naoto Kobiyama, minister of transportation; Takatora Ogata, minister without portfolio, president of the board of information and chief secretary of the cabinet; Naokai Murase, president of the legislation board.

May Be War Criminal

Prince Higashi-Kuni, 57, was a candidate for the allied list of Japanese war criminals to be punished. As one of Nippon's war leaders, he was reported to have threatened trial and possible execution for allied airmen forced to bail out of their planes over Nippon.

Three home ministry officials quit Suzuki's government, said another broadcast which listed them as Vice Minister Hirochi Nado, also president of the people's volunteer corps; Ryo Mizuike, director of the police bureau, and Kingo Machimura, Tokyo police chief.

One of five new members appointed to the house of peers today by Emperor Hirohito, on Suzuki's recommendation, declined the honor, another Tokyo broadcast said.

HE'S EMPEROR'S COUSIN

Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni is the ninth son of the late Prince Asahiko Kuni, who was a brother of Emperor Meiji, grandfather of the present Emperor Hirohito, and so is second cousin of Hirohito. Born in 1887, he married his cousin Princess Toshi-ko, youngest daughter of Meiji, in 1915, and so was brother-in-law as well as cousin of Emperor Taisho, father of Hirohito.

Prince Higashi-Kuni's brother was the late Prince Kuniyoshi Kuni, father of Empress Naga-ko, and so he is an uncle of the empress.

The prince established the separate imperial house of Higashi-kuni [Eastern Kuni] in 1906 by order of Emperor Meiji. All Japanese imperial princes have had careers in the army or navy, and Prince Higashi-Kuni's has been in the army, where he had the post of chief of the military aviation board, and later commander in chief of defense headquarters, as well as being a member of the supreme war council. He was educated at the Japanese military academy and the St. Cyr military academy in France. He visited Chicago in 1927, returning from France. His brother and sister-in-law, Prince and Princess Kuniyoshi Kuni, visited Chicago in 1909.

Burocrats Stick to Jobs to Win the Reconversion!

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 [Special]—Overheard today in a capital cocktail lounge, one burocrat said to another: "They won't fire us. The war effort's over, but now we're in the reconversion effort."

JAPAN CHANGES TUNE ON ATOM BOMB INVENTION

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 16 (AP)—The Japanese flow of condemnation of the allies for development and use of the atomic bomb was replaced today by praise for the scientific genius which developed it.

The Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hochi, in an article quoted by radio Tokyo, said "rather than accuse those who used the fateful atomic bomb, it will be more bushidolike to give due credit to the scientific superiority of those who were capable of producing such a weapon.

"It would be much to our good if we can accuse ourselves of being so incapable. The Japanese must now learn to look into the face of reality. There is a reason for victory just as much as there are causes for defeat. We had failed to gauge our limitations and knew not enough of our adversary."

Show No Discontent

Domei agency said the Japanese people, altho overcome with sorrow, showed no feeling of discontent over surrender.

"Reports from various districts indicate that the people remained extremely calm, going about their business as usual. No untoward incidents or emotional outbursts were reported," said the broadcast.

"Practically all Japanese heard the broadcast and all were filled with awe at the thought that they had failed in their duties to his majesty and caused his majesty grave concern. His majesty's decision to end war was also a supreme order which must be obeyed at any cost."

The Domei agency broadcast last night that Emperor Hirohito had issued an imperial rescript to the officers and men of the Japanese military "instructing them to maintain solid unity and strict discipline in their movements."

Live up to Peace Terms

Tokyo radio quoted press reports that food, housing, and reconstruction were Japan's most pressing problems. A Mainichi Shimbun newspaper editorial warned the Japanese to live up to peace terms.

The newspaper warned the people "not to take an attitude that Japan would not have been defeated if a different strategy were employed against the allies, or if the soviets had remained neutral or if the atomic bomb had not been employed against Japan."

Japan's position was "far from satisfactory," the editorial continued, "even without the use of the atomic bombs."

Mediterranean Censorship Stays Until Japan Signs

ROME, Aug. 16—The Mediterranean theater is taking no chances on the Japanese "pulling a fast one" before the surrender is signed, sealed, and delivered. Under a directive received today by public relations officials here from the combined chiefs of staff at Caserta, press censorship will continue until there is no longer the slightest room for doubt.

Reports Invasion Fixed Before Japs' Surrender

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's forces, prior to Japanese acceptance of surrender terms, hoped to accomplish the occupation of Japan by Aug. 15, the day after Nippon's capitulation reply was received, Maj. Gen. Lief Sverdrup, army engineer, told the Rotary club today.

U. OF C. REVEALS STORY OF WORK ON ATOMIC BOMB

Tells of Part It Played in Development

BY ROY GIBBONS

The University of Chicago yesterday disclosed within security limits established by a war department report, the part it has played as a research center in coördinating the work of an army of scientists whose nationwide efforts produced the atomic bomb that blasted Japan into surrender.

Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor, emphasized that altho the university has in no sense been exclusively responsible for success of the research effort, some hint of the enormity of the task may be gained from an army statement that 30 volumes will be required to explain the school's contributions to the atomic project.

Reach Turning Point

As reported by the university what is regarded as the first successful attempt to unleash and control the power of the atom occurred Dec. 2, 1942, when a group of Midway scientists, headed by Dr. Arthur Holly Compton, Nobel prize winner and dean of the school's department of physical sciences, gathered under the west stands of Stagg field.

They had come to witness an experiment and what they saw that day on the Stagg field squash court, a university spokesman explained, marked the turning point in experiments to tap the power of the universe locked in the mighty atom.

Enrico Fermi, another Nobel prize winner and self exiled Italian physicist, had charge of the demonstration recalled on the Midway as "The exciting half way mark" in the long series of experiments.

Fermi Makes Demonstration

What Fermi, who is soon to join the University of Chicago faculty, showed the tense little group of scientists that day was the accomplished fact of man's ambition to cause one atom part to detonate another much after the fashion of firecrackers exploding in sequence. The feat is referred to in the university's report as "a self maintaining nuclear chain reaction pile." Without that experiment, a spokesman for the school asserted, no atom bomb would have been possible.

The end product of Fermi's experiment was plutonium, an element obtained by bombarding uranium with neutrons. The amount of plutonium obtained in the original installation operated by Fermi was so small, however, that experts estimated the process would have to be kept going for 70,000 years to produce enough to power a single atom bomb.

Paves Way for Plant

This calculation which the university says was based on the assumption that one atom bomb would require 100 kilograms [roughly 220 pounds] of plutonium, pointed to the need of an intermediate plant to serve as a pilot installation to produce a few grams of plutonium for experimental purposes. It also led to construction of a large main plant at Hanford, Wash., where plutonium could be produced on a relatively vast scale.

Events leading up to the Stagg field experiment, the university recalls, climaxed the story of the school's research into atomic power extending back into three decades.

In 1920, the report continues, Prof. William D. Harkins of the university faculty predicted that the nucleus of the atom would be found to contain another particle in addition to the atom's positive charge, called a proton. His prediction was verified 12 years later by James Chadwick, an English physicist, who discovered the neutron and won the Nobel prize.

Compton Writes Report

Dr. Compton, who has directed the Midway atomic research under auspices of what has been known as the "metallurgical experiment," is disclosed as the scientist who, on Nov. 6, 1941, wrote the third report of the National Academy of Sciences when it met with officials of the office of scientific research and development in Washington, D. C.

That report, written a month before Pearl Harbor, among other formulae, is revealed to have established that at least two kilograms [4½ pounds] and not more than 100 kilograms [220 pounds] of atomic material must be brought together to produce explosive fission [atomic rupture]. The report also set forth that the explosive energy contained in 2½ pounds of uranium is equivalent to 300 tons of TNT and suggested that from one to 10 tons of U-235 [a uranium twin] would be required to devastate German military objectives.

Thailand War Over

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 16 (AP)—The Japanese operated radio at Bangkok reported today that the regency council of Thailand [Siam] had proclaimed its declaration of war against Britain and the United States "null and void and not binding on the Thai people." The English language broadcast, beamed to the orient, was issued in the name of King Ananda Mahidol, who soon will be 20 years old and has resided in Switzerland thruout the war.

The proclamation said Thailand was resolved that "the friendly relations existing with the united nations prior to Dec. 8, 1941, shall be restored." It contended that "after the Japanese entered the territory of Thailand, the Thai people combatted aggression everywhere and the declaration [of war] was contrary to their wish."

Thailand was taken over by the Japanese as a puppet state and formally declared war against Britain and the United States Jan. 25, 1942. No Siamese troops ever took the field, however.

WAR CASUALTIES HEAVIEST IN AIR, RECORDS REVEAL

America's warriors of the sky, forced into the forefront of battle from the instant Jap planes struck at Pearl Harbor and carrying the brunt of attacks thru most of the fighting to final victory, suffered a percentage of losses far higher than any other branch of service, search of military reports revealed yesterday.

Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the army air forces and former allied supreme commander of air in the Mediterranean area, revealed in part the costly price American airmen have paid when he reported that in 14 months of operation in Italy the 15th air force lost 2,270 heavy bombers and 22,700 men. This, he explained, was equivalent to 115 per cent of strength and added that "few can point to higher casualties."

Losses in Europe 90,000

Gen. Eaker summarized American air losses in Europe at more than 90,000 men with approximately one-third killed, one-third wounded, and one-third missing. This compares with total army casualties listed early in August by War Secretary Stimson as 197,676 killed, 570,766 wounded, 34,734 missing, and 117,741 prisoners of war.

While the navy makes no distinction between its air and sea forces in casualty figures, comparatively heavy losses were sustained by navy and marine airmen. Early last month navy casualties were listed as 51,588 killed, 72,855 wounded, 11,611 missing, and 3,756 prisoners of war.

The damage to the air strength in the Pacific was as severe as it was to the United States fleet when Jap planes struck Pearl Harbor. Gen. Arnold reported that before the Jap attack the army had 1,157 combat planes with 526 of these stationed in Hawaii and the Philippines. Twenty-four hours after the surprise attack on Hickam field in Hawaii and Clark field in Luzon there were 176 planes left. Navy air losses at Pearl Harbor were correspondingly heavy.

Losses Heavy on Luzon

On Luzon the army airmen had 35 B-17 fortresses, 30 medium and 8 light bombers, and 220 fighters. This force was reduced to 17 B-17s and 70 fighters. Fourteen of the B-17s were withdrawn to Australia and sent to Java. The fighters were worn down to 18 planes when Gen. MacArthur retreated to Bataan to make his heroic stand.

Lt. Col. William E. Dyess, who later escaped to give the nation its first first-hand account of Jap brutality, was among the few army flyers who moved to improvised air fields on Bataan and patched the remaining planes until the last two P-38s went on their farewell sortie with bombs tied to their wings, the nation's first improvised fighter bombers.

Thru most of early 1942 navy airmen served in a defensive warfare in the Pacific while army air forces built up strength in England. Naval task forces made quick stabs at the Marshall and Gilbert Islands, in one of which Lt. Edward H. O'Hare rose from the deck of a carrier to blast six Jap planes and set a new navy record for one day's fighting. Other pilots got 10 more, two of the 18 Jap bombers escaping to their island refuge.

Navy fighters delivered their first full body blow when planes from the Lexington encountered a Jap invasion fleet moving southward in the Coral Sea May 4, 1942. For three days planes of the opposing sea forces fought the first battle in naval history in which surface craft did not meet. When the battle wound up on May 8 the Japs were limping northward minus 19 ships.

A month later a navy patrol plane discovered a Jap invasion fleet west of Midway of such immense proportions it was plain the enemy intended the capture of the Hawaiian Islands and possibly an attack on the California coast. Nine fortresses from Midway attacked the fleet and inflicted some damage.

The next day four army torpedo bombers from Midway found the fleet and went in to attack. Two returned. Six marine torpedo bombers hit the Japs and one returned. Sixteen marine dive bombers struck and eight came out. Ten Jap ships were damaged, but the big fleet did not even falter in its advance eastward.

The morning of June 6 planes from a carrier force north of Midway took to the skies. The Japs altered their course during the night and only Lt. Comdr. Waldron, commanding torpedo squadron 8 from the Hornet, guessed correctly. Radioing the enemy's position and without fighter cover or bomber protection of any kind, he ordered an attack.

Thru the protecting screen of destroyers, cruisers and battleships, straight toward the four Jap carriers the 15 planes dove. One by one they were shot down, but not until one of the carriers had been severely damaged and the fleet formation thrown into confusion. Out of the 30 members of Torpedo 8 one survived -Ensign G. H. Gay Jr., who was in the water 24 hours before he was rescued.

Marine Casualties Heavy

Protecting Midway, a tiny speck in the Pacific but of inestimable military value, were 84 marine airmen. At the end of the battle Midway was secure, its runways still serviceable but 17 of the 84 marines were wounded and 38 missing, total casualties of 55. All 84 were decorated.

Kenney's 5th air force developed skip bombing, perfected transport of troops by air and then supplied them by air. Kenney's planes in March, 1943, found a large Jap convoy in the Bismarck sea and smashed it, inflicting the loss of a score of ships and 12,700 officers and men on the Japs while losing one Flying Fortress and 13 men.

Destruction of German military objectives also was destructive to American planes and airmen. In an attack on the Messerschmitt plant at Regensburg on Aug. 17, 1943, 24 Flying Fortresses were lost. In an assault on Stuttgart on Sept. 6, 45 of 338 Fortresses were shot down.

Lt. Gen. Spaatz, commander of the 8th air force, reported last January that in three years the losses of the 8th included 5,000 bombers and 2,500 fighters and more than 50,000 men.

JAPS REPORTED READY TO ACCEPT CHINESE TERMS

U. S. Seeks to Prevent Civil War with Reds

CHUNGKING, Aug. 17 [Friday]—(AP)—Reliable reports said today that the commander of all Japanese forces in China had sent word to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek accepting Chiang's terms for arranging surrender of the enemy.

Gen. Patrick J. Hurley

It also was learned on good authority that United States Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley was prepared to fly to Yenan in an attempt to induce Communist Leader Mao Tzetung to come to Chungking to discuss settlement of differences between the Communists and the central government which hold the threat of civil war.

Red Operations Reported

Unofficial but reliable reports said Chinese communist forces were persisting in military operations north of the Yellow river aimed at establishing control of Tsingtao, Tientsin, and other vital points and that communist underground fighters had infiltrated into Shanghai.

The Communists themselves announced they were nearing the ancient Chinese capital of Peiping. They have dominated the hills surrounding the city for some time.

As for ending fighting with the Japanese, Lt. Gen. Yasugi Okamura was said to have agreed to send a representative to Yushan in northeastern Kiangsi province to take orders from Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Chinese field commander.

Okamura reportedly told Chiang that the bulk of Japanese troops had already withdrawn from Nanking, where the Chinese plan to reëstablish their capital, and that a small force of Japanese was left in the city to maintain peace and order until arrival of Chinese national troops.

Asks End of Lend-Lease

Ho is expected to insist that Okamura instruct his troops to surrender only to duly accredited allied representatives, thus preventing them from turning over their arms or themselves to Chinese Communists.

Gen. Chu Teh, communist general, has refused to comply with Chiang's order forbidding the Communists to accept surrender of either Japanese personnel or equipment.

[A broadcast today from communist headquarters in Yenan said Gen. Chu Teh had called on the United States to halt lend-lease to Chiang's government in order to lessen "the danger of civil war in China."

U. S. to Aid Redeployment

American commanders in China disclosed that United States army air force units will undertake large scale redeployment of Chinese troops to facilitate disarming and interning of the Japanese and carrying out of the surrender terms.

Use of American planes in the redeployment was disclosed by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commanding general of United States forces in China, and his air commander, Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer.

Stratemeyer said his planes would be used to escort Chinese dignitaries to formal Japanese surrender ceremonies and in other missions facilitating the peace. The planes and personnel will be protected, he added, even if it means shooting, but the American personnel has been instructed not to fire first.

Gen. Wedemeyer said he intends to move the headquarters of the United States forces in the China theater to Shanghai. He hinted that the transfer to Shanghai, at last reports still enemy occupied, might be soon.

The Chungking radio today quoted the Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao as making the unconfirmed assertion that American troops had landed in Shanghai.

Wedemeyer said that lend-lease deliveries to China will cease everywhere by law when the peace is formalized.

HALSEY VESTED WITH INSIGNIA OF A BRITISH KNIGHT

ABOARD THE BRITISH FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, Aug. 16 [Reuters]—Adm. Bruce Fraser, commander in chief of the British Pacific fleet, today on behalf of King George VI. invested Adm. Halsey, commander of the United States 3d fleet, with the insignia of knight of the order of the British empire.

The simple ceremony took place in bright sunshine on the veranda deck of the American flagship in the presence of Adm. Bernard Rawlings, commander of the British task force operating with the 3d fleet, and joint staff officers. The fleet was spread as far as the eye could see on all sides, steaming peacefully across a lake calm sea.

"I can perceive of no greater contribution to the future of the world than that our two navies should make a habit of meeting and working together from time to time," Adm. Rawlings said.

MANILA TO PLAY VITAL ROLE AS ASIATIC BASE

MANILA, Aug. 16 (AP)—The great port and supply facilities established here for the invasion that wasn't necessary will be taxed by more extensive demands during early days of peace, officers said today. Brig. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, commander of the Manila base, said this port "will assume an even greater importance now that Japan has capitulated."

Manila will be the base for the dispatch and supply of Asiatic occupation troops. It will be the center for redeployment of other troops and for sending home war prisoners and internees rescued from Japan, China and other points.

A vast network of radio and courier communications linking all parts of Asia will center in Manila. Engineers and equipment will go from here to repair air fields, harbors and dock facilities in key cities.

Vigilante Leader Fined in First British Action

LONDON, Aug. 16—The first court actions against vigilantes in Britain today cost the leader of a group of Bournemouth ex-service men who have been installing the families of service men in empty houses, a fine of $200. Melville Jones was accused of taking the law into his own hands regarding houses which were being considered by the town council for housing needy families. The prosecution charged that he took possession of two empty houses and installed families who subsequently had to be evicted.

Customers Ask . . .

WHY Do Fannie May Shops Stay Open Such Short Hours?

To Have Our Customers find a "SOLD OUT" sign on the front door, or to have them enter the shop only to find empty baskets—candy all sold! We think, and most of our customers agree, that it's better to just close up shop when the candy is gone for the day!

Of course we could stay open longer hours by making more candy—but that would mean cutting quality—using inferior ingredients—and that we will not do! As long as the name Fannie May appears on your box of candy, you'll know that it's genuine Fannie May of pre-war purity, freshness, and quality!

So until final Victory brings an end to rationing and help shortages, please be patient with our short store hours!

WAR TRIAL PLAN DENOUNCED AS LAW VIOLATION

Atty. Gault Tells Perils in Jackson Scheme

American participation in the mass trial of German war leaders under the plan outlined by Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme court is without precedent in international law, violates fundamental precepts of American legal procedure, and may result in future vengeance on American military leaders, P. F. Gault, Chicago attorney and former lieutenant colonel assigned to the judge advocate's office, warned yesterday in a privately printed pamphlet.

Gault declared that the Jackson report on trials of war criminals, submitted to President Truman, "cites no precedents and fails to reveal how it reconciles its proposals and conclusions with the law and customs of war and the principles of international law as heretofore established and applied."

Danger in "Noisy Chase"

"There is a real danger," said the lawyer, who served as an artillery major in France in World War I, "that the present noisy chase after those charged with political crimes will divert attention from methodical and relentless efforts to ferret out and punish actual war crimes.

"No authority is even suggested for the proposed program of placing on trial individuals for alleged crimes and atrocities committed since 1933 within Germany, by Germans and others domiciled therein, and there is none," Gault added. "To create such a standard of conduct to be enforced by allied tribunals would be legislation after the event with a vengeance."

Decries Ex Post Facto Laws

Gault insisted that for prosecution of war crimes under the law and customs of war "there is no occasion to invent ex post facto legal standards or create an international kangaroo court; that for orderly trial and punishment of war crimes as defined by established and commonly accepted law the army needs neither advice nor instruction from civilians."

"If an individual's life or liberty is to be taken," Gault pointed out, "it would seem that his conduct should be measured by a standard having universal application. It does not take a long memory to recall that, after control of one of the allied states was seized by those now in power, its former ruler and his helpless family were cruelly destroyed; and it is notorious that atrocities, concentration camps, purges, forced labor, banishment to Siberia, mass transfers of peoples, and kindred practices are associated with the group presently ruling that great country.

Weapons of Totalitarians

"It is common knowledge that such practices are characteristic of any totalitarian regime and essential instruments in keeping it in power."

Commenting on newspaper reports that war criminals are likely to be given a mass trial, Gault asserted "such procedure is suggestive of soviet jurisprudence and trial technique. It violates all fundamental legal concepts of this country, and it would amount to a legal travesty for officers of the United States to be associated with such an undertaking.

Dangerous Precedent Set

"The plan of procedure outlined in the report [by Jackson] will create dangerous precedents tending to place on the shoulders of military men responsibility for the mistakes or misdeeds of the government to which they must render allegiance.

"It is always within the power of the conqueror to deal with the defeated as the aggressor. News reports assert it is contemplated to execute or imprison the members of the German general staff.

"On that theory of law, should the United States ever lose a major war—and God forbid!—the general staff and especially the war plans division would be particularly vulnerable—and corresponding navy personnel would be in danger of being imprisoned or executed as war criminals."

PEACE ENVOYS TO GET VIEW OF OKINAWA FIELDS

Will Be Flown Over from Ie Island

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

IE ISLAND, Aug. 17 [Friday].—From the moment their white planes leave their homeland, Japanese officials when they come here en route to Manila to sign an armistice will be escorted by 5th air force fighters.

Three air force generals, Maj. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, deputy commander of the 5th air force,

Maj. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe [left], Brig. Gen. Thomas D. White, and Brig. Gen. Fred H. Smith Jr. [right].

Brig. Gen. Frederic H. Smith Jr., commander of the 5th fighter command, and Brig. Gen. Thomas White, commander of the 7th air force, will meet the Jap envoys here.

The Nipponese signers will be immediately put aboard a four engined C-54 plane of the air transport command for the second half of their flight to Manila. The big silver plane will make the final leg unescorted. It will land at Nichols field outside Manila.

Will Circle Okinawa

At the air strip here the Japs will be joined by Col. Harnes Estes, San Antonio, Tex., commander of the 35th fighter group, who will accompany them to Manila.

As the plane leaves Ie Island it will circle this island's three airfields and then fly the length of nearby Okinawa, where the Japanese will get a complete view of the 19 airfields which have already been completed there.

Twelve P-38 fighter planes and one B-25 Mitchell bomber will pick up the Jap peace plane as it leaves Kyushu. The bomber will be present to carry on long distance radio communications. Half way here the 13 planes will be relieved by 13 more. And off Okinawa a third group will assume the escort.

Air Field to Be Cleared

One of the fighters will land on the middle of the three Ie Island air fields. The Jap plane will follow in. The two planes will taxi to the waiting C-54. The air field area will be cleared except for receiving generals and the press.

The generals will ask the identity of the Jap envoys and then escort them to the transport.

OPEN NAVY QUIZ ON SINKING OF INDIANAPOLIS

GUAM, Aug. 16 (AP)—A navy board of inquiry has begun an investigation of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis on July 30, including the reasons for the delay in search for the ship until after it was overdue more than 54 hours. The Indianapolis was lost in the Philippine sea from enemy action, with 100 per cent casualties to her 1,196 officers and men. Five were officially listed as dead, 875 as missing. The remainder were wounded or suffered from exposure.

WAR ON RAPISTS MAPPED AS SEX CRIMES MOUNT

Law enforcement officials and the Chicago Crime commission yesterday expressed concern over the increasing number of rapes and other sex felonies in the Chicago area, which they attributed to a general lowering of moral standards because of war.

Virgil Peterson, operating director of the crime commission, predicted that sex crimes would continue to increase as a result of post-war conditions. He called for the utmost vigilance on the part of law enforcement officials to keep the number to a minimum and to assure prompt capture and punishment of offenders. He also urged heavier sentences for sex offenders.

Assails Light Sentences

Under military law, rape is punishable by death. The Illinois criminal code provides a sentence of from one year to life.

"All sex offenses have been on the increase for at least a year and unless police increase their vigilance I expect them to go on increasing for a while," said Peterson. "Sentences in Cook county courts have been too light."

Pointing out that rape cases in Chicago increased from 167 in 1943 to 264 in 1944, the greatest percentage of increase for any similar crime in a like period, Peterson recommended greater use by the courts of the sexual psychopathic act. It provides that a sex crime repeater shall be committed to a state institution until he can prove he no is longer a sex psychopath. Then he must stand trial for the sex offense for which he was indicted.

Investigators Kept Busy

Sam Papanek, assistant state's attorney in charge of the sex bureau, also reported that all sex felonies are on the increase, and that his staff of two social service workers and a secretary has all it can do to keep up with its investigative work.

In the first six months of this year, police records show 175 rapes or statutory rapes and 54 rape attempts, compared with 128 rapes or statutory rapes and 52 attempts in the corresponding period last year. Fifty one of last year's rape cases were solved. Thus far this year, 28 have been solved.

The official records, however, reveal only part of the actual number of rapes or attempted rapes, officials said, because many women fail to report them, fearing publicity.

Assert Fear Is Unfounded

They pointed out that this fear is unfounded, because newspapers almost never use the names of rape victims. They urged all women molested by sex offenders to report the circumstances promptly to aid in clearing up the case, and also to protect other women.

Evanston police yesterday still were without a clew to the identity of the Negro who last Tuesday raped an Evanston school teacher in her apartment on Clyde av. after entering thru a window.

Waukegan police and Lake county deputy sheriffs said they were conducting an intensive search for a blond man wearing a blue shirt and bell bottom trousers who severely beat and raped a 20 year old student nurse in the school yard of the Holy Child convent, across from Victory Memorial hospital. Rewards totaling $600 have been offered for the rapist's conviction.

William B. Starr, 21, a salesman living at 809 Westmoreland av., Waukegan, is in the Lake county jail awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with raping a 25 year old WAVE from the Great Lakes Naval Training center three times the night of July 15.

ARMADA OF 133 SHIPS HIT JAPS, NIMITZ REVEALS

GUAM, Aug. 16 (AP)—More than a million tons of fighting steel—133 combat ships including nine fast and powerful battleships and 20 great aircraft carriers — comprised the great allied armada that destroyed Japan's once proud navy and 1,500 of her planes, Adm. Nimitz revealed today.

For the first time the admiral identified the ships of the line which under Adm. Halsey ranged up and down Japan's coast, bombarding her cities, leveling her factories and blasting her air fields with 1,500 planes from its flattops.

America's newest and most powerful men o' war—105 of them—and 28 British combat vessels made up the fighting line.

Toll of 1,000 Ships

More than 1,500 Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged in the final weeks this great 3d fleet—also known as task force 38—harried the enemy's seaboard. It also took a toll of nearly 1,000 Nipponese ships and small craft — sunk, beached, burned, or damaged. Immense damage was done to war plants, industrial areas, air fields, and other targets.

A light American surface unit was the only vessel damaged in the 37 days of operations, broken at times by raging typhoons.

In all, there were eight American and one British battleship in Halsey's armada, 16 American and four British aircraft carriers, 19 American and six British cruisers, and 62 American and 17 British destroyers. In the fleet's train were scores of tankers, ammunition ships, escort carriers, destroyer escorts, and miscellaneous supply vessels. In addition, submarines of the Pacific fleet gave support with their offensive operations, search patrols, and rescue actions.

Praises Service Forces

In a statement accompanying the honor roll, the admiral of the fleet paid tribute to the tireless service forces which moved supplies across the Pacific and delivered them at sea to the fighting craft.

Topping the roll of fighting craft so proudly announced were such mighty battle wagons as the Iowa, Missouri, and Wisconsin—biggest and most powerful of the American navy. With the New Jersey, which was not with Halsey at this time, they form the 45,000 ton Iowa class. Their 16 inch rifles helped to lay waste military targets near the Japanese coast.

Other American battleships were the Massachusetts, Indiana, South Dakota, North Carolina, and Alabama. The British battleship in this bombardment force was H. M. S. King George V.

16 United States Carriers

American carriers from whose decks man made typhoons swept against the enemy homeland included 10 of the 27,000 ton Essex class and six of the Independence class. Illustrious names of battle fame, in this and other wars, are in the list—the Lexington, Essex, Bennington, Hancock, Randolph, Ticonderoga, Yorktown, Shangri-La, Bon Homme Richard, Wasp, San Jacinto, Independence, Belleau Wood, Monterey, Bataan, and Cowpens.

British carriers were the H. M. S. Formidable H. M. S. Implacable, H. M. S. Victorious, and H. M. S. Indefatigable.

The American cruiser column included the heavy type Quincy, Chicago, Boston, and St. Paul—hard-hitting vessels of 13,000 tons, 33 knot speed, and nine eight inch rifles each.

Four Heavy Cruisers

Eleven others were of the 10,000 ton class and four of 6,000 tons each but capable of speeds greater than 38 knots. They are the Springfield, Topeka, Atlanta, Dayton, Oklahoma City, Flint, Pasadena, Astoria, Wilkes-Barre, Duluth, and Amsterdam.

Four—the San Juan, San Diego, Tucson, and Oakland—are of 6,000 tons and capable of 38 knots plus. The latter four are specially armored anti-aircraft vessels.

Most of the screening force of American destroyers were of the war time Fletcher class, around 2,100 tons. With their speeds of around 40 knots, they are probably the fastest combat vessels afloat.

JAPS DECIDED TO QUIT BEFORE A-BOMB: LANZA

Calls Blasting by Planes, Fleet Decisive Factor

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA

The general opinion seems to be that Japan's surrender was due to the surprising effects of the atomic bomb, coupled with the entry of Russia into the war. The first atomic bomb dropped on Aug. 6. Russia declared war on the 8th; the second atomic bomb was dropped on the 9th, and Japan's surrender offer came on the 10th.

It is not certain that these closely following events were the sole cause of Japan's surrender. It will probably be some time before all the facts are known. Present evidence is that the atomic bomb and Russia's entry into the war merely hastened an end that was coming in any case within a few days. It is indicated now that Japan had decided to surrender as early as June 28.

On that day, the Japanese premier convened the elder statesmen. He reported that there were indications that Russia was about to enter the war. Japan had a nonaggression treaty with Russia which does not expire until April 5, 1946. It contained a clause allowing for denunciation on one year's notice. Russia gave such notice on April 13 of this year at which time the treaty had less than a year to run. The wording of the denunciation was such that it was clear Russia would not wait a year.

Proposal To Moscow

In view of this situation, the elder statesmen agreed that surrender was necessary. It was decided to submit a surrender proposal. This was sent to Moscow, and given to the Russian government with request that it be considered at Potsdam. The terms offered were,

1. The emperor to remain head of the government.
2. Japan to retain a limited army and navy as might be authorized by the allies.
3. Japan to retain Korea and Formosa, besides the home islands.
4. Officials designated by the allies as war criminals would commit suicide, thereby avoiding any necessity for trials.

As is now known, Japan made no claim to retaining Manchuria. It is presumed that she intended to retain her half of Karafuto [Saghalin] and the Kurile and Ryuku islands.

The only reply that Japan received to her proposals was the Potsdam declaration of July 26, calling for unconditional surrender, or prompt and utter destruction.

Japs Relied on Public

Japan appears to have thought that public pressure in the United States might help her and thus she took the precaution to broadcast her latest surrender proposal, so that everybody knew about it before the surrender letter had even been received in Washington. This forced the allies to conduct their negotiations openly. Japan's offer was accepted, her surrender being unconditional, except that the allies have agreed to allow the emperor to remain.

The effects of the two atomic bombs are only partially known. It will be necessary to wait until Hiroshima and Nagasaki have been entered by Americans and a detailed examination has been made. The destruction accomplished was frightful and vast. It did have an effect on the elder statesmen.

Air Force Did It

As it appears now, the main reason for Japan's surrender was the extraordinary punishment being administered by the air forces since mid-June.

This air and naval attack was made possible by American capture of Iwo, and later of Okinawa. Those two islands made it possible to furnish bases needed for the attack on Japan. The fall of those islands was the critical blow which insured the downfall of Japan. All honor to the men who fought and died for Iwo and Okinawa.

That's Jim's idea for scaring away those burglars in the neighborhood!

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, Aug. 16—On the day after the war ended these were some of the things that happened on Okinawa:

The KP left a couple of pans unwashed outside the kitchen. The mess sergeant jumped on him with a tongue trained these many months. O, Mac, the war's over," the KP said.

"None o' your lip. You can still get 10 years in Leavenworth," the sergeant said. The KP went after some more hot water.

* *

Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, who was already getting some of the thousand Super Forts earmarked for his 8th air force here, said the big planes may get a big job in any international police force. Based here or elsewhere in the far east, they could serve like the riot wagon in a city, moving swiftly to any trouble spot.

* *

A group of GI's was sitting around the radio and every word that came from the loudspeaker made them madder and madder. The United States was celebrating. Chicago was high. New York was high. Seattle, Cleveland, Los Angeles—everybody was high and hilarious. Everybody but these guys. True, a few nights ago they celebrated in their own way, which was shooting off quite a bit of ammunition. But after all that wasn't very effective celebration, and now the people at home were doing it the right way.

"Sort of reminds me of a track race," one GI said. "The guy runs and wins and then flops exhausted while all the spectators celebrate." When the radio said even Kansas was high, the GI's said, "The hell with it," turned off the radio and went downhill to the movie.

Okinawa is being changed from a bombing base to a jumping off place for the occupation of Japan. Bombers are vanishing to rear bases, their places being taken by transports to rush in supplies. Whether the first occupation troops will go by sea or air is a big debate.

Some troops who think they might be among the first are jittery. They wonder if some Japanese, who struck before the opening gong of the war, might try to get in some last punches even after the final gong is sounded. Troops have seen so much Jap fanaticism and have built up such a distrust, it's hard to look on the Japs without expecting shenanigans.

* *

Like flies trying to get thru a window screen, a bunch of correspondents are buzzing around hoping to find a way to get to Japan. Of course, all will get there some day, but somehow the newspaper people like to be places early. Almost every hour brings some new rumor that such and such unit is going to be the first into Japan. The press is pulling out its hair and to bystanders it must be very funny, but to the press it's not funny at all.

* *

Soldiers were just beginning to talk about mass discharges when the announcement came from Washington that it would take a year and a half to get the first 5,000,000 or so out of the army. A year and a half is a long time. Why, that's even longer than some people get for burglary. But with the usual what-the-hell attitude born from years in the army, they are asking one another how they are going to like living in Japan or China or Korea or any other oriental spot.

CANADA SAYS IT HAS CIVILIAN BUYERS FOR ITS WAR FACTORIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16—Every specially built war plant in Canada suitable for civilian industry can be disposed of immediately for civilian purposes, C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supplies, said today.

"We have far more applications than buildings," he explained. "There is a great influx of industries from the United States. Many of them are already here and many more have applications for buildings."

He cited the case of the huge John Inglis small arms plant in Toronto. Half of it has already been diverted to peace time uses, and still, he said, "we have as many applications for the balance of the plant for multiple plants, that we won't be able to meet half of them."

Br-r! Temperature Dips to Low Record for Aug. 16

The city experienced the lowest temperature for any Aug. 16 on record yesterday when the thermometer registered 55.4 degrees at 5:10 a. m., Forecaster H. S. Kenny said. The previous low was 55.6 in 1927.

LITTLE MAN AND HIS LUCKY DICE BROKE THE JAPS

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 16—The sudden collapse of the Japanese war machine is a personal triumph for a little man with four stars on his shoulders, a cocky grin on his tanned face, and a treasured pair of lucky dice in his watch pocket. His name is George Churchill Kenney.

On a black day in 1942 when it seemed that despite the brilliance of Gen. MacArthur only a miracle could save Australia from invasion by the onrushing Japs, it was Kenney's newly armed 5th air force that provided that miracle.

Altho Kenney's untried air force was pitifully weak in comparison with the task that confronted it—so weak that it was known with grim humor as a "shoe string air force"—the kids who flew his bombers, fighters, and unarmed transport planes had plenty of confidence, not only in Kenney but in his deputy commander, Maj. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead, and, even more important, the air men had plenty of what sports writers call "moxie," and the man in the street calls "guts."

Destroy 11,900 Planes

Kenney's headquarters said today his air units destroyed 11,900 Japanese aircraft and probably destroyed 4,676 more.

"At each phase of the long campaign allied air forces shot down the best pilots capable of defending the Japanese homeland," the statement said. "At Wewak and Rabaul the Nip lost the cream of his air power; in the Philippines he lost the last of his air power which could have defended Japan."

The news release said forces under Kenney sank more than 1,700,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged nearly 3,000,000 tons.

"Units of the 5th air force don't know what it is to live in a camp they completed," the report continued. "There were always orders to pull the unit out and push it forward."

Rabaul Skip-Bombed

The 5th air force was officially activated Sept. 3, 1942, and soon showed the Japs, who then held air superiority, that the superiority was only on paper.

In October the Flying Fortresses came into Rabaul harbor — the strongest Jap stronghold outside of Truk—in the first skip bombing attack the world had ever known.

Next month with the Japs coming over the Owen Stanley mountains toward Port Moresby, Gen. Kenney was called into a conference with MacArthur. Transports and fortresses flew the whole 32d division, plus Australian troops, to New Guinea, landing on jungle air strips and halting the Jap advance for the second time since the southwest Pacific campaign began.

Units of the 5th air force, in accordance with Gen. MacArthur's oft repeated cry: "Advance the bomber line," had been based at Port Moresby as early as August, 1942, but were in such desperate need of more planes that at the time their largest possible bomber formation was six B-17s.

Seeks Jap Targets

Altho a weaker man would have hoarded his planes against the possibility that the Japs would make an invasion attempt on Australia, Kenney boldly sent his handful of planes ranging far and wide in search of Jap targets, whether on land, afloat, or in the air.

He had no reserve planes and once said, grimly, "My reserves are the planes that get back."

His "boys," young men like Ed Larner or the late Ken McCuller, were perfecting the skip bombing technique while they and many more of their heroic stamp were strafing at such low levels that "they had to go around the cows," and were dive bombing with such iron nerve that some of the planes ripped thru treetops or scraped their tails in the sand while pulling out of the dives.

Flies Troops to Wau

Flight leaders of the caliber of Dick Ellis or Jock Henebry of Plainfield, Ill., led their ships in treetop raids in August, 1943, that wrecked Jap air power at Wewak, killing Jap mechanics as they worked on planes being readied for a giant strike against Port Moresby.

Wherever planes could help Kenney threw them in. Earlier in 1943 it was his troop carriers that took Australian troops into Wau, landing on one end of the strip while fighting was going on at the other. In March of the same year a 22 ship convoy heading toward New Guinea with Jap reënforcements was sighted in the Bismarck sea and went flaming to the bottom—22 of them.

Kenney somehow has the gift for inspiring men to do slightly more than their best.

"Owns the Air"

Toward the war's end, of course, Kenney, who had spent every spare moment screaming for more planes—he once confided that if he had a million he would demand a million more—had undoubted superiority not only in quality, as always, but now numerically. Kenney "owned the air."

His 5th air force, supported by Australian and Dutch flyers whose units also were under Kenney's command, had met the Japs on any terms any time or any place and had always beaten them. Wherever the infantry went the air force supported them. Wherever a landing was made in accordance with Gen. MacArthur's "island hopping" policy the air corps always played a major role.

Kenney, since June, has been commander of the far east air forces comprising the 5th, the 13th, and the 7th. But there is little doubt in his heart that the 5th will always have top billing.

Knowing Kenney, there also seems better than an even chance that Kenney sometimes is wistful when remembering the days when heroism, quick thinking, and careful planning had to make up for his lack of planes.

CHICAGOAN IS GUNNER ON LAST SUPER FORT TO SMASH AT JAPAN

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 315TH BOMBARDMENT WING, Guam, Aug. 16—A Chicago boy, Sgt. Robert S. Pizer, 3172 Sheridan rd., was a member of the crew of the Super Fortress "Uninvited" that today was credited with being the last of the bombers to smash at Japan.

Pizer, a gunner, and his 11 companions dumped a load of eight tons of bombs on the oil refinery at Tzuchizaki, 100 miles north of Tokyo, just six and a half hours before President Truman announced Japan's unconditional surrender on Tuesday.

The "Uninvited," commanded by Capt. Daniel Q. Trask, Cottage Grove, Ore., was the last of the 315th wing to leave North field, Guam, for what proved to be the final stroke of the war. Seventeen hours and two minutes after the takeoff it returned to its home field and the wing's officers determined it was the last to unload its bombs on the target.

ARGENTINE RIOT IS TOUCHED OFF BY VICTORY FETE

Pro-Allies and Fascists Clash in Buenos Aires

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 16—Buenos Aires crowds, acclaiming the Japanese surrender, Tuesday and Wednesday clashed with gangs of "Nationalists"—nazi and fascist sympathizers—with the result that four persons were killed and 103 injured.

The demonstrators, chanting such slogans as "Congress, yes! Dictators, no! Elections, yes! Decrees, no!" displayed enthusiasm as they marched thru the main thorofares doing nothing provocative beyond booing as they passed the premises of German firms such as Siemens or Schukerts. But they developed an ugly attitude when they came face to face with the Nationalist gangs shouting: "Argentines, yes! Yankees, no! Yerbamate [South American herb tea], yes! Whisky, no! Peron, yes! Democracy, no!"

Free for All Fights

Free for all scrimmages occurred at various street corners. The Nationalists fared badly at the hands of the overwhelming number of their adversaries. However, the numerical strength of the Nationalists, among whom, it is said, were a number of mercenaries, surprised the onlookers.

With their cudgels, stones, and brickbats the Nationalists smashed the windows of the newspapers, La Prensa, La Nacion, and La Razon, as well as those of department stores and other places of business.

Oppose Peron Regime

It was interesting to note that during the demonstration cheers were predominantly in favor of the faction opposed to Vice President Peron and for those against dictatorships in general. The military cadets, usually generously applauded, met with a cold reception, presumably because they represented the government.

Observers in Buenos Aires reported pessimism over the possible outcome of the victory demonstrations. One conclusion was that Peron would reimpose the recently lifted state of siege if the rioting continues. Except in a few instances of extreme violence police did not interfere.

Cancels Army Leaves

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 16 (AP)—War Minister Juan Peron today canceled army leaves to prevent conscript soldiers from becoming involved anew in street riots in connection with the victory celebration of the last two days.

U. S. BATTLESHIP INDIANA CHASED JAPS 180,000 MI.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—Chasing the Japanese 180,000 miles between Guadalcanal and their home islands, the battleship Indiana participated in seven major bombardments and her gunners shot down at least 15 enemy planes.

The Indiana's career, which began in November, 1942, was without reportable damage, altho she was struck by a crashing Japanese torpedo plane during the battle of the Phillipine sea, June 19, 1944, the navy disclosed tonight.

The Indiana returned to the United States for routine overhaul only once since joining the Pacific fleet in 1942.

In February, 1945, she sailed within 60 miles of the Japanese coastline in the first Tokyo raids.

GUARD BREAKS UP V-DAY RIOT WITH BAYONETS

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 16 [Special]—A company of the Massachusetts state guard with fixed bayonets tonight dispersed a crowd of 2,000 persons after rioting developed when police arrested a former soldier still in uniform.

The former soldier, Ralph de Souza, 23, and three civilians were held on charges of assault and battery, inciting a riot, and resisting arrest.

Extra detachments of navy shore patrolmen from the New Bedford naval auxiliary air facility, and military police were summoned to aid in dispersing the crowd. De Souza was arrested when he refused to get down from an automobile parked in the middle of the street.

Marriage Mixup

[Associated Press Wirephotos]

Norman Martin and his bride, the former Beverly Rowe, wed in elopement to South Paris, Me.

Elizabeth Furbish

Gorham, Me., Aug. 16 (AP)—Norman A. Martin Jr., 21, a dairy farmer, revealed tonight he had eloped with Beverly Rowe, 21, Bar Mills, Me., daughter of a wealthy dog food manufacturer, while another girl waited in the church.

Martin and Beverly were married yesterday in South Paris by a trial justice while the church in Westbrook was being prepared for Martin's wedding to Elizabeth R. Furbish, 21, daughter of Westbrook's mayor.

A few hours later 450 guests assembled to attend the marriage of Martin and Miss Furbish. They waited 15 minutes beyond the appointed time and the pastor announced there would be no ceremony.

Martin said today that he had let the Furbish family "know" before the wedding, but Furbish said he did not know until 2 p. m.—the wedding was scheduled for 4 p. m.—that something was amiss. He said an anonymous telephone caller informed his sister-in-law that "Norman Martin won't be at the house."

Martin said he and Beverly decided to elope because "we were in love."

CARRIER STRIKE HALTS PAPERS IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP)—Three St. Louis newspapers did not publish today and tonight because of a strike of paper carriers who set up a picket line which pressmen and flyboys affiliated with the same AFL union would not cross.

The Post-Dispatch and the Star-Times, both afternoon papers, missed all three daily editions today an dthe Globe-Democrat, a morning paper, did not publish.

Carriers on June 16 voted to strike because of a disagreement with the newspapers over their demands for collective bargaining privileges as employes. A month later they voted for union representation after the national labor relations board ruled they were newspaper employes.

The St. Louis Publishers' association contends that carriers who own and operate their routes are merchants and not employes.

MANDEL BROTHERS

GREEKS REJOICE, SMOTHER YANK IN KISSES, GARLIC

BY CLAY GOWRAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 16—The official end of the Japanese war caught this correspondent far at sea aboard a Greek destroyer beating its way among the Cyclades Islands of the Aegean in a violent gale which at times threw heavy spray clear over the bridge.

I was on the bridge beside the captain when a little radio man rushed up and shouted excited Greek into the skipper's ear. The next second the big bearded captain smashed me across the back with a hand like a ham, crunched my knuckles with a mighty hand shake, and yelled: "Japan, she is finished, she has surrendered."

Fort Ablaze with Light

Athens' port city of Piraeus was a spectacular sight when we reached the harbor at midnight last night. Anchored merchantmen and warships combed the skies with searchlights. Rocket after rocket fired from their decks burst yellow, green, and red overhead. Every ship in the harbor from the smallest tugboat to the big Greek cruiser, Averoff, seemed to have its whistles wide open.

Motor transportation from the harbor to Athens was hopeless. Apparently every taxi had been commandeered and they sped past loaded inside and out with shooting, cheering Greeks. Finally we took a subway train. It, too, was crammed with celebrating Greeks who sang American and British songs with great spirit in atrocious English.

Smothered in Kisses

Every few minutes they would spy me—the lone uniformed American present. Then I would be smothered by men and women with garlicky, winey kisses.

Today Athens was continuing the victory celebration in the blistering midsummer heat. Thousands of flags of Greece, Russia, England, and the United States fly along the main street. This morning a parade formed in Constitution square and marched thru the central city led by a Greek military band.

As part of the victory observance the Parthenon and the famous temple of the "Wingless Victory" atop the Acropolis will be illuminated by hundreds of flood lights each night for a week.

AMG Lays Down Rules for Berlin Trade Unions

LONDON, Aug. 16 [Reuters]—The American military government in Germany has laid down conditions under which trade unions may be established in the GI zone of occupation, the Luxemburg radio said tonight. Employers are forbidden to influence the election of shop committees and union officials, Nazis cannot be candidates, and applications for formation of shop committees may be submitted by any one provided he is supported by 25 per cent of a plant's workers.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 17—David Crockett

TODAY marks the 139th birthday of David Crocket, American frontiersman and one of the 180 brave men who perished in defense of the Alamo March 6, 1836.

Usually referred to as Davy instead of David, Crockett was born Aug. 17, 1786, in Hawkins county, Tenn., the son of a Revolutionary war soldier.

In San Antonio, Tex., the Alamo, restored and preserved, stands today as a landmark in American history testifying to the courage of Crockett, James Bowie and other companions who gave their lives there in the war for Texas' independence.

When Crockett was 13 he ran away from home, but returned three years later to work on neighborhood farms to help pay off his father's debts. He married while still in his teens and turned to farming on a rented piece of land. Unable to earn a living from the soil, he moved a few years later with his wife and two children to Lincoln county, Tenn., near the Alabama border.

He preferred hunting, trapping and life in the out of doors to less venturesome occupations, and in the Creek war of 1813-'14 served as a scout in Andrew Jackson's army.

His wife died in 1815, leaving him with three children. He soon remarried and moved to a settlement 80 miles away, where he was appointed justice of the peace. He was noted for his wit and common sense, and so highly were his opinions regarded that he twice was elected to the Tennessee legislature.

In 1827 he was elected to the national house of representatives and served with the 20th, 21st, and 23d congresses. His opposition to nearly all of President Jackson's measures and Indian policy brought about his defeat by administration influences for reëlection to congress in 1835, whereupon he set off for the new war front in Texas.

Crockett arrived at the Alamo in February, 1836. Shortly afterward the garrison was besieged by an army of some 4,000 Mexicans under Santa Anna. The gallant defenders held out for 13 days and killed about 500 of the attackers. But in the final assault, the Mexicans, in a hand to hand struggle, overpowered the survivors after breaching the walls of the old mission.

"Remember the Alamo" became the battle cry of the Texans, who won their independence in April, 1836, and then brought Texas into the Union in 1845.

ROCKFORD POLIO GAINS; ARMY DDT PLANE AWAITED

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 16 [Special]—Eight new cases of infantile paralysis in the Rockford area, raising the total to 116 cases and 12 deaths since July 2, today spurred efforts to get the army to fulfill its promise to send a plane here to spray the city with the powerful new insecticide, DDT.

Dr. N. O. Gunderson, city health commissioner, said the new cases raised the city total to 62 and six deaths. In Winnebago county, outside the city, there have been 54 cases and three deaths. An additional three deaths have occurred in the adjacent area outside the county line.

An army plane from Wright field, Dayton, O., was promised Rockford by Col. Russell V. Lee of the army air force in Washington, D. C., in a telegram Sunday, Dr. Gunderson said. Tuesday the health commissioner said he was notified the pilot had been sent directions the day before. At Wright field, however, officers said they had no knowledge of the plane to be sent here.

UNRRA SEEKS SURPLUS GOODS FOR LIBERATED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 16—A resolution urging the governments supplying funds to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration [UNRRA] to make available to liberated areas as much surplus war supplies as is practical, was passed today by the third session of the UNRRA council, meeting here. Warning that the need is urgent, an Australian delegate called on the governments to slash red tape to make the supplies available.

Rupert Emerson of the American delegation said the United States already had directed some war surpluses to the UNRRA.

A resolution proposed by the United States that Korea and Formosa should be considered liberated areas was postponed when a South African member suggested that the positions of Italy and Austria should be considered first.

WARD TO TEST ARMY RIGHT TO CONTINUE RULE

When the army is removed from possession of Montgomery Ward & Co. plants, a national strike will be called by the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes' union [CIO] "if the company refuses to bargain," Leonard Levy, international vice president of the CIO union, threatened yesterday.

Altho there was no indication of imminent army orders for the removal of the 140 army officers, enlisted personnel and civilians in control of Ward's business in Chicago and six other cities, Section 3 of the war labor disputes act, provides that "the authority to operate will terminate after the termination of such hostilities [the end of the war]." The army seized the plants by Presidential order Dec. 28, 1944.

John A. Barr, attorney in charge of labor relations for the company, said the company would file a writ of certiorari early in September in the Supreme court, to test post-war application of the war labor disputes act and continued seizure by the army. Washington sources predicted the war labor board would be dissolved in six months or less.

TRUMAN TO TELL HIS PLANS FOR ARMY IN PEACE

Draft for Occupation Forces Continues

Jobs in U. S. Service

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP) —From now on the civil service commission will accept applications for government jobs only from veterans. Announcing this today, the commission said any vacancies will be filled either by returning veterans or by "persons who are about to be or have been separated from other positions in the federal service."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 [Special]—President Truman disclosed today at a press conference that he plans to make a recommendation on post-war universal military service.

Tho he did not say what he will propose, congressmen close to the administration have predicted his plan will be tied up with an expanded and modernized national guard and the reserve corps. His recommendation is expected soon after congress reconvenes next month.

The President said that because the situation in Japan is different from that in Europe, Japan will not be divided into zones of occupation, as was Germany. He said the country will be occupied by a force to be drawn from all the major allies but which will be under the command of Gen. MacArthur.

Draft Will Continue

Concerning the length of time American forces will be kept overseas, the President said the occupation of Germany and Japan will be necessary until such time as the peoples of those countries are rehabilitated in the democratic way of life.

Drafting of men is being continued, he explained, only to supply replacements for occupation forces so men who have been fighting can come home. He added that young men who would not have much to do otherwise would be inducted. The end of the draft, he said, will depend on congress.

Meantime, members of both houses of congress demanded that the draft be halted and men for the army of occupation be recruited from volunteers willing to serve long terms policing foreign countries.

Volunteer Army Urged

Senators and congressmen agreed in interviews that the policing job is one for professional soldiers, rather than the younger men now being drafted. They said army authorities should try to get occupation forces from veterans now being discharged who wish to reenlist and other men who volunteer.

"A professional soldier can get along with the least amount of drilling and enjoy life, but boys of 18 have to have action and things to do," said Sen. Ferguson. He praised the younger men for being "dare devils" but insisted: "This is going to be a military police job. Let our fireballs stay here."

"Selective service doesn't seem to realize that it costs about $20,000 for each man drafted," Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.], a powerful figure in the military affairs committee, told reporters at Boulder, Colo.

"Hundreds of boys have written me expressing their willingness to volunteer for overseas service in the army of occupation."

PETAIN'S CHAIR IN ACADEMY IS RULED VACANT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 16—The French academy at its weekly meeting today officially excluded Henri Philippe Petain from its membership by declaring that his armchair will become vacant after a delay of four weeks, in accordance with the ordinance of Dec. 26, 1944, which prescribes that Frenchmen sentenced to "indignite nationale" [national unworthiness] shall automatically lose all ranks, titles, honors, and decorations.

By virtue of the same ordinance the last marshal of France becomes plain M. Petain. Besides losing his seat in the French academy—which was that formerly occupied by Marshall Foch—Petain is deprived of his seat in the academy of moral and political services and ceases to be a member of the legion of honor. Vichy's chief of state will not be subjected to the humiliating ceremony of military degradation.

[The Associated Press said an official in Gen. de Gaulle's office stated that the general is "certain to approve" clemency for Petain.]

Britain Orders 25 Pct. Boost in Gas Rations

LONDON, Aug. 16—Britains' gasoline ration will be increased 25 per cent on Sept. 1, the government announced today.

TRUMAN DECIDES V-J DAY IS NOT TO BE A HOLIDAY

MacArthur to Tell of Jap Surrender

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—President Truman announced that V-J day, to be proclaimed after the Japanese lay down their arms, will not be a holiday, because he thinks the people have had enough holidays.

The President made the announcement at his first post-war press conference, during which he discussed a variety of subjects. He was in high spirits as he faced the newspaper men.

The announcement of Japan's military surrender will come from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters and not from the White House, Mr. Truman said.

Big Three Discussed Korea

In response to questions, the chief executive said the problem of Korea was discussed at the Potsdam conference and plans are expected to work out as envisaged. This was taken as a reference to the Roosevelt-Churchill-Chiang declaration of Cairo which promised independence for Korea. The status of Hong Kong, British colony off the Chinese coast, was not discussed at Potsdam, he said.

The President is not certain whether there will be further meetings of the Big Three.

Formation of a Jewish national state in Palestine was discussed by the President at Potsdam with Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Attlee, his successor, but not with Dictator Stalin, the conference was told.

A Diplomatic Problem

Mr. Truman said the question of letting the Jews into Palestine must be worked out diplomatically with both the Arabs and the British. He added he does not want to send half a million American troops to Palestine to maintain peace.

Domestic problems were brought up by reporters, and the President said politics is open and free now that the war is over.

He reported that soon he would turn to thinking about a successor to Supreme Court Justice Roberts, who recently retired, and filling the vacancy in the directorship of the home owners loan administration.

Asks Atomic Research

Mr. Truman said congress will be asked to pass legislation authorizing continued atomic research, with emphasis on peace time use of this mighty force, at the so-called Manhattan project installations in Washington state, Tennessee, and New Mexico.

The President said he has no plans for trips about the country in the near future.

LAVAL QUIZZED ON ACTIVITIES OF HIS SPOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 16—Police Magistrate Pierre Marchat summoned Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Laval this afternoon to ask the former premier to confirm statements made by his wife regarding her activities during the nazi occupation. This was the first time they had been permitted to see each other since their arrest.

Laval confirmed everything in his wife's deposition she claimed she occupied herself with household affairs, but refused to select a lawyer either for himself or her. According to their daughter, Jose de Chambrun, he intends to defend himself if the high court of justice gives its permission.

Refusing to comment on the conviction of Marshal Petain on the ground it had nothing to do with him, Laval nevertheless appeared in good spirits. "I'm hopeful everything will turn out satisfactorily," was all the guards allowed him to say.

Sunday a Day of Prayer: Truman

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP) — President Truman today set aside Sunday as a day of prayer and issued the following proclamation:

"The war lords of Japan and the Japanese armed forces have surrendered. They have surrendered unconditionally. Three months after victory in Europe victory has come in the east.

"The cruel war of aggression which Japan started eight years ago to spread the forces of evil over the Pacific has resulted in her total defeat.

"This is the end of the grandiose schemes of the dictators to enslave the peoples of the world, destroy their civilization, and institute a new era of darkness and degradation. This day is a new beginning in the history of freedom on this earth.

Victory of Free Men

"Our global victory has come from the courage and stamina and spirit of free men and women united in determination to fight.

"It has come from the massive strength of arms and materials created by peace loving peoples who knew that, unless they won, decency in the world would end.

"It has come from millions of peaceful citizens all over the world —turned soldiers almost overnight —who showed a ruthless enemy that they were not afraid to fight and to die, and that they knew how to win.

Glorious Day of Triumph

"It has come with the help of God, who was with us in the early days of adversity and disaster, and who has now brought us to this glorious day of triumph.

"Let us give thanks to Him, and remember that we have now dedicated ourselves to follow in His ways to a lasting and just peace and to a better world.

"Now, therefore, I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Sunday, Aug. 19, 1945, to be a day of prayer.

Unite for Prayer

"I call upon the people of the United States, of all faiths, to unite in offering their thanks to God for the victory we have won, and in praying that He will support and guide us into the paths of peace.

"I also call upon my countrymen to dedicate this day of prayer to the memory of those who have given their lives to make possible our victory.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

DETECTIVE KILLS FLEEING BANDIT; 2D THUG IS SEIZED

Douglas Fair, 22, of 517 N. Clark st., Negro, was shot to death yesterday by Detective Leo Kelley of the Chicago av. station a few minutes after Fair and another Negro had committed a robbery in front of 510 N. Dearborn st.

The second Negro, Sterling E. Walters, 25, of 4148 Calumet av., was captured shortly after his partner's death in a rooming house at 503 N. Clark st., into which he had been chased by detectives.

Victim of the strongarm robbery was Willis J. Beck, 56, of 1216 Leland av., a stationary engineer in the building at 510 N. Dearborn st. The robbery occurred when he emerged from the building to go home.

Kelley, seated in a squad car in front of 610 N. Dearborn st., was told of the robbery by an excited witness. The detective arrived at the scene in time to see the two Negroes run into an alley. When they ignored his command to halt he fired, one bullet from his revolver, striking Fair in the heart. Walters was captured by Detectives Stanley Tomaszewki and Otto Vandemer, who were attracted by the revolver shots.

Hawaiian Who Killed Jap Flyer Gets Purple Heart

HONOLULU, Aug. 16 (AP)—Benjamin H. Kanahele, a Hawaiian who killed a Japanese aviator on Niihau Island Dec. 12, 1941, was awarded the Purple Heart by Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., today. The Japanese made a forced landing at Niihau on Dec. 8, the day after Pearl Harbor, and terrorized the inhabitants. He shot Kanahele three times, whereupon the Hawaiian picked up the Japanese bodily and dashed him to death.

HEAD OF LOOP TAVERN SLAIN; $500 IS MISSING

Police are hunting Joseph Gilmore, 24, Negro porter, for questioning about the murder of Carl Dahlquist, 42, of 89 W. Randolph st., manager of the Town Casino, 6 N. Clark st. Dahlquist was found shot to death in his office in the basement of the tavern early yesterday.

Auditors of Martin's, Inc., owner of the tavern, found approximately $500 was missing from the cash boxes in the office. They also found a voucher for a $2 wage advance signed by Gilmore. Police earlier had doubted robbery as the motive because cash was found in some of the boxes.

The body was discovered by Charles Kehoe, 4625 N. Racine av., assistant manager, who was investigating noises heard in the office. He told police Dahlquist usually worked until late checking receipts because the tavern did not close until 4 a. m. Kehoe said Gilmore had worked there only five days. Kehoe is being held. He has been given a lie detector and paraffin tests.

Herman Jordan, 59, of Battle Creek, Mich., a Grand Trunk Western railroad engineer, died in Evangelical hospital last night of a bullet wound in the back inflicted yesterday morning by one of two holdup men who attempted to rob him and a railroad fireman at 51st st. and Trumbull av. The fireman, Hollis Barber, 53, also of Battle Creek, told police one of the gunmen struck Barber on the head with his revolver, the weapon was discharged, and the bullet hit Jordan. Barber is in the hospital.

CONGRESS FACES BROAD DEMANDS FOR TAX SLASH

Cut in Business and Income Levy Likely

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—Demands for a reduction in income taxes of both individuals and business and for slashes in federal expenses will face congress when it returns Sept. 5, informed members said today.

While no tax reductions are expected to take effect before Jan. 1, there is strong sentiment in congress for paring levies on individual incomes, starting in 1946. Reduced taxes starting next year on business, including abolition of the excess profits tax, are considered a virtual certainty, to help companies expand and hire workers.

May End 3% Levy

On individual taxes, the proposal gaining widest support is abolition of the 3 per cent normal tax, which now makes almost every worker an income tax payer. This levy, formerly called the victory tax, takes part of the earnings of every citizen with an income of $550 a year or more.

An end to the normal tax would thus mean that a married man with one child earning $30 a week [$1,560 a year] would have no income tax to pay.

A man with the same dependency status, but earning $3,000 a year, would get a 21 per cent tax cut—from $311 to $244. On a $5,000 income, the levy would drop 16 per cent, from $735 to $615. On $10,000, he would pay about 9 per cent less.

Congressional tax sources also expect to consider proposals for cutting individual surtaxes, which now run as high as 94 per cent of net income, but whether the administration will indorse such a move is problematical.

95 Per Cent Levy May Go

For corporations, congressional tax leaders are on record as favoring elimination of the 95 per cent excess profits tax. This would leave a 40 per cent combined normal and surtax on business profits.

The $5 federal auto use tax, which has been a target in congress, is certain to die next June 30, its present expiration date. War increased excise taxes on such items as movie tickets, alcoholic beverages, furs, luggage, jewelry, telephone calls, and cabaret checks will drop automatically to 1942 rates six months after the official end of the war is declared by congress or the President.

Meanwhile, Chairman Cannon [D., Mo.] of the house appropriations committee said he will sponsor an economy drive to cut out all "nonessential" government spending.

Cannon said that 127 billion dollars of the 420 billions authorized for war spending since July, 1940, remains unused and that most of contracting authority should be canceled by congress.

WALSH FORESEES POST-WAR NAVY OF 500,000 MEN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—Chairman Walsh [D., Mass] of the senate naval affairs committee estimated today that the post-war navy will need "at least 500,000 officers and men."

The physical size of the fleet itself will be determined by congress after the navy department has made its recommendation, he told reporters.

He said fixing the size should be one of the first acts of the law makers after they reconvene Sept. 5.

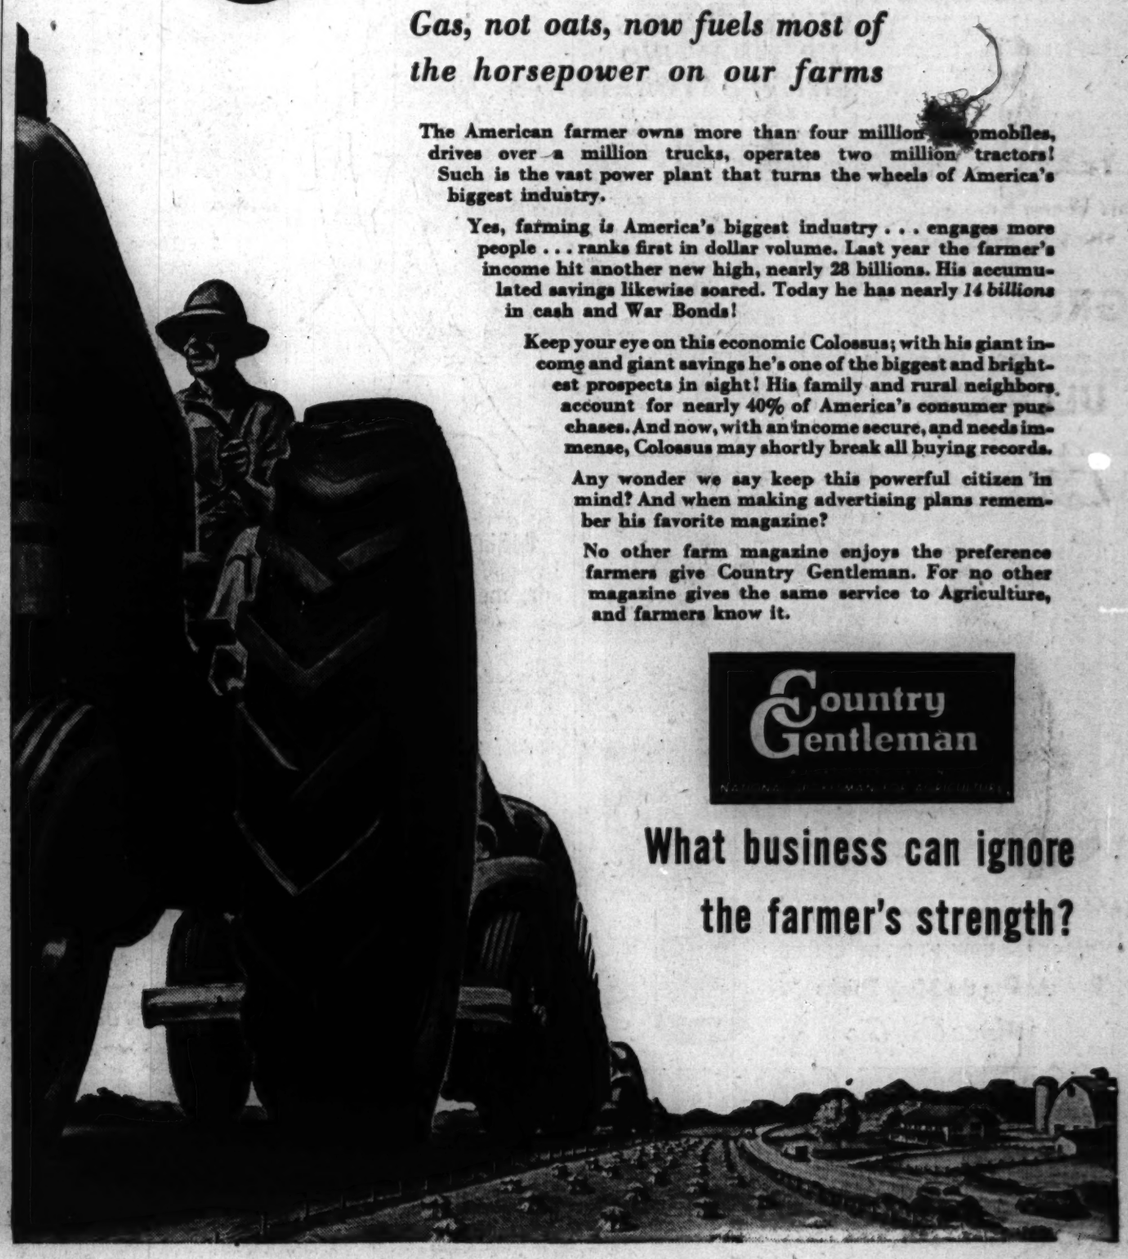
Colossus on Wheels

Gas, not oats, now fuels most of the horsepower on our farms



The American farmer owns more than four million automobiles, drives over a million trucks, operates two million tractors! Such is the vast power plant that turns the wheels of America's biggest industry.

Yes, farming is America's biggest industry . . . engages more people . . . ranks first in dollar volume. Last year the farmer's income hit another new high, nearly 28 billions. His accumulated savings likewise soared. Today he has nearly 14 billions in cash and War Bonds!

Keep your eye on this economic Colossus; with his giant income and giant savings he's one of the biggest and brightest prospects in sight! His family and rural neighbors account for nearly 40% of America's consumer purchases. And now, with an income secure, and needs immense, Colossus may shortly break all buying records.

Any wonder we say keep this powerful citizen in mind? And when making advertising plans remember his favorite magazine?

No other farm magazine enjoys the preference farmers give Country Gentleman. For no other magazine gives the same service to Agriculture, and farmers know it.

MUSIC FESTIVAL TO GO OVER A DAY IF RAIN INTRUDES

Comfort Rules Decision; W-G-N to Air Change

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

Shakespeare was dramatic but hardly practical when he uttered his famous admonition, "The show must go on." Probably many an Elizabethan audience was soaked to the skin.

Carl Craven

Frank Bennett

To prevent such discomfort, Philip Maxwell, director of the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival which will be held tomorrow evening in Soldiers' field, announced yesterday that the spectacle will be postponed to Sunday evening in event of protracted rain.

If rain falls before 7 p. m. and stops shortly after, the program will go on as scheduled, Maxwell explained. If rain falls steadily after 7 p. m., the show will be delayed till Sunday evening.

Community Sing on Program

If the festival is held Sunday evening, it will be identical with that planned for tomorrow evening. All the field events and fireworks display will be staged, and the festival stars, Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will appear. There will be community singing led by Frank Bennett and Carl Craven, choral directors.

One of the festival's distinguished guests, Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, was honored yesterday at a University club luncheon given by Mrs. J. Royden Keith, officer of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Guests at Luncheon Listed

Present were Maxwell, Miss Bessie Vydra, festival secretary; Capt. and Mrs. Howard Stube, Mrs. Samuel J. Campbell, past treasurer general of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Theodore Chapman, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Alma K. Anderson, president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, and Mrs. Frederick Tice, vice president of the Good Will Industries and vice president of the women's branch of the Salvation Army.

Others were Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, festival official in charge of vocal contests; Mrs. Sidney Smith, a musical leader; Mrs. Charles Walgreen, Miss Herma Clark of THE TRIBUNE, and Mrs. James Wescott, daughter of Mrs. Clark.

"I'd like to introduce you to the members of my car pool, but we haven't been speaking to each other for some time."

ALDERMEN O. K. HIGHWAY PLAN OF 237 MILLIONS

Subcommittee Report Goes in Monday

The motor fuel tax subcommittee of the city council finance committee voted yesterday that the city council adopt a comprehensive program for the expenditure of $237,701,000 by 1955 for super-highways and improvement of arterial streets in Chicago. Ald. Kells [28th] is chairman of the subcommittee.

A major portion of the expenditure is expected to be met by the state and county thru allocation of motor fuel tax funds. Their division recommended last month by an engineering board of review composed of city, county, sanitary district, and park district officials, proposed the expenditure of $75,052,000 by the state, $78,964,000 by the county, and $83,685,000 by the city.

Propose Four Super-Highways

Improvements proposed in the program include construction of the Illinois-Michigan canal super-highway running southwest across the city, together with other super-highways on the northwest, west, and south sides; also the extension of Wacker dr. eastward from Michigan av. to Outer dr., along the river's south bank, and its extension southward to Congress st.

The plan is co-ordinated with a program adopted earlier by the Cook county highway department for the improvement or construction of modern traffic arteries outside the city.

Vast Program Outlined

The program approved by the subcommittee includes 32 miles of express highways; widening, paving, and other improvements on 231 miles of other thorofares, and construction of 21 new bridges, 61 grade separations, and 12 viaducts.

The subcommittee's action was taken promptly after the abandonment of gasoline rationing. Its report will be submitted to the city council finance committee at a meeting Monday. Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the finance committee, is expected to present the recommendation to the council Tuesday.

ODT CONVENTION CURBS RELAXED; TAXI BANS END

No Illinois Fair

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16 [Special]—Lifting of the ban on state fairs will not permit operation of the Illinois state fair this year. But state fair officials are getting an early start on plans for 1946.

W. V. Ward, state fair manager, explained it would be impossible to hold a state fair this year because the grounds at Springfield are occupied by a surplus commodity depot of the army air forces.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—The office of defense transportation today relaxed its restriction on conventions, lifted its ban on state and regional fairs, and freed taxi operators from war time controls.

The agency also revoked an order which required all commerical motor vehicle operators to obtain a certificate of war necessity in order to operate trucks, buses or taxicabs.

Beginning immediately, the agency authorized the holding of conventions with an out of town attendance of not more than 150. The previous limit for out of town attendance was 50.

Fairs Already Canceled

Many projected fairs already have been canceled, and the lateness of the season made it uncertain how many such events could be arranged.

The ban on conventions, trade shows and similar group meetings has been in effect since Feb. 1. It was designed to relieve overburdened transportation and housing facilities.

Orders revoked today included one freezing the numbers of taxicabs in all cities and limiting the distance and mileage they might travel.

Delivery Curbs Remain

Under the taxicab rules now eliminated, cruising and commercial deliveries by cabs had been forbidden. Operations had been limited to a 10 mile radius from metropolitan city limits. The number of cabs in any community had been limited to the number in operation Sept. 1, 1942. Group riding had been required wherever it was not prohibited by cities.

All commercial motor vehicles now may be operated without a permit from ODT.

Still in effect are ODT regulations governing the frequency of wholesale and retail deliveries.

CHURCHILL SAYS POTSDAM FAILED ON MANY ISSUES

Fears Major 'Tragedy in Divided Europe'

that there are still 1,500,000 of these not yet expelled within their new frontier. Of these other millions, most have taken refuge between the British and American lines, thus increasing the food stringency in our sectors. Enormous numbers are unaccounted for. Where have they gone and what is their fate?"

"A similar condition may reproduce itself in a modified form in the numbers of expulsions of Sudetans and other Germans from Czechoslovakia," he continued.

"Tragedy on Prodigious Scale"

"It isn't impossible a tragedy on a prodigious scale is imposing itself behind the iron curtain which presently divides Europe," he asserted.

As to the Balkans, he said it was unreasonable to expect liberal governments or democratic conditions to be immediately instituted in countries torn by war which would need authoritarian governments for some months as an alternative to anarchy.

Almost everywhere," he continued, "communist forces have obtained or are in the process of obtaining dictatorial powers."

Churchill concluded with a plea for free, secret elections in liberated countries and an expression of his faith in democracy.

Churchill prefaced his speech with the disclosure that he and President Truman in the early days of the Potsdam conference approved a plan for the invasion of Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies, and Japan, then discarded it when advised of the successful trial of the atomic bomb in a New Mexico desert.

Major Factor in Victory

"The decision to use the atomic bomb was taken by Mr. Truman and myself at Potsdam," Churchill said, and Premier Stalin of Russia was informed.

Churchill said the atom bomb more than any other factor was responsible for the sudden defeat of Japan. He agreed with Mr. Truman that the secret should as far as possible not be turned over at present to any other country. Possession of an immense plant needed to construct the bomb, he asserted, placed the United States at the summit of the world. "I rejoice this is so," he said.

Churchill estimated it would perhaps take three or four years before progress in atomic science in the United States could be overtaken by any other country.

The former prime minister said it was a mistake to suggest use of the atomic bomb was hastened by the Russian declaration of war against the Japs. He said he had understood for a considerable time past that Stalin would join in the Pacific war within three months from the German surrender.

Foresees Hungry Europe

Attlee painted a grim picture of a cold, hungry Europe in the coming winter mainly owing to transport difficulties and warned this country has no great surplus of food supplies for relief purposes.

He foreshadowed a speed-up of demobilization of the British military forces but said conscription would be continued and the callup age would remain at 30 years.

He estimated more than a million workers would be released from the munitions industries in the next eight weeks, causing some measure of local unemployment.

Must Increase Exports

He listed unemployment and inflation as the greatest dangers facing the country and warned lend-lease couldn't continue indefinitely, so Britain must increase exports to pay for essential food and raw material imports. It would be "absolute madness," he said, for Britain to abandon war time financial and economic controls presently.

Referring to the housing problem, Attlee said nothing the government could do would substantially alleviate the position this winter and neither would the government's proposals to nationalize the coal industry affect the fuel shortage by then. Pointing out that Britain faced a winter with reduced coal stocks and declining output, he appealed to miners to increase production and to consumers to economize to the limit.

RUSSIA SHAVES CURZON LINE IN POLES' FAVOR

LONDON, Aug. 17 [Friday]—(AP)—The Moscow radio announced today that Russia and Poland have signed a treaty on the Polish-soviet frontier and an agreement on compensation for damages caused by German occupation.

The treaty established the Curzon line as the Polish-Russian boundary, except for a few deviations "in Poland's favor." One such deviation gave Poland "territory situated east of the Curzon line up to the western Bug river and the Solokai river south of the town of Krylow"—a concession of about 30 kilometers to Poland at the maximum, according to the broadcast text of the treaty.

Another deviation from the Curzon line gave Poland "part of the territory of Bjaloweiz forest in the sector of Niemirow-Jalowka situated to the east of the Curzon line."

WAR OVER? NOT FOR THE 'T.B.' IN AN ARMY BED

He Battles On with Bravery

said one. "You have to stay in bed even when you don't feel sick."

They haven't even the benefit of morale building physical activities that are so important to the recovery of most wounded. Tho the hospital provides projects in occupational therapy, such as clay modeling and weaving that can be done in bed, patients are not allowed physical exertion of any kind.

"In the treatment of tuberculosis, there is no short cut to bed rest," emphasized Maj. Samuel I. Kooperstein, chief of the chest division. "Regardless of what other form of treatment is instituted, it is only an adjunct to bed rest, not a substitute."

The patients accept this with an attitude that is rarely found in hospitals.

Cooperate with Doctors

"I came here to get well, and not to match wits with the doctors," said Sgt. Harold Foran of 9050 S. Hoyne st., Chicago.

There is a closer doctor-patient relationship at Bruns than at many hospitals. A doctor is never too busy to talk to his patients. In fact, it is part of his job to explain the patient's X-rays to him and to educate him as much as possible about his disease.

In no other hospital will you find patients who know more about what's wrong with them and what has to be done about it. They read books, keep clippings of medical articles about tuberculosis. In discussing the subject they illustrate by drawing rough sketches of their own lungs and cavities, and employ technical terms with almost as much ease as a doctor.

Their Progress Doesn't Show

Wounded men have the comfort of watching wounds heal, of seeing injured limbs and muscles come back into use.

These men go for months with no visible signs of progress. Their comfort must be manufactured within themselves. Blind faith alone could not sustain them; it must be a faith reinforced with knowledge and understanding of a disease that can be either killable or curable.

"When they told me I had T. B.," said Sgt. Thomas Buchen of Milwaukee, Wis., who spent 18 months with an engineers outfit in India, "I thought it meant everything was all over. I decided to hell with that, I've got three kids to live for. If I'd spent another monsoon in Calcutta it would have been too bad. Now I'm hoping to be home by Christmas."

Tuberculosis is curable, Maj. Kooperstein pointed out, but not without the full cooperation of both the patient and his family.

One of the hospital's biggest problems, he said, is the family. Many of them never seem to understand that tuberculosis is contagious, communicable from person to person. They want their men to come home before the disease has been arrested. Girl friends come to the hospital and beg to marry their patient-sweethearts.

Get Initial Treatment at Bruns

Most of these patients [all are from overseas] will be sent to veterans' hospitals for long periods of recuperation before going home.

At Bruns they receive the initial medical, X-ray and surgical care necessary to start them on the long road to recovery, and this in itself usually takes many months.

The lung is collapsed either with pneumothorax [pumping air into the chest cavity] or thoracoplasty [removal of 7 or 8 ribs]. If the disease is confined to one or two lobes, a lobectomy [partial lung removal] may be performed.

No patient goes to surgery until after his case, with all X-rays, charts, etc., has been thoroly reviewed, examined, and agreed upon by a group of 20 chest and X-ray specialists.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

One-man hay baler working in the fields at the Wheaton farm during the hours of victory celebration to assure an abundant harvest.

Aug. 16, 1945

NEWS of Japan's capitulation reached the workers at the Fox river farm just as they were washing up after a long day of threshing oats. The men talked together quietly and happily for a moment. Then one turned to the manager: "We feel awfully good about this. If it's okay with you, we would like to go on working tomorrow and help finish the oat harvest."

Thus, the first day of celebration found the crew of 23 men threshing on the west side of the farm. They finished up six wagon loads of bundles and then in the afternoon moved the big machine to the other side of the farm, where 85 more acres were awaiting the attention of the separator.

Fight on Home Front, Too

The workers felt that the threshing job was more important than taking a day or so to join in the victory celebration. There still are millions of men to feed, and every bit of grain harvested will be needed, they said. Perhaps when V-J day is announced officially they will take a day off, but in the meantime they will continue to do their job.

At the Wheaton farm, the same conditions prevailed. The men were at work early, for there was hay to bale and a carload of coal scheduled to arrive; this meant considerable shoveling.

It's Unanimous

The manager had considered a holiday but the men agreed it was more important to have the crop reach the barn in good condition.

Happiness and thankfulness pervaded the farm homes. Especially jubilant was one worker who served with the navy on an aircraft carrier in the Pacific. He appreciated what the news meant to his former shipmates.

The first 50 acres threshed on the Fox river farm gave an excellent yield—almost 70 bushels to the acre. Other fields are expected to yield equally well. There is a good supply of straw, and the manager is pleased with his small grain harvest.

After the oats are finished, the men will move on and thresh at the McCarthy and Knight farms nearby. This will complete the threshing ring for the year.

★The GARDEN★

MEDICINAL mineral oil is a material available for combating corn ear worms, which damage the terminal kernels of sweet corn. The corn ear worm should not be confused with the corn borer, which drills into the stalks and thru the husks of corn. The ear worm always enters thru the silks, is light green or brown, and about 1½ inches long.

An easy way of destroying ear worms is to use an oil can to put about five drops of the mineral oil deep in the base of the silks. Gardeners who have any insecticide containing pyrethrum should add about a teaspoon of this liquid in a pint of mineral oil before application, altho the plain oil also is effective.

On the market is also a mixed corn ear worm insecticide under a trade label ready for application. The best time to apply insecticides is when the silks start to turn brown.

LASKI DOESN'T SPEAK FOR ME, SAYS ATTLEE

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP). — Prime Minister Attlee said today that Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor party's executive committee, speaks as an individual and that government policy is determined solely by the ministers of the new Labor government.

This was the prime minister's reply in the house of commons to a renewed demand by Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition, for clarification of the relationship between the former McGill university lecturer and the administration — a demand which formed a prominent part of Churchill's unsuccessful election campaign.

SOLDIER IS SLAIN IN TROOP TRAIN REVELRY; 2 HURT

Effingham, Ill., Aug. 16 (AP)—A soldier killed by a pistol shot aboard a troop train during a victory celebration was identified tonight by Chanute field officials as Sgt. Harold L. Argus, 37, of New Orleans, La., a veteran artilleryman who fought in Europe.

Two men were wounded in the gunfire which occurred last midnight while the train was passing thru Effingham from Camp Kilmer, N. J., to Camp Shelby, Miss., where the soldiers were to be discharged. The wounded are Pvt. Gus Michalos, New Orleans, hit in the groin, and Corp. William Mohr, Baton Rouge, La., shot in the legs. Both were taken to Chanute field station hospital, Rantoul, Ill.

Conductor E. P. Clancy reported the men were hit by bullets from a souvenir German pistol. Lt. Charles C. Kleinschmidt of New Orleans, in charge of the men involved, said Pvt. Jim P. Hammonds of Waynesboro, Miss., was placed in Chanute field guardhouse in connection with the shooting.

PANGBORN TESTS LATEST MODEL OF FLYING WING

New Ship Takes Off in 800 Feet

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 16—Clyde Pangborn, who made the first nonstop flight across the North Pacific in 1931, today put Vincent Burnelli's latest "flying wing" plane thru its paces at the Canadian Car and Foundry corporation's St. Laurent aircraft plant near here.

The new plane, latest version of the unique craft which Burnelli, president of the Central Aircraft corporation of New York City, first unveiled to the public in 1929, weighs 27,000 pounds. Its chief feature is that the fuselage is designed as a wing section, providing 60 per cent of the lifting power of the craft, whereas in the conventional type the fuselage provides no lifting power.

Takes Off in 650 Feet

Altho it weighs 27,000 pounds, it took off today after a run of only 650 feet unloaded. With a full load of about four tons it could take off in less than 800 feet, company officials estimated.

Pangborn, who is on loan from the United States army air forces transport command, says the plane also can land within 800 feet or less, giving it a tremendous advantage over conventional aircraft of the same capacity. It will not be necessary for smaller communities to build large airports with long runways if this type of ship proves successful, it was pointed out.

Carries 22 Passengers

The fuselage is 20 feet wide, providing more than normal width for cargo, and is seven feet high and 30 feet long. The tail assembly is attached to the wing section by two narrow booms. The plane is powered by two 1,250 horse power engines. The wing span is 86 feet, with the actual wing section only 33 feet long on each side of the fuselage.

The plane is designed to carry 22 passengers, 750 pounds of baggage, and a freight cargo of 2,875 pounds in ordinary shuttle or commercial service. It is about 54½ feet long.

A top speed of 215 miles an hour is claimed for it with a cruising speed of about 201 miles an hour at sea level. Cruising range is given as 1,500 miles under maximum load.

"KIDNAP" VICTIM FACES RE-ARREST

A warrant for the re-arrest of Frank Skutnik, 33, of 317 William st., Hammond, was issued yesterday by Judge George L. Quilici in Town Hall court. Skutnik, fined $10 and costs for disorderly conduct on Aug. 3, failed to appear in court to pay his fine. Skutnik was fined after his story of being kidnaped and robbed failed to impress the court.

CANADA ASKS AVIATION BOARD TO HIRE 136 AIDS

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 16—Beset by difficulties with the French language in this Canadian metropolis, where three people out of four speak fluent French, the council of the provisional international civil aviation organization slogged thru two organization sessions today.

Principal questions outlined—nothing was settled—were whether the council, which is the working body of the international civil aviation organization set up in Chicago last fall, shall hold continuous sessions from now on or shall meet intermittently on call, and who shall have the power to hire a secretariat for the sprawling international organization.

Place for Russia

Seventeen nations are represented here out of the 20 on the council. Delegates of the other three nations—Mexico, Brazil, and Iraq—are said to be en route. An additional place is being held open for Russia, but so far Premier Stalin has made no move to join the international air conclave.

Anson C. McKim, Canadian delegate and temporary chairman, said the Canadian preparatory committee, which has handled arrangements so far, suggested 136 jobs in the secretariat. Presumably these people would be paid by voluntary contributions from the governments which have signed the Chicago agreement setting up a provisional or "interim" world air organization.

Dr. Edward Warner, United States delegate and vice chairman of the civil aeronautics board, urged that the council complete its organizational work, which he estimated would take one to three weeks, and then adjourn to give the secretariat time to get organized.

Asks Full Time Sessions

Warner then suggested that when the council met again it remain in continuous session, inasmuch as there would be "enough employment for full time sessions in Montreal."

The council must have three main committees, one to consider aerial navigation which includes technical rules and regulations for international flying, another covering study of the permanent convention drafted at Chicago, and a third, the most important, covering aerial transport.

The third committee would be charged with study, reporting and recommendations on all of the controversial questions left unsettled at the Chicago conference.

EMPIRE STATE CRASH LAID TO 'MISJUDGMENT'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—The war department today attributed the crash of an army bomber into the Empire State building to unfavorable flying conditions and "misjudgment" on the part of the pilot and ground personnel.

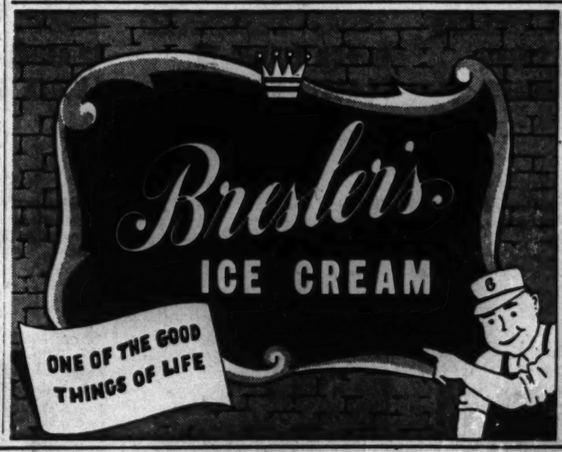
A report on an investigation of the New York City mishap of July 28, which took 14 lives, said the pilot made an error in judgment when he decided to fly over Manhattan in weather conditions then existing.

The department said the pilot, Lt. Col. William D. Smith Jr., left Bedford, Mass., with clearance for New York airport. On reaching the New York area he sought permission to go on to Newark, N. J.

The control tower notified the pilot the weather at Newark was less than the minimum and asked his intentions. He said he preferred to go on to Newark and the tower gave him permission to do so, provided he could maintain three miles forward visibility.

Labor Regime Wins First Test in British House

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Britain's new labor government won its first victory in the house of commons tonight by a vote of 329 to 142. The vote was on a motion by Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council and Labor majority leader, "to take private member's time." Private member's time is the time allotted to individual members each week to submit their own bills. Morrison said the government needed that time, as it had thruout most of the war, to push thru its heavy legislative program.



Sees Five Wars

JEREMIAH CAMPBELLTON

Caribou, Me., Aug. 16 (AP)—Jeremiah Campbellton has lived to see the end of five major wars.

He observed his 106th birthday yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hughes, where he celebrated the news of the Japanese surrender quietly.

At the age of 9 he was kidnaped by Indians and escaped six years later. He put the training given him by the Indians to good use as a guide and for many years was a hunter and trapper.

A veteran of the civil and Spanish-American wars, he lost two great-grandsons in World War II. He married Delena Arsenault of Fort Kent when she was 14. They had 16 children, five of whom survive. The eldest is Jerry, 76.

GERMANS HEAR MRS. BOLTON

WIESBADEN, Germany, Aug. 16 [Reuters]—Rep. Frances Bolton [R., Ohio] and Rep. Ryter [D., Conn.] addressed the first meeting held here today by the reorganized civil government. Mrs. Bolton delighted the Germans by giving a considerable part of her speech in German. She urged the new leaders, taking over from the American military government, to create democracy and permanent peace for prosperity.

VICTIMS IN THE NEW EUROPE

A shockingly base proposal was submitted in London to the conference of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration by Russia and two of its satellites, Poland and Yugoslavia. It was urged by these countries that UNRRA food and relief be denied to the million or more displaced Europeans who, because of fear or antipathy for the new conditions which confront them, are unwilling to return to their former countries.

Nothing could have more clearly shown that new tyrannies are thriving where old ones had done business than this attempt to induce political conformity on pain of starvation. It would be a terrible choice to present to any man or woman. The Communists have only compulsion to offer. If their system is revolting to the instinct for liberty, then they submit to their intended victims the alternative of starving to death. It has already been tried and proved, as the fate of the kulaks recalls.

This proposal represents a depth of moral degradation for which even the most hardened observer of recent developments in Europe may be unprepared. The United States is providing 72 per cent of the expenses of UNRRA, and perhaps an even larger share of the supplies which the international agency distributes. Even so, the Russians have the temerity to suggest that we become their accomplices in driving their fugitive slaves into already prepared dungeons. They would have us revive the Dred Scott decision and write it into international law.

What could have persuaded them that our principles are this debased? Could it have been their experiences with us all thru the recent past, when, time after time, we have given in to them to an extent that can only suggest that the policy of appeasement will never end? The Roosevelt administration extended them diplomatic recognition on the pledge that they would call off their agents of revolution. It continued relations despite the default of that pledge.

When Russia was savagely attacked by a powerful enemy this country poured its wealth and its war material into Russia, without the slightest provision for recompense. At Tehran and Yalta, and again at Potsdam, Russia was granted every demand. Our leaders have sold half of the continent of Europe into bondage to Stalin. They have given Russia the license to pillage the industries of Germany. What they have pledged in return for the purely formal assistance of the Red army in bringing Japan to its knees no one knows. Never once have they stood up against Russian rapacity or for the American principles of liberty, justice, and fair dealing.

As long as this is the spirit of our representatives, Russia will press us mercilessly for more. In a current magazine Edgar Snow, who has never been anything but sympathetic to Russia, relates in an article entitled, "Behind Russian Lines in Austria," how the Russians are preparing European opinion to accept the thesis that it is the obligation of the United States to replace all Russian requisitions.

As every eastbound freight car out of Germany and Austria carries away more machinery, tractors, cattle, office furniture, and stockpiles of finished articles and raw material, the Russians reassure the victims of this policy of spoliation. Snow quotes Marshal Tolbukhin, the Red proconsul, as telling the provisional president of the Austrian state, "Don't worry; when we are all thru you will still have as much machinery as you had before Austria joined the reich. And then the Americans will come in and give you more than we are taking away."

If we have been cast in the role of Lady Bountiful for the whole world it is the fault of our New Deal spendthrifts and appeasers. Men who for years have been so spineless, the Russians are bound to reason, will not revolt even if the most overweening demands are thrust upon them. They apparently think that our demoralization is now so complete that we will not even be outraged by such a proposal as has been made in London to implement soviet tyranny with American money and food.

Indeed, our representatives on the scene were moved to no fiery protest. Assistant Secretary of State Clayton contented himself with saying that it "might be harmful" in obtaining more funds for UNRRA from congress if the Russians were obdurate in their position. Rep. Luther Johnson, an observer for congress, echoed that mild remonstrance. They are typical of what we may expect from the New Deal. The people should begin thinking of getting an administration in Washington which will at least defend the nation against insult.

GEN. MacARTHUR

The designation of Gen. MacArthur to receive the Japanese surrender and govern defeated Japan in the name of the United States and its allies is something more than a tribute to America's greatest soldier. The task assigned him, as is already being demonstrated, will demand the highest order of military and administrative ability, and the assignment recognizes that we have in this country no one more capable to perform it.

It is no derogation of the brilliant American leaders of the European war to name Gen. MacArthur as our greatest soldier. They marshaled the greatest resources any nation has ever placed on the battlefield and used them skilfully to destroy what was regarded, until it met the Americans, as the world's leading military nation.

Gen. MacArthur was assigned to fight a foe equally well prepared, more savage and fanatical than even the Nazis, and to fight in a terrain in which nature put as great handicaps on the soldier at every step as the enemy himself. He fought this war, moreover, with the most pitiful resources. Not until we entered the Philippines did we have a respectable military force in the Pacific, and even then its power was a fraction of that exerted in Europe. Part of Gen. MacArthur's genius was that he not only won the victories with great economy of force but also with the greatest possible economy of life.

The idea seems to have sprung up all over the country that it would be appropriate to name his deputy commander, Lt. Gen. Wainwright, who, with his men, has been a prisoner of the Japanese since the nation abandoned them on Bataan and Corregidor. No one could penetrate more readily the hypocrisy and sham with which the Japanese may attempt to evade the peace terms than Wainwright and the men who, with him suffered in Japanese prison camps for more than three years.

LET BUSINESS EXPAND NOW

The government reconversion program, as evidenced by steps so far taken and by the statements of intentions issued by the chiefs of our controled economy, falls far short of what is required to meet the serious situation now confronting the country. The immediate termination of rationing of gasoline, fuel oil, oil stoves, and canned fruit ought to be followed by early action of the same sort with reference to other commodities and services.

The rationing of meat will go on, as a constant reminder of what the new secretary of agriculture, Clinton Anderson, referred to as "official negligence and stupidity." It would help if the ones guilty of sabotaging the supply of pork and beef in war time were to disappear from the scene without delay. Claude Wickard, former head of the department of agriculture, and Chester Bowles of the OPA were the persons in control when the "official negligence and stupidity" took place. Mr. Wickard saw his duty to the public and committed official harakiri a month and a half ago. It ought to be clear to Mr. Bowles now what is expected of him.

Taking the restrictions off of what civilians may consume is proper and, of course, popular, but such moves will not have much beneficial effect upon the course of economic affairs in this country in the difficult period that lies ahead. For that, the government must remove the controls which handicap the ability of business men to expand operations on a broad scale.

John W. Snyder, director of the office of reconversion, spoke many pious words about this over the radio Wednesday afternoon in a symposium in which he was joined by War Production Director Krug, Bowles, and others. The government will cancel all but 40 of 50 controls now in effect. It will keep only so much price control as is necessary to prevent inflation. It will continue only those material controls which are necessary to bring about a fair sharing of the supplies of materials. Thus will jobs be provided for every one.

All of this is largely eye-wash, so far as meeting the principal problem of the country, which is the creation of jobs without drawing on the public treasury. With all the fine promises of encouraging private business to expand, manufacturers are restricted from turning aggressively to reconversion because it is not clear that they can sell what they produce at a reasonable profit. The fanatics of OPA, who believe that but for them prices would run away, are still in power.

Justification for price control in war time is that the whole producing capacity of the country is not adequate to turn out what is needed to make war and keep the civilian population supplied at peace time standards. But when the war ends and industries can turn to making goods for civilians we can depend upon competition to keep prices down.

Price fixing after peace is restored has the effect of restricting output and employment. At a time when there is need for greatly expanded production of consumer goods to make up for the war time shortages, and for greatly expanded employment in peace time lines, those whose costs are higher than the level set by price control authorities are prevented from engaging in business.

Government controls over use of materials during a war are deemed proper because when the national security is threatened the army and navy must have priority. The remaining supplies, which are inadequate for civilian purposes, have to be shared. The government properly determines which of a number of civilian products are to have precedence. In time of peace in a free country it is no business of the government to say how much steel, copper, zinc, tin, or aluminum is used in making automobiles, how much in making refrigerators, how much in making new machines, and so on. Power to assign materials to specific uses, such as is retained by the government under the plans announced Wednesday by the government agencies, belongs only in a dictatorship.

MARSHAL BLUEBEARD

The first marshal of France to be condemned to death, says a Reuters dispatch apropos of the condemnation of Marshal Pétain, was Baron de Retz, executed in 1440. Quite correct, but it becomes a better story when this historical character is introduced by his fairy tale name, which is Bluebeard.

• • •

Folklorists are generally convinced that the wholesale wife-killer of the world-wide tale about Bluebeard and his seven wives, six of whom had been neatly dispatched and hung up on hooks in his closet, was born of the legends that followed the trial of De Retz for sorcery, sacrilege, and sadism. This trial, incidentally, rivaled that of Joan of Arc for 15th century headlines.

• • •

Gilles de Retz or Rais [the latter is the spelling of his period] fought with Joan of Arc against the English invaders of France, and the king whom he helped to crown at Reims rewarded him with a marshal's baton. He had married into large estates in Britanny, and his wife's money enabled him to put into the field seven companies of men-at-arms, which he led with notable prowess.

• • •

He had expensive hobbies, such as patronage of the arts, collection of a princely library, and production of spectacles, usually religious plays called "mysteries." His extravagance brought him into financial difficulties, and to meet his debts he began to dabble in alchemy, a sinister branch of learning which aimed at converting base metals into gold. [Atom-cracking!] This pursuit led him into black magic, traffic with the devil, and the kidnaping of children for murderous experiments. In other words, De Retz became a large scale werewolf. At his trial before an ecclesiastical court, 140 victims were mentioned.

• • •

In "The Sixteenth Century," by Sir Charles Oman, you may read: "The infamous marshal of France, Gilles de Retz, kept three sorcerers, of which the chief was an Italian, sold himself formally to the devil, and propitiated his master by human sacrifices, generally of young children. He had been promised in return wealth, power, and perpetual youth."

THE THINGS THAT CHANGE

The house is just the same, and you will find
The paint still white, "a moonlight cameo";
The flagstone path, the one that you designed,
Still guards the flowers in a modest row.
But there are changes, too; the little hedge
You planted just before you went away,
Is high and sturdy, with a careless edge;
And weeds grow thicker with each passing day!
The trellises have urged the roses high
To splendid triumphs up the southern wall;
The newest maple mounts toward the sky—
But you will know them, every one; and all
Our older hearts. Tho time is not denied,
Beyond all change still faith and love abide.

"When the Boys Come Home"

After six weeks of absolutely no word, save letters addressed to him overseas which came back marked "Returned to U. S.", he called Friday morning [Aug. 10] from the North Western station on his way to Fort Sheridan, and said simply and beautifully, "Hello, Mom . . . I'm home." It wasn't until Sunday afternoon, tho, that they released him, and he came racing up the stairs with a big grin and hearty "Hi" . . . just as we had always pictured his homecoming.

When I read his honorable discharge certificate, I had the same queer "weak-in-the-knees" feeling that I experienced when I first saw his "Greetings . . . you are directed to report . . ." almost four years ago. He looks grand. This is the first that we've seen him in his uniform, which carries a "tech" sergeant's stripes, six overseas service stripes, four ribbons, three battle stars, and the infantryman's combat badge.

LOVE IS A QUESTION

Whether you loved the soft moonglow
And the note of spring in the April air,
Or whether you loved me, who shall know?
For youth and a strange, pale moon were there.

Whether you drank of the golden sun,
And planted the seeds of life's sweet grain
Because I was there, and the only one
To stand at your side thru the summer rain—

Whether you loved me, who shall know?
Whether you loved me, who dare ask?
The summer has come and will quickly go—
Love is a question. Life is a mask.

J. F. writes: "I served for 20 years in the national guard before being inducted into federal service in the present war. I am about to be retired for disability. Will my national guard service count for retirement the same as it does for longevity pay?"

No. Altho service in the national guard is counted for longevity purposes, it is not counted for retirement benefits. The only service counted for retirement benefits is active federal service.

B. D. asks: "Are retired officers entitled to commissary privileges and post exchange privileges?"

Regular army officers who are retired are entitled to the privileges, but not those whose commissions were in the army of the United States. Rules governing operation of post commissaries and post exchanges are made by the commanding officer of the installation where they are located.

L. D. asks: "Can a woman in service apply for discharge if her husband is returned from overseas for furlough? If a WAC is married to a veteran after he is discharged can she apply for discharge?"

If a soldier is returned from overseas for furlough his wife may apply for furlough at the same time. A WAC who is married to a discharged veteran may apply for release from service.

HEALING A BROKEN BONE

FEW individuals who have broken a leg or arm have given a thought to what nature did in promoting repair. The majority consider it merely a matter of having the fragments "set" and kept in place with a splint or cast until they grew together.

Bone, like any other tissue, bleeds. When severed, hemorrhage collects between the ends, causing swelling. After the fluid clots it becomes the framework for the culture callus for, soon after the edges are alined, healing commences.

At first, new blood vessels and fibrous cells invade the area, carrying with them tiny calcium particles. Then bits of cartilage start to gather and, when present in a sufficient amount, a union occurs which is semi-rigid and hardly capable of withstanding much force. After more and more calcium is deposited, bone cells appear which, in the beginning, are spongy but are replaced ultimately by the hard, or permanent variety.

This process usually takes 30 days, but six to 12 weeks are necessary for a real firm splicing job. At this time, the limb can be used. Variations depend upon the type of bone involved. Perhaps a year will be required before the internal and external structures are architecturally the same as they were before. Some telltale evidence remains, for ancient fracture sites can be detected with X-rays.

When a longer period is demanded, the condition is known as a "delayed union." Should it fail completely, it is called "nonunion." We seldom consider the latter until six to eight months have elapsed from the date of the accident. These abnormalities are the exception rather than the rule altho, in the hip, they are noted in one-third of the cases; in the middle portion of the upper arm, in an even higher percentage.

Such complications are more common in older individuals in whom the circulation is poor. Those with diabetes, malaria, or certain glandular disorders may also be victims. A disturbance in the calcium-phosphorus metabolism may play a role. Infection, as in diseased teeth or tonsils, often lowers resistance and prevents proper healing.

Once in a while, we may blame faulty technique in setting the fracture, inadequate support allowing movement, or when the pieces are pulled far apart or manipulated too much in an effort to obtain a perfect fit. Sometimes muscle or scar tissue may fill the spaces and bone cells have difficulty penetrating. Occasionally the edges are injured or infected so severely that they are not capable of producing bone.

Individuals so afflicted usually develop pain or swelling when they try to use the part altho these symptoms are observed more frequently when the union is almost but not entirely achieved.

Calcium salts are generally administered along with cod liver oil, lime or orange juices, and a diet rich in bone building elements. These include meats, liver, vegetables, and plenty of milk.

In many cases, plastic surgery is necessary but, before this is performed, attempts to improve the circulation should be made. Heat via diathermy is an excellent method.

EYE INFLAMMATION

D. M. writes: I have had eight attacks of severe iritis. Can anything be done to prevent further sieges?

REPLY

Infection elsewhere in the body is responsible. By searching for and eliminating the source, subsequent attacks can be controled. Look to the teeth, nose, tonsils, etc., for the focus. Such a situation deserves attention of a skilled eye specialist.

REPLY

Others Are With Us

It was 6 p. m. of Aug. 14, and victory was ours. The marine back from the Pacific began to walk up Michigan av. He felt a curious combination of unbelief, and happiness, and excitement. Tons of paper fell around him, bells rang, any one with a car was in it and honking, some with musical appliances that tooted "Mary had a little lamb" or "The Campbells are coming"; the drunks surged, the sidewalks were thickets of celebrators, darkness fell, the stars came out, and the marine walked on, alone. Long after he had left the most crowded sections, girls and women still pressed kisses upon him, an average of two to a block.

"The longer I walked, the more I wondered why the happiness, why the excitement," he recalled the next day, "until eventually it seemed to me that nothing was over actually but the brutal part of killing, that we hadn't won anything, that we were just back where we started. Then I began to resent the happiness that was around me.

"I wanted to get on a soap box with a big crowd around me. I wanted to shout at them all: 'You fools! You haven't won anything. All you have is a cessation of hostilities. All you have is a chance—a chance to work things out, a slender, delicate chance to bring order into an insane world. . . . They'd have thought I was insane.

"But I got to thinking about the kids that are buried out there. The chips that these people paid for that chance. The barber, that poor kid Moffitt. He was the kid that was saving his money to go home to barber school. A kid from down in Indiana. A farm boy. The gunner on a machine gun got killed at Peleliu, and Moffitt, who had been thrown into action as an ammunition carrier, grabbed it and kept it firing until he was killed. The barber tools were in his back pocket.

"And the scared kid at Guam. The kid that got blown to pieces and his head was just laying on his arm. He was a dreamy kid. . . .

"Then there was that Murphy, the kid from Boston that got blown out of Sandy's arms. He had kept on throwing mortars until he was hit. Sandy had gone out to rescue him. A big Jap shell splashed right behind them.

"Those kids, their faces. I can't explain to you, but it was as tho they were drifting along with me as I walked. I've never had such a feeling in my life.

"For a little while I resented the happiness the people were showing on the streets. Then I realized that every one of them must have had a Murphy, or a scared kid, or a Moffitt some place. It's a lot more delicate than you could put in words. But then I felt that those kids must be pretty satisfied if there was any way they could see the way people were celebrating, because after all that's what they were fighting for. And so it wasn't hard to figure that somehow these utterly impersonal kisses that were being thrown at you were in some way being thrown to those kids.

"By that time there was no emotion left in me. Just finished. So I felt a lot better and walked home, and for me the war was over. It was like the last page of a book. I came to the words, The End, and that was that.

"I wonder if that wasn't the reaction of a lot of service men, because I saw them walking alone, singly, a funny look on their faces. . . .

"Those stinking little cemeteries! I suppose that's the price America pays. Damn these wars, anyway! . . . Tell me, what are we going to do if there is another one?"

"STUNNED AND SPINNING"

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 10—Those bent on making the United States over according to the blueprint of Marxism or fascism are increasingly active, audacious, and achieving.

A few weeks ago the Supreme court majority, led by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, freed Harry Bridges from the sentence of deportation which he deserved as a subversive alien. He at once flew to Washington and told the press that the strikes he would bring on would make those he had brought on look like "peanuts." Later he threatened to get into the CIO-New Deal fight on Montgomery Ward.

Claude Pepper, CIO-PAC senator, announced a detailed plan for a super New Deal that will make the former look like "peanuts." It was declared that President Truman favors it. Why should any one expect him not to? He said he was glad to have the votes of communists, and was approved by Sidney Hillman, and solemnly promised when President Roosevelt died that he would carry out his policies. Many wishful thinkers who do not care to bestir themselves still fix their hopes on President Truman. If he were to do all in his power to restore constitutional government, he could not do it without a new congress, the present one being under the control of Hillman, by whom more than 100 members were elected. With few exceptions, these men have voted for all leftist measures.

The defeat of Churchill by Attlee, who urged the nationalizing of many businesses of importance, has given the socialistic New Dealers in this country much encouragement and they have redoubled their activities.

Those who favor free enterprise and political freedom of the individual seem stunned and are spinning around as tho they had been hit hard on their heads. They are disunited, vacillating, and timid, and are so far fighting a rear guard defense. Unless they change to aggressive and intelligent positive resistance against the forces for socialism, they will be defeated. There are capable leaders whom they should follow, but they are not following them.

2. If you want an apartment, you must have the floor scraped and the woodwork done in white.
3. If you want the apartment, you cannot have a radio.

SIGNS DON'T STOP DRIVERS

Chicago, July 31—A few months ago the city went to the expense of installing stop lights and painting large white stripes and a huge "Stop" on the pavement at North Clark and Schiller sts. This has always been a dangerous corner because of a jog in Schiller st. Now it is more dangerous than ever, as less than 50 per cent of the drivers pay any attention to the signs. Nothing seems to be done about this, even tho officers report from a call box on corner all day.

OBSERVER

HE HATES PEOPLE

Chicago, Aug. 8—In mentioning the effects of the atomic bomb, your editorial states, "war becomes almost too horrible to contemplate. It is not impossible that whole cities may be obliterated in a fraction of a second by a single bomb."

To my realistic self, it would seem that such a possibility should be enthusiastically welcomed since it would spell finis to the overwhelming, gigantic stupidity known as the human race, which evolves from nowhere to fuddle hideously over the face of the earth in ghastly inhumanities and hypocritical cruelties, to go nowhere—having advanced toward civilization but an infinitesimal space in thousands of years.

"Civilization" would be that condition created by love, compassion, tolerance, and justice, thru education of the young. We do not now have civilization. Some individuals are civilized, but their number is pathetically, grotesquely little.

"But I don't want to die," whines the cringing, bestial, amoral fool who comprises the composite colossus man, as he loudly asserts his right to work, drink, sleep, and eat his way miserably into oblivion. Why not die? The futility known as life—this insensate chain letter—is ridiculously inane and would be better destroyed.

If man in his idiotic blunderings has reached the ultimate toward his own annihilation perhaps there is truth in the puerile utterance, "Everything happens for the best."

CITY AMBULANCE SERVICE

Chicago, Aug. 6—I have had two shocking experiences in a few days. Last week I saw a woman hit by a street car. She lay on the track for some time until a fire truck came along and took her to the hospital. Yesterday another street car hit a second woman. She was taken to the hospital in a police squad car.

I keep wondering why Chicago, a big tax collecting city, can't have ambulance service. Every other city I have gone thru gives such service.

Instead of our taxes going to waste, why not have service for the ones who are suffering? MARY DUPLEX

GRANDCHILDREN'S INHERITANCE

Chicago, Aug. 13—My father-in-law has just died. My husband died two years ago. It is my understanding that their grandfather intended to leave some money to my children but I do not know that he made a will. 1. Where should I go to find out whether there was a will? 2. Whether there was one or not, would my children be entitled to their father's share? V. A.

1. To the office of the clerk of the Probate court.
2. If there was a will, its wording would control. If there was no will, your children would divide their father's share.

1,550 VETERANS REACH N. Y. ON HOSPITAL SHIP

Reveals Italians Seized Vessel for Allies

New York, Aug. 16 (AP) — The Frances Y. Slanger, world's largest and fastest hospital ship, entered New York harbor today after an eight day voyage from Cherbourg, France.

More than 1,550 ill and wounded veterans of the European war were aboard the former Italian liner Saturnia, whose skipper, Capt. Oscar J. Trevisan of New York City, revealed that the ship came into allied hands thru anti-Fascist Italian seamen.

Trevisan said the ship was in Venice when Italy surrendered. Anti-Fascist crewmen seized her, he said, sailed her to Taranto where additional crewmen were obtained, and then brought her to the United States flying the American flag.

The vessel sailed for months as a troop ship between New York and Europe manned by Italian prisoners and Americans, he added.

Five other ships arrived here, bringing the day's total of returned veterans to 3,339. They were the Robert Hunter, with 418 men; Hannis Taylor, 756; the Cape Flattery, 590; James E. Squires, 22, and the Nash Bulk, three.

THE QUESTION

In your opinion what would "the life of Riley" be?

WHERE ASKED

Stevens hotel.

THE ANSWERS

Phil Stein, stage manager, 1100 S. Monitor av.—Can you imagine being a stage manager and working only with technicians? That would be the life of Riley for me—no ham actors, no temperamental actresses — no worries. Just usher an audience into the theater, raise the curtain, and lower it.

Arnold Frisch, district manager, 5436 Ellis av.—Give me a handsome face, a pent house in Hollywood, a country home, a yacht, six autos, and all the accessories that go with being a millionaire. Of course, living the life of Riley I would naturally expect to live in Riley's house with Riley's servants to attend me.

Anthony Zientek, house officer, 2319 21st st.—I love to fish. I could spend all my spare time doing it and enjoy myself. If I were living the life of Riley, I'd want a fishing boat anchored in Lake Michigan, loaded with food and drink and the finest fishing equipment, friends, and no financial worries.

Maj. Harvey Cluff, Camp Lee, Va.—Leading the life of Riley is just what I'm doing now. I have a wife, two children, a home, and a vacation from work now and then. To make the picture complete, I think I would enjoy being a professional tourist and take a six months' vacation twice a year.

Gene O'Leary, assistant chief house officer, 7 N. Keeler av.—I'd want a sizeable fortune, a home in the best part of Florida, a few good looking women acquaintances, and a huge supply of 55c cigars. When all this got dull I'd like a cottage in the woods near a lake where I could get away from it all.

Edward Buettner, house officer, 6618 Kimbark av.—The most important thing is good health so that I'd be able to lead the life of Riley—a cottage on the lake, a motor boat, and a sweet woman [which I have]. To enjoy this lazy occupation of fishing for the pleasure of it I'd want to have a big bank account.

SECRECY LIFTED ON HIDDEN GUNS AT SOO CANAL

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 16 (AP)—The lid was off today on the most heavily guarded inland city in the United States—Sault Ste. Marie, home of the Sault locks.

Nothing has been made public until now concerning the elaborate precautions to guard the canal, which moves a greater tonnage than all the other great canals of the world, including Panama and Suez. Had it been blocked, the supply of iron ore needed to carry on the war would have virtually been cut off.

At one time 51 barrage balloons floated over the locks thru which passed more than 300 million tons of iron ore in the last four years. The noses of 48 anti-aircraft guns poked from tennis courts, parks and back yards in this city of 15,000 normal population.

On guard were 12,000 soldiers and officers.

LEGION MAY GIVE WEALTH TO VETS OF WORLD WAR II.

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Plans of the American Legion to turn over the organization with its 100 million dollars of assets to the veterans of World War II., if the men who defeated Germany, Italy, and Japan want it, were disclosed yesterday while the program for the Legion's national convention in Chicago on Nov. 18 to 20 was weighed. The assets include real estate, club houses, and accumulated endowment, trust, investment, and building funds.

"Veterans of World War I. have carried on for almost 27 years," said Donald G. Glascoff, adjutant in Indianapolis, Ind., national headquarters. "We're getting a little old and a bit tired. We're ready to say to the men who fought this war, 'Here it is. If you want it you can have it. You'll soon outnumber us three to one. Take it over—lock, stock, and barrel.'"

Illinois Approves Plan

Comdr. Arthur E. Canty of the department of Illinois at once corroborated the statement. "Yes," Canty said, "that's the way it is. They may form an organization of their own if they want to. But here's one ready to their hand.

"Upward of 100 million dollars in assets—millions in real estate and buildings, bought and paid for—theirs for the taking. The Legion had a potential membership of only 4 million when we started. Veterans of World War II. have a potential of 13 million. There's nothing in the world to prevent them from taking us over.

"There's not a doubt in the world that the men who fought these wars in Europe, Africa, and the Pacific theater to a victorious conclusion have got among them everything that it takes—and more."

Leaders Speak for Members

Both the national and local leaders made it plain they were speaking for the vast rank and file of the veterans' organization, which at the end of the fiscal year, Aug. 1, 1945, had an all-time high membership of 1,666,808 in 12,445 Legion posts. Glascoff said 500,000 World War II. members had joined in the last 30 months.

"The charter now provides that, with the cessation of hostilities, even the men who continue in the army or navy will be eligible," they said. This gives the World War II. veterans their full potentiality and makes it positive they can take the Legion over if they want to.

Benefit for New Veterans

"We want to save them from the pitfalls and mistakes that we made, save them probably millions in organizing funds and give them, if they wish to take it, a powerful organization to administer for their own and the country's best interests."

In addition to bringing President Truman here for the 1945 convention, activities are progressing to bring other national or international figures. Canty said it is planned to have the President address the convention—first full dress meeting of the Legion since the attack on Pearl Harbor—on the opening day, Nov. 18.

A Job Is Next

Experience in keeping Stateville penitentiary hospital records and marks of over 90 in prison accounting courses were among the qualifications Joseph Majczek, 37, listed last night for the job he hopes to find soon.

Majczek was released from Stateville Wednesday after serving 11½ years for a murder of which he has been declared innocent—the killing in 1933 of Policeman William D. Lundy in a delicatessen robbery. A pardon from Gov. Green ended a long fight by Majczek's mother, Tillie, 57, to prove her son's innocence. She offered a $5,000 reward for Lundy's killers—money she earned scrubbing floors in loop buildings.

Last night Majczek was home with his mother at 2038 W. 52d st.

GIRL PRISONER OF JAPS EATS CATS AND DOGS

Rationing did not bother Miss Patty Geise Croft, 20, of Manila for three years and two months of the war. During that time she ate boiled cats and dogs, insects, and lily bulbs to keep alive while a prisoner of the Japanese.

Miss Patty G. Croft

In Chicago to visit her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Freudenberg, 5059 Sheridan rd., Miss Croft related how she, her mother, and an 18 year old brother traded 21 jewel wrist watches for rice and hid an American flag during the period of their internment. The flag was raised over their camp at Los Banos in Feb., 1945, when they were rescued by the 11th air borne division a day before the day set for their execution by the Japs.

Miss Croft, daughter of A. J. Croft, superintendent of Hickam field, Hawaii, has resided in the Philippines since she was one year old. She will remain in the United States to attend college.

NAVY POINT SYSTEM INCENSES VETERANS OF PACIFIC BATTLES

GUAM, Aug. 17 [Friday]—(AP)—Navy men in the Pacific, some of whom have seen sea duty since the Coral sea battle—May, 1942—are incensed over the navy's discharge point system.

They say it gives shorebound sailors, who served all of the war in the United States, an equal or better chance of discharge. Younger men who have been in many battles charge the navy was unfair to put stress on age, none on battle stars. Men just out from the states, with the same number of points as those who have been here 40 months and up, say they, too, think the system is unfair because they should not get an even break with the men who fought in many battles.

Enlisted men are starting to bombard their families with letters asking them to apply pressure to get them home. Single men object to points for dependency, asking "how can we get wives and families unless we come home?"

INSTALMENT XXIII.
IMPLICATING EVIDENCE

The moaning of a wounded animal came to them. "Hit in the head," a cowboy called out. "Have to kill it, I reckon. Take a look, Cairns."

The foreman's gun cracked.

"Look what I've found," a man shouted.

He joined the others, an old white wide-brimmed hat in his hand. Cairns took the hat and stared at it. "It must of fell off one of their heads, and he dassent stop to pick it up," the foreman said.

He handed it back to the man who found it. "We'll keep that, Jack. It might be evidence."

"How?" some one asked. "The fellow ain't gonna advertise in the Beacon he has lost his hat."

Jack gave an exclamation of excitement. "His initials are stamped in the band. See here." He struck a match to read them. "B. S. Why it's Bruce Sherrill's hat."

"He's left his calling card," Jack cried jubilantly. "I'll bet he's sweatin' blood right now wondering whc will find the hat."

"Mr. Sherill was sure careless," Cairns said. "But you'll see he will have some kind of an explanation. Maybe he sold his hat some time to one of you boys."

Cairns congratulated himself on the smooth way he had worked this. He had let one of the boys find the hat and identify the owner. There had not been a slip-up anywhere.

They rode back to the ranch house and reported. Late tho it was, Daly and his two guests were still up. They were too interested and too anxious to go to bed. Even tho no raider had been captured, Daly was more than satisfied. The hat found on the scene was a mute witness Sherrill would find it hard to refute.

Cairns carried the news himself to the sheriff. He was not going to lose the opportunity of exulting over him. Humphreys was disturbed to hear of the raid and particularly to learn that there was evidence implicating Bruce Sherrill. But when he took the story home to his wife, Jessie scoffed at his fears.

"Bruce isn't such a fool," she told him stoutly. "And I wouldn't believe a word that scoundrel Bill Cairns says, not after he stood out among the trees there and shot Bruce's horse. I wouldn't put it past him to have done it himself just to get Bruce into trouble."

"That's possible," the sheriff agreed. "But Bill Cairns did not find the hat, he says. The boy who found it was Jack Peters. He seems to me a nice straightforward lad. I think I had better ride out to the Pitchfork and look around. Daly has the reputation of being an honest man. I would like to talk with him."

"What about Bruce?" she asked. "He is in town. He passed an hour ago he waved at me. Are you going to tell him?"

"I think so. If he has a defense I want to hear it before I meet Daly."

The sheriff found Bruce at Doan & Devon's store. He drew the ranchman aside and told him what he had heard.

"Looks like a frame-up," Bruce said at once. "I didn't leave the ranch Thursday night."

"Can you prove that?"

"Only by Ramrod. Mark and Neal went to a dance and didn't get back till morning."

"That's bad. They claim Ramrod was with you. And what about that hat they found? Could it be yours?"

"I don't see how it could. There's an old hat of mine around the house. But how could Cairns get hold of it?" Bruce came to a swift decision. "You say you are going out to the Pitchfork. I'll ride with you and be your deputy, Tim."

Humphreys reminded him that he was under suspicion.

"Can't I whistle in the dark?" Bruce wanted to know. "Fact is, I can't let a lie like this stand without facing it, not with Barnard and Sawyer out at Daly's ranch having the wool pulled over their eyes."

The sheriff understood the urge of Bruce to clear himself, and it would not be a bad idea to let Bruce confront his accusers.

The sheriff threw up his hands in surrender. "Be ready to start in 15 minutes. Meet me in front of my office. And don't forget that Cairns is in town. At least he was an hour ago."

The mention of the name was like a cue. The foreman straddled into the store. His glance picked up Humphreys and Sherrill.

"You arresting that scoundrel, sheriff?" he demanded.

"Take it easy Bill, when the time comes for an arrest I'll make it."

"I wonder," Cairns replied insolently.

Bruce said nothing. This was the sheriff's business, and he judged him competent to handle it. Ten minutes later the two men were jogging out of town.

Near the summit of Wind Break Pass Humphreys looked back over the zigzag trail they had followed and caught sight of a horseman a few hundred yards behind them.

"I believe it is Cairns," he said. "On his way to the Pitchfork."

Bruce nodded. "I think we'd better stop and admire the view, Tim," he proposed. "I'd rather have him in front of us than behind."

The foreman did not draw up, but as he passed he flung a jeer at the officer. "You make a fine front, sheriff, for criminals to hide behind."

"I gather you don't approve of me, Bill," Humphreys answered blandly.

"What do you care, since the crooks who elected you do?" Cairns snarled. "I judge a man by the company he keeps."

He rode past them, his thick body stiff in the saddle.

They reached the Pitchfork in midafternoon. The ranch house lay in a circular bowl slashed by openings thro which a small stream ran in and out. A man came out of the bunk house and caught sight of the two riders moving down into the valley. He watched them until they were close enough for identification before waking to excited activity. Men poured out of the bunk house. One gave directions and the men scattered to posts at different parts of the yard.

"Mr. Cairns has been fixing up a welcome for me," Bruce drawled. "Where do we go from here, sheriff?"

Humphreys held his pony to an even road gait. "To the front porch. Cairns isn't with them. I don't think they will start anything, at least until he shows up. Don't make any cracks," Humphreys warned. "I'll do any talking that's necessary."

"I'll be quiet as an undertaker," Bruce promised.

Surprising, isn't it, how far you can stretch the contents of just one jar of salad dressing when there's no more to be had and a shortage of red points keeps you from making your own?

Luckily, fat tomatoes are now ripening in most home gardens, and a dash of salt is dressing enough for a trayful of these sliced beauties. Cucumbers in vinegar also may be served to save salad dressing.

And there are salad dressings which can be made without oil. Cottage cheese [the creamy type] and buttermilk are the basis of good salad dressings made without oil. Sour cream and bacon drippings, tho also scarce, make good substitutes for oil. Even peanut butter, which is plentiful, makes a dressing for greens and certain fruit combinations.

Following are recipes for salad dressings without oil:

Cottage Cheese—Add lemon juice to taste [about 1 tablespoon to ¼ cup of cheese]. Season with salt and horseradish, dry mustard, or Worcestershire sauce, if you like. Diced cucumber, minced onion, or finely chopped green pepper may be added for variety. Use with sliced tomatoes and fruit salads. This also will substitute for mayonnaise as the garnish on tart gelatin salads.

Buttermilk or Yogurt—Use one part lemon juice to 2 parts buttermilk or yogurt. Season with salt, paprika, and celery seed. For added flavor, rub the bowl with garlic before mixing or add scraped onion. Such a dressing will have more body if sieved cooked egg yolk or a little cottage cheese is included. It's excellent for slaws.

Sour Cream [natural or cultured]—Add ¼ cup vinegar, a few grains of cayenne, and salt to taste to 1 cup sour cream. Any of the variations used with cottage cheese are good with sour cream. Try combining this with the cottage cheese dressing in equal parts for combination salads. To stretch your cooked dressings in potato salad, substitute sour cream for ½ to ⅔ the dressing needed.

Bacon Drippings—Reheat drippings and cook minced onion in them until tender. Add ¼ cup vinegar to ½ cup drippings. Serve hot over greens. For a less tart dressing, use diluted vinegar. Finely shredded Swiss chard is delicious with this dressing.

Peanut Butter Dressing
[½ Cup]

2 tablespoons peanut butter
2 tablespoons cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ to ½ teaspoon grated horseradish
Dash of salt

Combine peanut butter and cream. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Serve with greens or on fruit salads. Beat well before using.

Thickened Bacon Dressing
[1½ Cups]

5 teaspoons bacon drippings
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon paprika or black pepper
½ cup vinegar
2 egg yolks, beaten

Heat fat and add flour, stirring until smooth. Add salt, pepper, vinegar, and water. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in beaten egg yolks. Chill and serve on greens.

4 radishes, sliced
6 medium cooked potatoes, chopped
2 tablespoons minced onion
½ cup chopped cucumber
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup cooked salad dressing

Prepare gelatin according to directions on package. When partly set pour ⅓ into greased loaf pan. When almost set arrange sliced eggs and radishes in gelatin. Return to refrigerator until firm. Pack potato salad over first layer and pour remaining gelatin on top. Chill several hours or overnight. Turn out on serving platter and garnish with radishes. Serves six.

Try Cornmeal Dough for Meat-Biscuit Roll

Cornmeal dough for a meat and biscuit roll is a nice change from the usual baking powder biscuit type covering. Measure 2 cups sifted flour into a mixing bowl. Add 1 cup cornmeal, 4 teaspoons baking powder, and 1 teaspoon salt, and sift twice. Cut in ¼ cup shortening. Add 1 cup milk and stir until ingredients are well mixed. Roll into rectangular sheet, 9 by 12 inches. Cover with 1½ cups ground cooked meat; roll up like jelly roll. Cut in 12 slices, place cut side up on a greased pan, and bake 25 minutes at 425 degrees.

Music Festival Luncheon Will Be Held Today

BY JUDITH CASS

ONE of the most pleasant and gayest pre-Chicago Music Festival parties is the annual Festival luncheon. It will be held at noon today in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel, with all the 1,700 seats taken and a colorful program arranged.

The address of welcome will be given by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. At the speakers' table with Col. and Mrs. McCormick will be Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett, who are to sing at the festival tomorrow night in Soldiers' field. Absent from the speakers' table for the first time since the luncheons were started nine years ago, will be Mrs. William Ragland, known internationally in opera as Edith Mason. Altho Mrs. Ragland, who is recovering from an appendectomy, will not be able to attend the luncheon, she will go to Soldiers' field tomorrow to judge the finals of the men's and women's singing competitions with Miss Swarthout and Mr. Tibbett.

Also missing will be Dr. F. Melius Christiansen of St. Olaf's Lutheran college, Northfield, Minn., known as the father of a capella singing in America. Dr. Christiansen, who was to have been one of the speakers, was prevented by illness from making the trip to Chicago, but Dr. Edgar Nelson will pay tribute to him at the luncheon.

Other Luncheon Guests

Others who will be seated at the head table include Mrs. J. Royden Keith, chairman of budget and finance for the National Federation of Music Clubs; Mrs. Charles S. Clark, founder and president of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen; Henry Weber, director of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra; Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Marie Sidenius Zendt, Rudolph Ganz, Willard Cole, president of the State Street council, and Philip Maxwell, director of the festival, who will serve as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Clark, who also will speak, will be introduced by Miss Herma Clark of THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Weber will talk on festival music.

The presentation of colors by the United States marine corps, followed by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, will open the luncheon festivities. Songs by Miss Carol Smith, 1944 festival best woman singer, accompanied at the piano by Robert Macdonald, and the usual hilarious interlude by the Four Misfits are other highlights of the luncheon program. Before departing the guests will join in singing "Auld Lang Syne," led by Carl Craven.

On the Calendar

Members of the Green Lake, Wis., summer colony will take part in the 20th annual Green Lake Flower show to be held tomorrow at the resort under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry A. Cody Jr. and Mrs. Edward V. Nigbor. Mrs. Cyrus Logan Garnett and Mrs. Walter Garrett Smith of Evanston will exhibit blooms from their Green Lake gardens. Mrs. Paul B. Skinner, Mrs. John Alden Morgan, Mrs. Frank F. Story Jr., and Mrs. Joseph L. Strauss Jr. are other exhibitors. They also are serving on the committee for the show. The proceeds will be added to a local park fund.

Mrs. Charles E. Rollins Jr. of Chicago will be one of the judges. Among other Chicagoans now in Green Lake are Mrs. Margaret Pope Hovey and her children, who are with Mrs. Hovey's mother, Mrs. Henry Pope. The Garnetts' granddaughter, Phoebe Kirk, is with them and will sell flowers at the show. The Albert R. Hansens of Evanston are at the resort for the summer with their four daughters.

The running of the Washington Park Futurity tomorrow afternoon will draw a large attendance of racing enthusiasts. Some of those who have made reservations for luncheon at the track are the Warren Wrights, Maj. and Mrs. Ednyfed Williams, Mrs. Bert L. Atwater, the Daniel and the Joseph Rices, the William J. Sineks, and the Frank Berings.

Here and There

Now that the state department again is issuing passports to home owners in Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dick will go down late this month to reopen their home there. They will fly to the island by clipper from New York. In spite of the years that the house has been vacant, the Dicks have received reports from their caretakers that it still is in good condition and ready for occupancy.

Another Chicago property owner on the island, John R. Winterbotham, already has arrived in Bermuda, after much difficulty in boarding a plane in New York. He will return in a few weeks, however, since he and Mrs. Winterbotham do not plan to live there until conditions are more normal. Their son, John R. Winterbotham III., is on duty in Hawaii with the army engineers. He formerly was stationed in the European theater of operations.

News of the arrival of his daughter, Melanie Jo, Aug. 13 in Evanston hospital will give Corp. Robert Hermann an added reason for looking forward to his homecoming from Okinawa. Young Mrs. Hermann is the former Joyce Mathison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mathison of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Grover M. Hermann of Winnetka are the baby's paternal grandparents.

Mrs. Wallace D. Mackenzie and her children, Madeleine and Ross, have joined the summer colony at the Dune Acres club, Chesterton, Ind., to remain until the end of August. Dr. Mackenzie will join them toward the end of their stay. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Tackett have sold their attractive house at Dune Acres and have taken an apartment in Lake Shore dr.

Stores Ready for Fall Rush of Shoppers

BY REA SEEGER

With the loop cleared of paper and the stores and the shop windows restored to pre-war splendor and color, the shopper can get down to the serious business of rounding up fall and winter clothes without a twinge of conscience.

All available collections are on display. From dizzily high hats to whatever is obtainable in footgear, everything is out, ready for the first rush. Even the fabric collections have been rolled out, resplendent with rich fall colors. There are tweeds and fine smooth woolens, the first of the velveteens and corduroys, the first thin dress crepes, and what's left of the rayon taffetas and brocade satins.

Bag collections are marked by the prevalence of fabric and plastic frames and clasps. Broadcloth, wool-crepe, ribbed woolens, velvets and velveteens, and the time-tested beauties of cord and braid have arrived and been put out to tempt the cruising shoppers with plans in the making for a fall and winter wardrobe.

Because the hats are extreme, wide, and large, handbags are getting smaller and smaller. The pouch bags are soft and provide enough capacity for the usual assortment of odds and extras carried around by the average woman. Box bags of smaller outline are smart as ever. Bags with carrying straps, somewhat shorter than last year, are also favorites. The black satin ones, either in the envelope models or in the more elaborately designed models, are ideal for immediate wear with all the first fall black satins and crepe suits and dresses.

College clothes collections are being shopped for in dead earnest now, with only two weeks left to go.

The smartest hosiery for all jersey, wool crepe, wool tweed mixtures, and other street and school clothes still are the plentiful rayon and cotton meshes.

Create Cotton That Will Not Rot or Mildew

New Orleans, La., Aug. 15 (AP)—A new modified cotton fabric that does not mildew or rot, even under very severe conditions, has been developed here at the southern regional research laboratory of the United States department of agriculture.

This new material is partly acetylated cotton, which is somewhat related to rayon made by the cellulose acetate process. It has the appearance and strength of ordinary cotton, but differs in its unusual resistance to the attack of microorganisms which succeed in rotting ordinary cotton.

As a test of the rot resistance of the new material, acetylated cotton cloth and thread were buried in the ground, or in especially active soil beds, in which ordinary cotton would have disintegrated within a week. It was found that the treated cotton could remain buried in such beds from six months to a year with very little loss of strength.

Sandbags made from the treated cloth and sewed with treated thread piled outdoors on the ground, were still intact after two years' exposure. Apparently they would have remained in serviceable condition much longer if the test had been extended.

The modified cotton cloth, yarn, and sewing thread promise to prove suitable for making clothing that will not mildew, tents and awnings that will not rot in damp climates, and fish nets which will not rot if put away wet.

The treatment is promising for use in making rot resistant bags for fruit, vegetables, and other food. Ordinary bags sometimes can be rotted very rapidly by, for example, just one spoiled potato, or by being left standing on the ground too long when in use during harvesting.

Unlike the preservatives now generally available for cotton fabrics, the new method of rotproofing does not cause discoloration, odor, or stickiness, and, above all, does not make the material toxic, a great advantage for use in food sacks.

The new process was undertaken because of war needs for more resistant threads and fabrics. The development was the work of Charles F. Goldthwait, James McLaren, and Samuel T. Voorhies Jr., aided by other workers at the southern regional research laboratory.

FASHIONS
By Angela

The coed this fall will be smart and smooth looking. Gone, happily, are the sloppy janes, and in their stead is a person fashion wise, interested in the lines, fit, and color of every item in her wardrobe.

The one piece coat dress at the left is the perfect class room classic. Of cotton gabardine, it is finely tailored with three darts below the shoulder yoke. The skirt's unpressed plaits are stitched part way down. A studded leather belt matches the dress buttons.

Another smart one piece dress is the fuchsia rayon mixture in the center. It has the new collarless neckline and two rectangular wooden buttons decorating the bodice. Black felt leaves are appliqued on the material belt, and two kick plaits add to the skirt's smooth line.

A jumper type dress is a favorite in the collegiate wardrobe, and the two color combination at the right is particularly attractive. The bodice, extended shoulders, belt, and skirt are of soft gray. The long full sleeves, lapels, and collar are of shrimp pink. This same model is available in combinations of black with fuchsia, brown with green, and black with aqua.

Cool Summer Salad Appeals to Eye and Appetite

(Other recipes, menus, food suggestions, and news are on the opposite page)

Cool as a lake breeze, this salad has eye as well as appetite appeal. Its base is a half inch slice of peeled and fluted cantaloupe. Use a crimped-edge vegetable cutter to do the fluting. Watermelon balls and lettuce surround the melon slice, and a dipper of your favorite ice or sherbet is the topping. The mint sprig is colorful garnish. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD Cal., Aug. 16—Peace is here at last after years of fighting, praying, waiting. Peace on earth for mothers, wives, sweethearts, brothers and sisters who are now freed of the nightmare of war. . . . To millions of battle weary men, peace means a return to normal living. It's as tough a jolt to those boys as the dislocation of going to war—even tougher since the transition is made without fiery oratory and blaring bands. Going in, each man was a part of a great thrilling whole; coming out it's each for himself, alone with memories and his secrets. For these, once the great wave of joy subsides, peace means empty hands and a vast sense of anti-climax. It means the letdown of civilian clothes after the lift of uniform, and taking up of routine tasks among people who've enjoyed safe years, and because of it, won't speak the soldier's language.

1,500 Actors Still in Service

Hollywood can truly be proud of her almost 2,000 actors who enlisted in the services—army, navy, marines, and coast guard. Fifteen hundred are still to be released, among them many of our name stars. . . . These big stars have done a fine job of work in a quiet, unassuming manner. Their return to public life must be made with the briefest possible interval—they have fans waiting, a box office to consider. Yet they will fare better than the average man in the ranks, since studio routine carries more color and adventure than daily living spells for the man in the street. And news dispatches have helped keep the actors' memory green.

465 Back in Hollywood

Four hundred and sixty-five of the original 2,000 enlisted are already back in Hollywood. They are quieter, graver, filled with an awareness of the responsibility each man must carry in the post-war world—no leaving it to the other fellow in the future. And they have one thing in common—a complete disinterest in war as a subject for movie material.

Film Colony Losses Light

A lucky twist of fate has spared us our big time stars. Many of them have been in the thickest of the fight—a large percentage of them on hazardous air missions with the percentage heavily against them. Clark Gable, one of the first to return to movie ranks after filming bombing missions overseas, has a war record that definitely adds luster to his star status. He's busy at work making "Big Shore Leave" with Greer Garson. . . . Definitely in the escape field is Tyrone Power's first picture—"Captain from Castile," which his studio has been holding for him for the last two months. Ty has won a host of fans not only thru his exploits as a marine pilot in the South Pacific, but for the modesty and informality of his life among the GIs. . . . One amusing incident from Okinawa tells of Ty's return from a bombing mission so covered with grime, so dog tired, he lost identity among a knot of men all grease smeared, in old leather jackets and red baseball caps. A navy photographer dropped down on a box beside him, said: "What did you do before you got into this?" "O, I was in pictures," Ty said. Light began to dawn on the navy boy's face. "I thought you looked familiar," he said.

Wayne Morris Wins Six Decorations

You can bet a big public is waiting for Wayne Morris—the boy who made a smash hit in "Kid Galahad" and became an ace flyer. He comes back to make the same type of pictures he did before winning six or more decorations, including the navy cross and distinguished flying cross. . . . Ronald Reagan is another of Warners' stars who'll go right on with appealing romantic types . . . And Herbert Anderson who clicked in comedy—remember "The Male Animal"?—asks nothing better than to pick up where he left off.

They'll All Be Welcome

One of the biggest box office losses was Col. James Stewart, a boy with a million fans. He'll have a neat list of screen plays to select from when he gets back into civvies. High on the list is the Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall tale of an ace flyer, "High Barbaree," which Metro admits they bought with him in mind. . . . Cesar Romero was scarcely out of uniform before he was cast in a musical, "Three Little Girls in Blue." . . . Tim Holt, that western star who laid away spurs and 10 gallon topper to pilot a B-29 Super Fortress over Japan, has had as much fan mail with eager inquiries about his post-war career as he got when he was here. . . . Dennis Day has seen some tough going at Kwajalein and other spots fighting the Japs. His voice on the radio will fill a void we've all felt. . . . Henry Fonda will be back from the navy and Gene Raymond from the army air forces. . . . Ginger Rogers is making ready to welcome husband Jack Briggs. . . . Yes, and Mickey Rooney will be clowning before the cameras again, instead of for his pals in the division.

There Are Others, Too

Producer John Ford is back. He has just completed "They Were Expendable." And we'll have Frank Capra films, too. It would be hard to fill the shoes of either of them, and nobody did. . . . And movies will be better for the return of a host of writers, singers, musicians, and other artists of entertainment who laid down their tasks to help bring about a better world. . . . We've ended one phase of the task. Perhaps a bigger one lies before us—a phase requiring more day-to-day patience. We've got to keep this world we've won the sort of place we're proud to live in.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of our favorite foundation lotions—it's a perfect love for very dry skins—is out in a new shade we like immensely, especially for the skin that is ever so faintly sunkissed, or that could do with a finish that gives a little warm, faintly beige glow.

This is a shade that does flattering things for the dry skin that looks a little drab at this tail end of summer; it enlivens it a little. It also tones down the skin that's a shade too ruddy—it should be particularly nice for the white haired women whose skin is a bit too pink tinted.

The new color is the latest addition to a family of six tints and it's newsworthy. But it's the texture of the foundation itself that's most important. It's a liquid, rather thick, and it's one of those preparations with a lanolin and oil base which must be well shaken in the bottle each time you use it because it separates. Shaken well, tho, it becomes one beautiful blend, so far as we're concerned.

You use it sparingly—the manufacturer suggests that you turn the bottle up side down in the process of shaking, remove the cap and use, for your make-up base, just the generous drop left in the cap. Blend this on with the finger tips and then pat dry, again with the finger tips. Then you've got a smooth, soft, and flattering base for your powder. What's more, while your makeup won't be sticky, your dry skin is lubricated the least little bit—which is good.

And when you want to freshen your makeup just splash cold water over the old makeup, pat dry with tissue, and powder. It's a help when you're in a hurry and want to pick up your facial facade, but fast!

Three Guesses What Happens in This Movie

"THE BEAUTIFUL CHEAT"

By Mae Tinée

Three guesses what happens when a professor named Alexander Haven, winner of the Nobel prize and brother of two spinsters named Athena and Olympia, encounters modern youth while he is in the process of writing a book on juvenile delinquency? Yep, before you know it he's a jitterbug and a champagne drinker, and his sisters are giving out with the jive.

Noah Beery Jr. plays the stuffed shirt, and Bonita Granville impersonates a hard boiled kid from a reform school. [She's really a lady, of course.]

The whole thing is pretty obvious and may remind you of better pictures using the same plot. The two principals do well enough with their roles, which offer few surprises, but unless you laugh pretty easily, "The Beautiful Cheat" probably will strike you as only very mildly funny.

Pro Arte Introduces Distinguished Malipiero Quartet At Second Ravinia Concert

Concert by the Pro Arte Quartet [Rudolf Kolisch and Albert Rahier, violins; Germain Prevost, viola; Ernst Friedlaender, cello]. Presented at Ravinia Thursday evening, Aug. 16, 1945. The program: Quartet in D major, Kochel 575 ..Mozart
Rispetti e Strambotti.....Malipiero
Quartet in F major, Opus 59, No. 1 .....Beethoven

In most lines of work, winning a sizeable prize is a fair indication of publicity, even if not necessarily of popularity. But music has to be more than published, it has to be played, and the fact that back in 1920 Malipiero won the Coolidge award of $1,000 for his string quartet, "Rispetti e Strambotti," by no means kept it from sounding like a novelty when the Pro Arte Quartet tucked it between Mozart and Beethoven at Ravinia last night.

Yet a quarter of a century is an unreasonable time to wait for so distinguished a work which is also charming.

Unorthodox in form, it consists of short movements each complete in itself, and there is a key in the enigmatic, almost untranslatable title, which approximately means "Honors and Grotesqueries," or, if you prefer, "Respects and Distortions." Malipiero is as fastidious a writer as composer, so there is no reason to believe that he chose his title idly. It pays its respects to music in a grave courtliness that never quite vanishes from the score, and which is chosen to bow it graciously out of hearing almost as if a periwigged major domo drew velvet curtains on the players, yet it is unmistakably the work of an iconoclast who knows how to express his ideas.

The Pro Arte four honored its craftsmanship with a devoted and penetrating performance. The acrid, almost pungent song of the viola was safe in Mr. Prevost's keeping, and the other instruments surrounded its authoritative voice with a delicate structure alive with brilliance.

Mr. Friedlander had his innings in the Mozart, the Quartet in D, commissioned by William II. of Prussia, an inadvertant patron saint of cellists because as an amateur of that instrument any quartet designed for him naturally gave him a few solo sojourns in the solo sun. The menuetto was particularly engaging, tho in the work as a whole the Pro Arte tone sometimes sounded unfortunately thin. The evening ended with the first of Beethoven's darkly glowing "Rasoumowsky" Quartets. The other two will follow Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Anniversary

Yesterday was Brock Pemberton's silver jubilee as a theatrical producer, and he celebrated in the way producers like best, by sitting in the box office of New York's 48th st. theater and counting the customers turned away from "Harvey." Mr. Pemberton is a Kansan who started on William Allen White's Emporia Gazette. That sent him to New York's Evening Mail, World, and Times, in turn, and the drama desk of the Times sent him into Arthur Hopkins' theatrical office. On Thursday, Aug. 16, 1920, he opened his first production, Gilda Varesi's "Enter Madame," at the Garrick theater in New York. It was an overnight hit, and Mr. Pemberton never went back to the newspaper business, except to write an occasional witty column for a vacationing critic.

Tallulah's Leading Man

When "Foolish Notion" comes on Theater Guild subscription, Tallulah Bankhead's leading man will be John Emery, her ex-husband. He later married Tamara Geva.

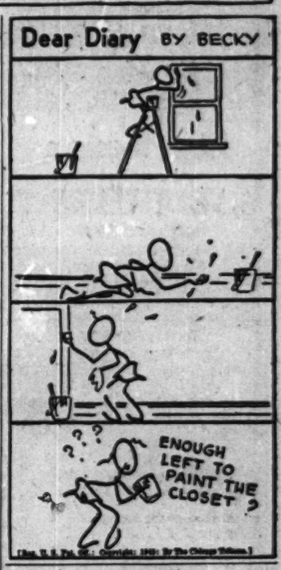
White Collar GIRL

Turning the Tables

When 28 year old Mary Rose Noël, air line publicity girl, was approached for an interview she exclaimed, "Who, me?" Used to quizzing, instead of being quizzed, Miss Noël had to wear the shoe on the other foot and talk about hrself. Mary Rose at one time wanted to be a kindergarten teacher. But, after graduating from Northwestern journalism school, she broke the ice of her career by doing publicity work—for a Chicago ice show. Her job was "strictly flunky" in its scope. But, being a skating enthusiast, she enjoyed her part in publicizing the show.

Up the Ladder

One good deed led to another. Miss Noël joined the Boy Scouts! She became a one-girl publicity department for the scouts' headquarters in Chicago. Something new was added when a girl appeared with a news release from the Boy Scouts. Radio shows, too, were on her agenda. After writing a script for a group of 12 year old scouts Miss Noël discovered, just before going on the air, that one of the boys was missing. "He was afraid of the microphone, and was home in bed having a small sized nervous breakdown," she said. "I was on the other end of the phone having a king sized nervous breakdown." But the show had to go on, so Miss Noël read the part of "Butch." No one detected it except her brother, who was listening in at home. "I knew it was Mary Rose," he insisted.



Flying High

She then joined the air line and in time became head of its public information department in Chicago. Mary Rose is a reporter for the company. She makes frequent trips to the airport to interview passengers, pilots, and other company personnel. She spots news, plans radio shows, and arranges for pictures. Sometimes, if a picture needs filling in, Mary Rose stooges for the missing roles, volunteering the back of her head, a hand, an arm, or whatever is necessary to complete the shot.

She may be awakened at 2 in the morning by an urgent phone call. Her first flight to New York was on short notice. She had two hours to pack and go to the airport.

Never a Dull Moment

Mary Rose believes publicity work calls for honesty, a sense of humor, a nose for news, imagination, a liking for people, and knowing what people are like.

Not a publicity stunt, but an actual pet, is a 6 foot alligator belonging to Mary Rose's brother. The alligator lives in a pit in their back yard in the summer; in winter it hibernates in the basement. She does not consider the pet unusual. Life is full of so many surprises for Mary Rose Noël. Parisians Make New Gowns of Gay Materials

BY ANNE BRUYERE

PARIS, Aug. 16—Checks, plaids, pin-stripes, and vivid woolens vie with bright velvets, colorful lamés, and variegated faille to fashion the new Paris gowns now being whirled away on the high powered machines of the top-flight couturiers.

Jeanne Lanvin chooses Staron's "Pourquoi Pas," a warm sturdy chocolate brown wool dyed with narrow criss-cross lines of yellow ochre. She uses it to design a button-down-the-front school dress with elegant bishop sleeves and novel patch pockets welted to match the yoke line.

"As de Coeur" is the name of a fresh blue material composed of wool and fibrane by Dumas Maury, who wove enormous hearts into it. Marcel Rochas takes it for an afternoon frock created with long wide ruffles from the wasp-waist down. The sleeves and the bodice are in one piece, the yoke seam adding width to the shoulders. A bow drapes the neckline.

Aureate, mauve, pink, emerald, and sapphire flowers appear on "Elegance," the new lamé signed Ducharne. Maggy Rou:'s has made sophisticated blouses to wear not only with dress parade broadcloth suits but also with town tweeds. One of these models has Russian sleeves, a stand-up collar, and buttons at the side.

Fashion flashes: Jeanne Lanvin displays a glimmering dressing gown of silver beads worked deftly on a lavender blue wool ground with attached stolas forming graceful circular sleeves. . . . Schiaparelli fastens the high collar of a beige and green checked travel coat with a soft leather strap and buckle. . . . Dominique uses sycamore and sharkskin to form the chaise longue, armchairs, camouflaged dressing table and studio couch of a modernistic bedroom-library set for career girls and adds a striking cardinal red and white rug to match the lamps.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	7 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

It is not every hand in contract bridge that lends itself to complete scientific description. On a great many deals situations develop for which the art of man has not been able to devise methods to elicit a full and precise picture of partner's holding. In those cases one must place his faith in probabilities and when a slam is likely should pull himself up by his bootstraps and utter the mystic words.

There are others such as the hand shown today, which are suited for delicate treatment. It was played in an important tournament not long ago and only one pair reached the grand slam in diamonds on the bidding sequence shown above, which I believe to be both accurate and interesting. The opening bid and the response of one spade are normal enough. It will be noted that while West had no doubt there was game in the hand immediately partner opened he bided his time in order to obtain as much information as possible. Some players make the mistake of responding with two no trump on hands of this type which is not good strategy.

East having a full one and one-half honor tricks in excess of his bid quite properly jumped to two no trump. At this point West knew there was a slam in the hand, but took the precaution to investigate for the best possible final contract by bidding three diamonds. East then showed his diamond support after which West showed the ace of clubs. Now East contracted for a slam. He was unwilling to bid a grand slam because for all he knew partner's diamonds might have been headed by the king-jack and he was not inclined to risk all on the chance of picking up the queen of trumps. West promptly went the limit with complete confidence. His partner was marked with a minimum honor trick holding of four and one-half, plus other factors for his subsequent violence. Those honor tricks must include, two tricks in hearts, one in diamonds, one in clubs and one-half in spades. Eleven high card tricks could be counted plus two ruffs making the total 13.

I came in for considerable abuse from one West player who jumped to six no trump after his partner's rebid of two no trump and only 11 tricks were scored since no squeeze could be developed. "It's your fault," he said, "you told me if I had a good opening bid and my partner opened the bidding and jumped, there was a slam, and since my hand was suitable for no trump I bid six."

In self defense I would like to say that my rule contains the proviso that the best final contract is reached. In this case I think it will not be disputed that the diamond suit offers the superior contract.

Spanking Is a Poor Way to Gain Results

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Spare the hairbrush and spoil the child," said a prominent educator the other day, as quoted in a morning's paper.

I always suspect the author of such statements of playing for the limelight. "Spare the hairbrush and spoil the child" is even a little cheap.

Certainly it rubs you the wrong way if you have children, if you respect them as well as enjoy them, and if you find it perfectly possible to get along with them, to gain their obedience, and to put over the whole proposition of rearing them, without recourse to the method so highly recommended of using the hairbrush.

Every once in so often this spanking business needs a good going over. For it still goes on, in spite of more intelligent angles on discipline and control.

There are several reasons why I not only dislike spanking, but know it to be a mistaken method of getting results.

In the first place, I consider it an indignity to a child. While there may be children of some temperaments who don't feel it that way, I am convinced that most children do. Some carry deep resentment of spanking all their lives. And it certainly is an undignified procedure for the adult who administers it, often in a temper, flushed with anger, altho a few parents do spank "in cold blood," sorrowfully!

The second reason why I object to it is on practical grounds. It never really gets you anywhere. Its success is only for the moment. A child doesn't learn from spanking. It doesn't develop his intelligence.

And the third reason why I object to it as a means of gaining obedience is that it isn't an approach to your child which is permanent. You can't go on for years spanking your child to get him to obey, to conform to your wishes, altho a few misguided parents attempt it. As your son or daughter grows older, you have to begin to find another way, and often you find yourself deep in defiance and antagonism.

Instead of "spare the hairbrush and spoil the child" it should read "use the hairbrush and spoil the child."

Try praise, understanding, friendliness. They work.

Elementary Pupils to Study Culture of Latin America

Study of the cultural and economic life in Latin American nations will be extended to the elementary schools when the fall term opens Sept. 4, Supt. of Schools Johnson said yesterday.

Miss Katherine M. Wirtenberger, a teacher at Peirce school, has been assigned to the bureau of curriculum to prepare bulletins on Latin American countries. These will be sent to 6th, 7th, and 8th grade teachers for classroom use, Johnson said. A committee on Pan-American affairs has carried on similar work for several years in the high schools.

Emphasis will be placed on Mexico because it is contiguous with the United States. Classes in Spanish in the high schools will be expanded this year if enough pupils enroll, Johnson said.

Mrs. E. H., Chicago—Here's a use for my vegetable brush which is a real help: I substitute it for a "darning egg" when mending a knitted garment. I can hold the knit fabric more firmly over the brush bristles than over a smooth and somewhat slippery egg.

Mrs. Cornelia Shelven, Kalamazoo, Mich.—I find that applying a coat of wax to oilcloth articles, such as porch pillows, table cloths, etc., helps to keep them from cracking and makes them easier to keep clean.

E. K. B., Cairo, Ill.—I have kept the sharp edges of my kitchen knives from dulling by placing them in a drawer rack just for their use. They require much less sharpening when they have a place of their own.

British Daughters Call Meeting to Plan Bazar

Plans for the large annual bazar sponsored by the Daughters of the British Empire in Illinois for the benefit of the British Old People's home in Hollywood, Ill., will be discussed tomorrow afternoon at a conference of regents and state officers in the home of the society's president, Mrs. George Loree, 440 S. Monterey av., Villa Park. Mrs. A. W. Bode will be chairman for this year's benefit, which has been set for Nov. 8, 9, and 10 in the LaSalle hotel. Mrs. George Cooke Adams of Chicago is founder president of the home, where 83 residents now are cared for, and also is founder-president of the National Daughters of the British Empire.

Music Minded Children Need Instruments

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Miss R., a teacher in a school in a shabby neighborhood, has asked our assistance in obtaining a record player or phonograph. Her pupils from underprivileged homes, who have little contact with good music, have shown a marked appreciation of it and have enjoyed the recordings she has arranged for them to hear. She hopes to further their musical knowledge by obtaining a reproducing device.

A social worker has requested a piano for a family living on the near north side, whose children, 12 and 8, have a keen appreciation of music and wish to study, but are prevented by lack of an instrument. The mother's illness and a serious operation necessitated prolonged hospitalization. No sooner had arrangements been made to meet the heavy medical expenses on a weekly basis from the father's salary than the little girl was stricken with a disease that meant further hospital bills and curtailments of the household budget. The family has barely enough for living expenses. Music would not only help the children, but would liven a home long overshadowed by trouble.

A trumpet is requested by a teen aged lad, one of a large family, who is a leader in neighborhood activities and whose keenest interest is music. Group lessons have been arranged by a local organization, and the boy looks forward to eventual participation in the school band, but his progress has been slowed because practice outside the lesson hour has been prevented by lack of an instrument of his own.

ALL-STAR SQUAD LOSES PAIR OF CENTERS

ODT TO REMOVE ALL SPORTS TRAVEL BANS TODAY

WORLD SERIES, BIG FOOTBALL GAMES ARE ON

Leaders Praised for Cooperation

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—(AP)—The office of defense transportation, it was learned tonight, will end travel restrictions on sports events tomorrow.

This action will apply to major professional sports, baseball and football, intercollegiate and high school athletics, bowling, and horse racing.

The ban on auto racing was lifted today, paving the way for the return of one of America's top sports spectacles, the Indianapolis speedway race.

Football Games Approved

The remaining sports travel restrictions to be lifted tomorrow apply to the world series, professional football's 13 nonchampionship games, the shipment of racing or show animals by railroad or common carrier, post-season football games under a 15 point curtailment program approved by colleges and bowling meets.

The ODT's statement automatically removed what doubt remains about holding the 1945 world series and the other events involved.

It also will make it possible for the football season's top collegiate game, the army-navy contest, to be played in either New York or Philadelphia instead of West Point.

Praise Sports Leaders

An ODT official said that "the case on sports is very good. . . . The sports leaders have been highly coöperative. . . . We have said from time to time that we would review their travel situation in line with the changing transportation picture."

All of the restrictions on sports have been on a voluntary basis, and it was pointed out that "now we can tell them, in effect, that we release them from their agreements."

With the removal of travel restrictions, coupled with the lifting of other government controls on civilians within a few days after Japan's surrender, the sports world will have almost a free hand to go wherever it pleases and do whatever it wishes.

GRECO, JANIRO MEET TONIGHT IN RETURN BOUT

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—Johnny Greco of Montreal and Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., who put on one of the season's fiercest scraps in Madison Square Garden a month ago, will meet again tomorrow night. If either can win decisively, he will gain the place of a leading contender for Red Cochrane's welterweight title.

The first Greco-Janiro contest went to the Montreal boxer after a fight so even that two officials awarded four rounds to each, tho both gave Greco the edge. The third called it 5 to 3 for the Canadian.

Altho tomorrow's bout also will be limited to eight rounds because of Janiro's youth, a crowd of 17,000 is expected to pay nearly $80,000 to watch it.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

ANNOUNCEMENT last week that the Cleveland club of the All-America conference had signed Bob Steuber, formerly of the Chicago Bears, for post-war service is evidence of the importance of arranging a working agreement between the All-America and the National league. . . . It is no secret that many of the top players in the National league have been flirting with the new conference. . . . Owners of teams in the All-America agreed at their organization meeting in St. Louis in June, 1944, they would not raid the ranks of the National league. . . . In the succeeding months they signed some of the prize catches of the year—Glenn Dobbs, Bill Daley, Angelo Bertelli, Billy Hillenbrand, Paul Governali, Otto Graham, Gene Fekete, Eddie Prokop, and others of that caliber. . . . None was under contract to National league clubs. . . . Then came the meeting in Chicago last April when the All-America magnates sought to give further evidence of their desire to coöperate with the National. . . . A committee was appointed to call on Elmer Layden, commissioner of the older league, to see what could be done in avoiding conflicts. . . . Layden unwisely spurned the overture, explaining he saw no reason to deal with a group that as yet did not possess a football. . . . Ridicule of that character found little favor among men who already had under contract the biggest names in football, both as coaches and players, and who had leases on stadiums with far greater capacity than those in the National league. . . . All-America owners, once eager to coöperate with men who had pioneered in establishing professional football as a major sports industry, now are inclined to go after the talent they want no matter where they find it. . . . They have the money to attain their goal and they aren't afraid to spend it. . . . However, that policy in the end will be costly to every one in pro football, All-America owners as well as National. . . . There still is time to adjust conflicts. . . . Club owners in both leagues are downright stupid if they don't get together . . .

Among former head coaches of the All-Stars, who will see Bernie Bierman's 1945 group play the Green Bay Packers, will be Frank Thomas of Alabama, who handled the 1935 team; Gus Dorais of the Detroit Lions, who had charge in 1937; Bo McMillin of Indiana, leader of the 1938 squad; Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National league, who was boss in 1939; Bob Zuppke, who came up from Illinois to direct the 1942 unit; Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, whose 1943 All-Stars won the most decisive victory of the series, and Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, last year's head man. . . . Bierman, who was coach in 1936, is the only man who twice has had charge of the All-Star forces. . . . The Phillies will train in Miami Beach next spring, now that travel restrictions are lifted.

One Man's Opinion

About 100 per cent of the Russians will think Old Joe did it. But 100 per cent of our mothers, fathers, wives, brothers, sisters, and sweethearts would love to kiss the hands of our atomic scientists [of every nationality] as well as the hands of that long list of unpublicized men who toiled day and night to give our boys the edge. Guess that's the reason we had to give Russia war merchandise. Guess that's the reason we win wars. Guess that's the reason we ought to keep the greatest corporation the world has ever known running on a dividend paying basis. —Rossard

Promenade a Deux

Don't ever let on like I told you,
But it seems wherever I go,
I always run into Herbie G.
Out strolling with Mary Jo.

And the way he keeps leaning down to her
So's not to be missing a word,
And then they'll throw back their heads and laugh—
It's really too, too absurd.

And Herbie's wife is such a good sort,
Would it throw her into a whirl
If I should tell her how I meet Herb
Out with this other girl?

Far be it from me to repeat what I see;
That would make me rather a cad,
For Mary Jo is just one, you know,

But the soft carnal beauty that allures
Will turn to dust and lose its comely grace.

How strange that man should yield to each desire
Of this poor body destined for decay
Which, when it lacks the soul's celestial fire,
Quickly returns to its primeval clay.

But the undying soul that will live on Thru the long ages of eternity
He lavishes no solemn thought upon,
Nor seems to sense its immortality.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

James Dykes' third place White Sox solved the Dave Ferriss problem last night with a deluge of base hits that sent Boston's fabulous freshman on a hurried trip to the rubbing table. The ex-air forces corporal went to work under the Comiskey park lights with his sights set on his 20th victory and his fifth in a row over the Chicagoans. What he got was a bruising four innings that eventually led Dykes' lads to a 11 to 3 triumph over Joe Cronin's hapless Red Sox, who now have lost six straight.

The home Sox surprised themselves, as well as 17,809 customers, not alone by hitting Ferriss, but by getting distance into their blows. Before taking a walk for the second time in his brief big league career, he was jostled by 12 hits for 17 bases. And Vic Johnson, Ferriss' successor, couldn't get the extra base idea out of the minds of the Chicagoans. They clipped him for a triple and two doubles along with three singles in the last four innings.

Lee Didn't Need 'Em All

The extra base frenzy of his mates was welcome enough to the veteran, Thornton Lee, but it was just a little more than he needed while southpawing his 13th victory of the year and the 12th by the home loving White Sox in their last 16 games. After escaping the possible damage of two hits with none out in the first inning, Lee settled down so completely that only two more Boston safeties were recorded in the next six innings. But in the last two innings the giant lefty was bruised a bit, not severely enough however, to cause a scare in the White Sox bull pen.

Wally Moses furnished the tip-off on Ferriss by opening the home first inning with a triple into the left field corner, scoring an instant later on a looping single over Eddie Lake's head by Kerby Farrell. Farrell stole second, putting himself in position to score on LeRoy Schalk's drive to left center. Schalk however neglected to stop at second and his desire for a triple was easily wrecked on Lake's relay to Ty La Forest.

More Grief for Boo

Two were out in the second inning before the Chicago Sox made a move indicating they still were delighted that Ferriss was present. Moses started this one run incident with a single to center, followed by a steal of second, and Farrell scored him with a bounding drive that caromed off Lake's face for a two base hit.

Only three hits were involved in the three runs scored by the Sox off Ferriss in the third, but he helped 'em out with a pass. John Dickshot led this assault with a double to left, going to third on Floyd Baker's sacrifice and scoring on a single by Oris Hockett. After Hockett had stolen second, Cass Michaels walked and Mike Tresh singled, the hit scoring Hockett and putting Michaels on third. Michaels scrambled home while Lee was being thrown out.

Lefty Johnson looked pretty slick to the Sox in the fifth but they observed him differently in the sixth, three of them hitting safely for as many runs.

Dodgers and Seats Conquer Cubs, 2 to 1, Before 36,427

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 16 — The Cubs and Dodgers this afternoon regaled a crowd of 36,427 hopeful fans just as most of said fans wished to be regaled. The Dodgers won, 2 to 1, in a game replete with thrills, the last of which came in the ninth inning, when Andy Pafko tripled with one down, stayed on third with the tying run while Bill Nicholson was called out on strikes and Len Rice grounded out to end the game.

The crowd, deemed amazing in view of the Cubs' 20 to 6 victory here yesterday, included 27,882 paid to bring the Brooklyn home cash attendance to 903,512, with 18 Ebbets field games to be played. It was the largest total crowd of the year, topping the previous high of 36,176, which saw the Cub-Dodgers double header on May 20.

Boss Leo Takes a Walk

The Dodgers played after the second inning without the services of their manager, Leo Durocher, who was chased for protesting a pitch that Umpire Ziggy Sears had called a strike on Luis Olmo, tho the scoreboard had indicated a ball. It was Leo's fourth expulsion of the year and three of them have been in Cub games.

The defeat, coupled with a victory for the St. Louis Cardinals, cut the Chicagoans' National league lead to five games.

Hank Wyse in quest of his 19th victory, was obliged to accept his seventh defeat by virtue of a run scored by Tom Seats, winning pitcher, in the third inning, and another scored by his battery mate, Johnny Peacock, in the fourth.

Seats opened the second with a single to center and Eddie Stanky also singled. Len Rice apparently had Seats trapped off second but threw into center field, Seats reaching third and Stanky second. Seats scored the game's first run on Goody Rosen's fly to Harry Lowrey. Augie Galan walked, but Dixie Walker grounded out and Ed Stevens was called out on strikes.

Winning Run Is Easy

With one out in the fourth, Peacock walked and stopped at third on Eddie Brown's double. Seats grounded to Don Johnson and it went for a single when no one covered first, Peacock scoring what proved to be the winning run.

A base running misadventure prevented the Cubs from tying the score or better in the eighth. Rice opened with a single to left. Frank Secory batted for Merullo and Brown fumbled his grounder, Rice reaching second and Secory first.

Cavarretta went to first to run for Secory and Ray Hughes batted for Wyse. Hughes missed an attempted bunt but Rice tried to run to third anyhow—and was speared, Peacock to Galan. Hughes then grounded to Brown, Cavarretta stopping at second. Brown fumbled Stan Hack's grounder. Johnson singled to right, scoring Cavarretta and putting Hack on third. Lowrey ended the confused running with a fly to Rosen.

57,266 SET A NEW WORLD BET MARK AT BELMONT PK.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—The largest crowd ever to visit Belmont Park race track set a new world betting record today as 57,266 spectators sent a total of $4,304,616 thru the mutuel machines on eight races.

The total greatly surpassed the record set Saturday on racing's first four million dollar day when the handle was $4,035,465. A second betting record was established when $353,178 was wagered on the hurdles race, the largest amount ever bet on a race thru the field. The one race record of $674,104, established on the Metropolitan handicap June 9, was not quite equaled when the handle for today's fifth race totaled $673,671.

Belmont's largest previous crowd was 52,085 on Memorial day, May 30, 1944. Jamaica holds the New York record of 64,670, made Miemorial day.

BY WILFRID SMITH

Jack Tavener, Indiana university center who won a starting assignment in last year's All-Star game with the Chicago Bears, will be unable to play against the Green Bay Packers Aug. 30 because of a fractured wrist. An X-ray of Tavener's right hand, injured in Wednesday's scrimmage, yesterday revealed the fracture of the thumb and wrist.

Tavener's loss, serious enough, was compounded when Caleb [Tex.] Warrington, center on the Auburn team last fall, was summoned yesterday at noon to a New York hospital, where his wife is seriously ill as the result of a ruptured appendix. Warrington possibly may return before the game with Green Bay. His availability depends, of course, on his wife's condition, but, regardless, his absence weakens the All-Stars at a position which had been deemed one of the strongest.

Coaching Staff Complete

The All-Stars scrimmaged briefly yesterday afternoon to conclude a session of drills on forward pass plays. Head Coach Bernie Bierman led the morning's classroom discussion, which was followed by signal practice.

Arrival of Jeff Cravath, coach of Southern California's Rose bowl champions, completed the All-Star coaching staff. Cravath arrived Wednesday night.

Tom Harmon Reports

With Warrington and Tavener out of the lineup, the burden of play at center now falls on Gordon Appleby, Ohio State; Martin Silovich, Marquette, and William Mayther, Oregon. Appleby, center on the undefeated 1944 Ohio State Western conference championship eleven, and Mayther were members of last year's All-Star cast.

Tom Harmon, former Michigan half back who was discharged from the army air forces Monday arrived yesterday morning at Northwestern university and immediately reported for practice. Harmon, who broke Red Grange's Western conference scoring record during his three years of competition for the Wolverines [1938-'40] was a member of the 1941 All-Star squad. During his college career Harmon scored 33 touchdowns.

Park Is No. 56

Ralph Park, Texas half back, also reported to the All-Stars yesterday afternoon. Park was the 56th on the list to reach Northwestern. He was a member of last year's All-Star squad.

Yesterday's scrimmage, while not so long as the work Wednesday, was equally rigorous. Once more, young Perry Moss, the 19 year old tall back who sparked Tulsa's victory over Georgia Tech in the 1945 Orange bowl game, was a sensation. In an 80 yard touchdown drive, Moss passed to Ernie Bonelli of Pittsburgh; Nick Scollard, St. Joseph [Indiana] end, and Charles Mitchell, a Tulsa teammate, to set up a touchdown for the White eleven. The touchdown was scored by Walter Schlinkman, Texas Tech full back, on a short drive over guard.

This offense was the most cohesive of the first week of practice despite the fact that Charley Trippi, Georgia; Bob Long, Tennessee; Don Greenwood, Illinois, and Bob Kennedy, Washington State, comprised the back field of the Green eleven. Moss was accurate in his passing, hard driving on off tackle plays, and cool under fire. He and Trippi

ENICH HAS BUSY SCHEDULE FOR COMING MONTH

Steve Enich, 22, husky guard from Marquette university, has two important events scheduled within the next month. He hopes to win a starting assignment with the College All-Stars against Green Bay on Aug. 30 and a short time later he will be married to Eunella Jonas of Milwaukee.

After his marriage, Enich will join the Boston Yanks of the National Football league. He also plans to study for a law degree at Harvard university. Enich was in the navy from December, 1942, until August, 1944, when he received a medical discharge.

Lt. Comdr. Burt Ingwersen, former Northwestern university line coach and now officer in charge of physical training and military drill at the naval air technical training center, 87th and Anthony sts., was a visitor at Dyche stadium yesterday. Comdr. Ingwersen will report as assistant to Coach Ray Eliot at Illinois when he is discharged from the naval reserve.

Ed Shedlosky, 185 pound half back who led Tulsa to victory over Georgia Tech in the Orange bowl game last New Year's day, will report to the New York Giants' camp at Bear Mountain, N. Y., after the All-Star game. Shedlosky, whose home is in Nanticoke, Pa., played two years at Fordham before his transfer to Tulsa.

Sgt. Frank Lopp, Wisconsin tackle, who is on routine furlough from the 3d air force, plans to return to Madison, after receiving his discharge. Lopp has two years of eligibility in the Big Nine. Sgt. Nick Scollard, St. Joseph's [Ind.] end, is another service member of the All-Star squad who expects to return to school.

Ava Delight Wins Sarazen; Cerberus 2d

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The second day of "free wheeling" as the result of the lifting of gasoline rationing, the lure of fast horses, and another holiday for many racing fans brought a crowd of 25,000 to Washington Park yesterday for an eight race program topped by the $7,500 Sarazen purse, a turf course race of two miles and a quarter.

P. S. Kontos, a Chicagoan, sent out his one horse stable Ava Delight, at odds of 18 to 1, against a pretty classy field of routers and took down the winner's share of the feature $4,725, with a one length triumph over Clyde Troutt's Cerberus. The Robina stable's Franworth was third in a field of 10.

Ava Delight, a 7 year old mare, paid $39.20, $14.60, and $9 across the board. Cerberus paid $7.60 and $6. Franworth returned $9.20 to show. The winner's time was 3:58 3-5 for the first race of that distance ever run at Washington Park.

The Maine Chance farm provided an oddity in winning both ends of the daily double. Colony Boy, for which Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham paid Hal Price Headley $46,000 at the Keeneland yearling sales last year, just got up in time to beat Headley's Little Nip in the opener, paying $3.60.

Par Plus, also a favorite with the crowd, was Mrs. Graham's second victor, catching Powell and Welch's Delia M. a few strides from the finish line. His mutuel price was $6.40 and the daily double was worth $11.60.

The day's mutuel handle was $1,522,285.

GREEN TO SPEED STATE PLAN FOR POST-WAR WORK

New Board to Get Huge Projects Going

BY GEORGE TAGGE

Gov. Green said yesterday that he would act swiftly to follow thru on Illinois' preparations to ease post-war unemployment. He sponsored recent appropriations of 138 million dollars for state public works and almost 5 millions to aid local governments in blue printing their own projects.

Top priority will be given additions and improvements to veterans' hospital facilities, for which $7,988,000 was appropriated, he said. Within a few days he will appoint a new post-war planning commission because legislative authority for the original commission expired July 1.

Disclosing that Anderson Pace, railroad executive, would be reappointed chairman, the governor said priority ratings for projects other than veterans' hospitals would be discussed with the new commission. George B. McKibbin is expected to be appointed to the commission, altho he lost his ex-officio membership by resigning as state director of finance.

Cites State's Preparedness

"Altho the atomic bomb ended the Pacific war sooner than was expected, I believe Illinois is better prepared than any other state to tackle the tremendous problem of getting back to peace time economy," Gov. Green said.

"For nearly two years the Illinois post-war planning commission has been getting ready for this time. We will use all possible speed in carrying out the plans.

"From a pool of potential state projects totaling more than 500 million dollars the commission and state officials carefully selected those most urgently and clearly needed to keep up our American standard of living and efficiency.

"It is noteworthy that no additional taxes were imposed, nor will any debt be incurred, in order to go ahead with the most vital projects—costing 138 million dollars."

$1,100,000 for Medical Center

Besides 10 million dollars for slum clearance thruout the state, the post-war budget provides $1,100,000 for acquisition of blighted property to be used for new buildings and park space at the Chicago medical center on the west side.

Close to the top with $16,800,000 in appropriations, the University of Illinois plans new buildings for class rooms, laboratories, students' residences, and athletics. A great rush of enrollments by demobilized service men and women is anticipated.

One item in the U. of I. budget provides $1,500,000 for a betatron for atomic research. The new machine would produce 250 million electron-volts, compared with 30 million electron-volts from the present betatron, which was used in secret war work.

Other features of the state program are a 3 million dollar airport development program, 3 million dollars to launch the "lake in every county" project of Conservation Director Livingston Osborne, and 5 millions for a state office building in Chicago.

To Expedite Farm Roads

Most of the state projects await detailed engineering and architectural study, but fairly rapid action will be possible in launching a project calling for 15 million dollars worth of farm-to-highway roads.

A huge pool of project ideas has been reported to the state commission by local governments. Total cost of all the local proposals would exceed 1¼ billion dollars, divided as follows: Chicago, 947 millions; Illinois counties, 114 millions; downstate cities, sanitary and park districts, and townships, 292 millions.

Oscar Nelson, executive secretary of the state commission, said that within two weeks local governments would be told how to apply for state aid in blue printing projects. An appropriation of $4,850,000 will be allocated on a population basis. Cities will be required to share blue printing costs. The federal government has $900,000 to lend to Illinois cities to help them meet this requirement.

HALF A MILLION IN UAW TO LOSE JOBS, AID SAYS

CIO Urges Speed in Reconversion

Half of the million members of the CIO United Automobile Workers will be out of work by next week, Joseph Mattson, Chicago district director of the UAW, last night told a meeting of the CIO Chicago Industrial Union council in the Bismarck hotel.

Patrick Greathouse, international representative of the UAW in Chicago, estimated that 50,000 UAW workers in Chicago will be "on the street" by Monday. The same prospect faces the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers, he said.

"The calls that I have been receiving in the last few days about plants closing down reminded me of the stock market crash in 1929," Greathouse said.

Demand Red Tape Slashing

Members of the council called on government officials to quit worrying about Europeans and to slash red tape and regulations so that industry can reconvert quickly.

To emphasize these demands and to rally aid of other groups, the council announced plans for a torchlight parade and massmeeting Monday.

"The CIO is determined to do something more than sit and watch its members being lopped off their jobs while government officials are jaunting around Europe and worrying about Europeans," Michael Mann, secretary of the council, said.

Urge Action by Congress

Among the union aims that will be discussed at Monday's meeting will be a demand for immediate calling of congress to eliminate impediments to rapid reconversion; establishment of a permanent fair employment practice committee; a 20 per cent wage increase and 65 cents an hour minimum wage rate; increase of unemployment compensation to $25 a week for 26 weeks, and speeding up of application procedure for such compensation.

With the expiration of its no strike pledge when the war ended Tuesday, 300 members of the council voted unanimously last night to give full support to the UAW strike which has been under way for five weeks at the Burnside Steel Foundry company, 1300 E. 92d st. It was the first official sanction given by the union to a strike since a week after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Somewhere in France in a soldier's grave
Lies our dear Joe among the brave;
He never shunned his country's call
But gladly gave his life, his all.
He little thought when leaving home
He would return no more;
That he, in death, so soon would sleep

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

TASTA—Pvt. Toralf Tasta. In loving memory and deepest sympathy.
I wish I could find words to say
The things within my heart,
But it's so hard to find some balm
When dear ones have to part.
And I know how you're rememb'ring
The brother that you knew,
The fun you had together,
And the little trials, too.
I know you think of other days,
In Norway, 'cross the sea;
Of childhood days and happy ways,
And things that used to be.
Of fjords and guardian mountains,
Of fir and birch and pine—
From out the years these memories
Will 'round your heart entwine.
But will you, too, remember,
And fill your heart with pride,
That for this foster-country
Your brother dear has died?
I'm sure he fought for homeland,
His Norway, 'cross the sea,
And died for this, his own land,
That others might be free.
That other lads in Norway
Might play as once did he,
And know the Norseman's stirring pride
In life and liberty.
And, tho he didn't know it,
His death was for me, too,
Because I am a part of
This land so great and true.
Let's turn our faces upward,
And sort of let him know
That we are grateful to him
For the way he had to go.
I pray that God will comfort
And help your tears to dry,
And keep a guardian angel
At that grave on Morotai.
MELENA ERICKSON, CECELIA ZURAWSKI, AND FAMILIES.

SLASH IN ARMY ORDERS TO END 3 MILLION JOBS

Rail Freight Jam's Solution Near

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—An 80 per cent reduction in army contracts, ordered within hours of Japan's surrender, will throw nearly 3 million war workers out of their jobs almost immediately, Gen. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, said today at a press conference.

He said the cancellations will release vast stores of raw materials into the civilian market and end at once the freight congestion on the railroads.

The army's reduction in war contracts already totals 23 billion dollars, an 87 per cent cut from the maximum production for a two front war.

Plans Made Months Ago

The plans for termination of war contracts were made months ago, Somervell disclosed. After V-E day the war department began dispatching 40,000 telegrams to prime contractors canceling 92,000 arms contracts. From now on the largest part of army expenditures will be for food and other subsistence items and pay for the soldiers, officials said.

The army's maximum production program for fighting on two fronts called for an expenditure of 34 billion 700 million dollars from September of this year thru December, 1946. This was cut to 20 billion 600 millions after the defeat of Germany. The present program is 4 billion 400 millions for a similar 16 month period,

Some Purchases Eliminated

Purchase of construction equipment, including tractors, tires, and telephone equipment, has been eliminated entirely, as has all industrial plant expansion. Production of direct war material has been all but eliminated, except for completion of research and development already started. The research outlay was cut 98 per cent. Other cuts included clothing, shoes, textile items, and personal equipage, 75 per cent; medical supplies, 50 per cent, and food, 20 per cent.

Howard Bruce, civilian director of material for the army service forces, said the cancellations will result in the following reductions in the use of raw materials: Carbon steel, 99 per cent; alloy steel, 99 per cent; copper, 98 per cent; yarn [all types], 70 per cent; leather, 75 per cent, and lumber, 75 per cent.

Bruce also said the army has taken the first steps in the disposal of surplus government owned war plants. A list of 206 has been turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation to be auctioned publicly. The army has decided to retain 69 other plants for defense purposes, and there is some doubt as to the advisability of disposing of 44 others, he asserted.

Surplus Disposal Under Way

The army also has begun disposal of its surplus property thru the various disposal agencies, Bruce said. The list will include trucks, automobiles, and other items useful in civilian life, with each going on sale in the order of its availability.

A total of 10,000 jeeps will be among the first commodities released. Others described as "best sellers" included soap, razors, razor blades, candy, pillows, sheets, steam shovels, derricks, barbed wire, tractors, sleeping bags, and roller bearings.

Brig. Gen. David N. Hauseman, director of the readjustment division, ASF, said army contracts will be terminated by negotiation between contractors and the army procurement office that let the agreement originally.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK STEADY IN LIGHT TRADE

A meager supply of live stock was offered for sale at the stock yards yesterday and prices changed little because receipts were too small to test quotations. Hogs were sold quickly at ceiling prices.

Cattle receipts included only a small total of beef steers. One load of 1,248 pound steers sold for eastern shipment at the $18 ceiling. Demand for most butcher stock was small and many were carried over for today's trade.

Offerings of sheep and lambs were light. Prices were steady.

Chicago Work Force Shifted Widely in War

BY THOMAS FURLONG

The significant changes in the distribution and size of the Chicago labor force that occurred in the war years are emphasized by the preliminary findings of a committee that has been studying the war time economic changes in the area.

The biggest war time gain in employment occurred in the field of transportation equipment, which includes the production of aviation engines, planes, plane parts, and equipment. Employment in the industry rose from the 1939 level of 18,000 to a peak of 100,000 as the war ended.

There was a gain of 305,000 in all manufacturing employment in the area during the war period, bringing the total of factory workers to 925,000. The increase of approximately 50 per cent occurred in industries whose entire output was for war use.

Total Rises by 350,000

Manufacturing employment as the war ended represented 43 per cent of all employment in the area as compared with 34 per cent in 1939. Employment in business other than manufacturing gained 40,000 in the war years, bringing the total gain in employment for the period to approximately 350,000.

The committee that compiled the facts on the employment shifts and growth is sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Chicago Committee for Economic Development. The committee's work is under the general direction of John K. Langum, vice president of the reserve bank, Leverett S. Lyon of the commerce association and James L. Palmer of the C.E.D.

Other than transportation equipment the war industries in which the largest increases in workers occurred were ordnance production, and electrical machinery. About 65,000 persons were employed in ordnance output as the war ended. Before the war there was virtually no employment in ordnance production in this area.

Vast War Time Boost

The electrical machinery group includes the field of electronic equipment in which there was a tremendous war time expansion. Chicago is a major center for this industry. As the war ended the industry had 110,000 workers in this area compared with the pre-war figure of 47,900.

The iron and steel industry, classed by the committee as a munitions industry, experienced an increase of 40,000 in employment in the war period, bringing the total employed to 170,000.

Outside the "munitions" field the food industry recruited more new workers than any other industry. Food industry employment rose 6,000 to 92,000. The industry normally is one of Chicago's largest employers.

The Chicago area's six largest manufacturing industries, as measured by the number of employes, were listed as iron and steel, electrical machinery, transportation equipment, food, nonelectrical machinery, and ordnance. These six industries had almost two-thirds of the 925,000 persons employed in manufacturing as the war ended.

GENERAL PRINTING INK

I should like information on General Printing Ink corporation's war time earnings and post-war outlook.—R. T.

Sales of this manufacturer of all kinds of printing and lithographing inks increased from $9,982,000 in 1939 to $13,379,000 last year, but increased costs have absorbed much of the war time gain. Profit per share on 735,000 common shares—increased to 775,292 shares last January thru exchange for the stock of two subsidiaries—was 63 cents in 1944, 58 cents in 1943, 54 cents in 1942, $1 in 1941, and 86 cents in 1940. Average earning from 1937 thru 1939 were 96 cents.

In the first half of 1945 earnings rose to 33 cents from 24 cents a year earlier. The early post-war sales outlook appears favorable. Eventual increase in paper supplies will be helpful. However, the gain in the company's business in recent years was partly the result of war work. Subject to fluctuations in general business activity, the company's long term growth outlook is promising. The market for the products of General's industrial finishes division, established in 1942, has been expanding.

Outstanding are 35,000 $4.50 cumulative preferred shares, with no funded debt. Common dividends, paid each year since 1929, totaled 40 cents in 1944.

Pullman Tells New Sleeping Car Sale Plan

Pullman, Inc., has proposed to sell to the railroads its entire holdings of capital stock of the Pullman company, sleeping car subsidiary, David A. Crawford, president, told stockholders yesterday in his second quarter report showing an improvement in earnings. The proposal is an alternative to the previously announced offer to sell the railroads the physical properties used in the sleeping car operations.

The proposal stems from an antitrust decree by a federal court in Philadelphia May 8, 1944, in which Pullman, Inc., was ordered to divorce its sleeping car and car building business. It elected to retain Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company.

Stock Listed at 73 Million

The Pullman company annual report for 1944 listed 731,350 shares of $100 par capital stock as outstanding—a total of $73,135,000—nearly all held by Pullman, Inc. Listing assets totaling $366,406,010, it placed the investment in sleeping car property at $264,296,571.

Under the previous proposal to sell the physical properties the price was set at $81,325,222. Heavyweight sleeping cars and other property were valued at $42,168,551 and 609 lightweight sleeping and composite cars at $39,156,671.

Crawford said the new proposal to sell capital stock holdings in Pullman company was made "on the same general basis of over-all valuation as set forth in our August, 1944, proposal."

Negotiates with Others

He disclosed that negotiations were being "actively conducted with other interested groups as well as the railroads."

Crawford said Pullman, Inc., net income in the second quarter was $3,149,605, equal to 98 cents a share, compared with $2,762,773, or 86 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1944. Six months profit was $5,583,353, or $1.73 a share, compared with $5,699,960, or $1.76 a share, in the first half of last year. Figures do not include earnings of the recently acquired M. W. Kellogg company.

Gross revenues totaled $160,971,339 in the six months, compared with $166,579,974 a year earlier.

With two-thirds of the sleeping car fleet assigned to the military forces, transportation of troops will continue to result in large scale displacement of civilian travel, said Crawford.

PREDICTS PLANE FARES MAY DROP TO 3 CENTS A MILE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—Airplane passenger fares may be reduced to approximately 3 cents a mile "within a few years," Charles A. Rheinstrom, vice president of American Airlines, said today.

"Air fares may come down considerably the 20th of this month," he told a civil aeronautics board hearing on American's application to fly between Cincinnati and New York by way of Pittsburgh. "It is the feeling of American that within a few years they will approximate 3 cents a mile."

American, one of seven air lines seeking to operate or extend their lines between Cincinnati and New York, has asked CAB permission to cut fares Monday from about 5.2 cents a mile to 4.5 cents.

Transcontinental and Western Air announced plans to reduce fares an average of 7.5 per cent on its coast to coast route beginning Monday. The Chicago-New York rate will be $33.65, and Washington to Chicago $28.30. All fares are still subject to 15 per cent federal tax.

Lower Trade Bars Quickly, Aldrich Urges

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Speedy lowering of world trade barriers together with extension of public and private credits for rebuilding in liberated nations were urged today by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, New York.

The question of reviving international trade in a world of economic philosophies covering the range from free enterprise to state control found delegates from 23 nations to the International Chamber of Commerce council lacking a ready answer. However, one delegate said:

"Promotion of world trade is so important that there should not be even a question of our eagerness to trade with nations whose economies are free or m

AIR FORCE SLASH COSTS CHICAGO AREA 4 BILLIONS

Many Workers to Lose Jobs in Cutbacks

Of the 9 billion dollars' worth of war contracts canceled yesterday in Washington, D. C., by the army air forces, 4 billions were held by firms in an area of which Chicago is the industrial heart—the central district of the air transport service command. Production of 31,000 war planes was called off.

Col. Robert L. Finkenstaedt, commanding officer of the central district, said that in the Chicago district alone more than 1,300 termination notices were received by contractors. The central district comprises 14 states and the Dominion of Canada. It has supervision of almost 6,000 contracts with approximately 1,130 contractors, including 950 signal corps contracts for air borne equipment.

Release Workers for Peace

Col. Finkenstaedt said that the cancellations would save taxpayers hundred of millions of dollars, and release thousands of workers for peace time production.

The cutback program caused confusion in the Chicago area and there was much apprehension among workers. Most factories expected to work at least two or three weeks completing orders now on assemblycome to work until further notice.

lines. Others were forced to make immediate layoffs.

Officials of Douglas Aircraft at Santa Monica, Cal., said that cutbacks in orders for C-54 transport planes would result in the release over the week-end of 3,300 of the 16,700 employes at the Park Ridge plant, near Chicago. Further releases loom in the next three months, officials said. All employes will revert to a five day, 40 hour week effective tonight. They had been working a 48 hour week.

Gear Plant Lays Off 2,500.

The Foote Brothers Gear company, with plants at 4545, 5225, and 5331 S. Western av., sent layoff telegrams to 2,500 of its 3,000 employes. The company manufactured precision gears for Pratt & Whitney aircraft motors.

Officials of the McCook plant of the Aluminum Company of America instructed its 1,600 employes not to Future plans for the McCook plant, one of the most extensive industrial properties in the country, appeared uncertain.

Employes in the numerous plants and divisions of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation who were slated to return to work today have been notified not to show up until tomorrow, officials said.

Sounds Optimistic Note

An optimistic note was sounded by William H. Spencer, regional war man power commission director. He predicted that after a lag of a week or so reëmployment may keep pace with cutbacks. Industries hitherto classified as nonessential, which lacked priorities during the war, should provide at least 100,000 jobs almost immediately, he said.

Spencer urged all dismissed workers to report immediately to their nearest United States employment service office to register for work and apply for compensation insurance.

The end of the war, he said, found 515,800 persons engaged in war work in this area. Total employment Jan. 1 was 1,909,400.

Other Cities Hard Hit

The impact of cancellations upon other cities follows:

South Bend, Ind.—All production halted at the Bendix Products division of the Bendix Aviation corporation, with 8,400 laid off. Studebaker corporation laid off 2,700.

Des Moines, Ia.—Des Moines Ordnance plant laid off 10,000 workers.

Los Angeles, Cal.—More than 3,500 California Shipbuilding corporation workers will receive dismissal notices this morning.

St. Louis, Mo.—Termination of 362 contracts will result in the discharge of about 6,200 workers by the end of next week.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Douglas Aircraft to close plant, throwing 12,000 out of work.

New Orleans, La.—Two-thirds of the 5,300 workers of Higgins Industries, Inc., will be let out, beginning Monday, because of cancellations amounting to 20 million dollars.

Columbus, O.—About 6,300 employes of Cleveland Thompson Products and Thompson Aircraft Products, Inc., laid off.

Cleveland, O.—Aluminum Company of America and its subsidiary, American Magnesium corporation, notified 3,000 of their 4,400 employes not to return to work until further notice.

Detroit, Mich. — Approximately 1½ billion dollars in contracts were canceled in Detroit ordnance district; 16,500 workers were laid out and 250,000 to 300,000 will lose jobs.

Philadelphia, Pa.—More than 25 million dollars in contracts were canceled by the Philadelphia district office of army engineers.

Charlotte, N. C.—The army quartermaster depot said that "millions of dollars" of cotton textile goods contracts with southern mills had been canceled by the war department.

New York, N. Y.—More than 4,500 air forces procurement contracts were scheduled for cancellation last night in 11 northeastern states, affecting 500,000 production workers.

Cincinnati, O.—Cancellation of contracts for 35 millions was announced by officials of the Crosley corporation.

Washington, D. C.—The army's 98 per cent cutback in ammunition production resulted in closing of all government owned ordnance plants except two, the Sunflower Powder plant, Independence, Kas., and the Badger Ordnance plant, Barabou, Wis.

Seattle, Wash.—Boeing Aviation company closed its Renton [Wash.] plant, employing 6,800 persons, and branches in eight other Washington cities employing 4,500 workers.

Little Rock, Ark.—Closing of four big Arkansas ordnance plants caused immediate layoff of 22,500 persons; thousands more to be released in the next few days.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The Rochester ordnance district announced cancellation of 50 million dollars worth of prime contracts.

HALF CANADA'S WAR WORKERS FIND NEW JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16—More than half of the 900,000 Canadians engaged in direct war production at the peak of output in October, 1943, already have been absorbed into civilian production, C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, announced today.

The number of workers already had been reduced to 650,000 by the end of the war against Germany. Since that time another 230,000 have been transferred to ordinary employment.

This leaves 420,000 of the 900,000 still to be transferred, but there are 140,000 jobs now open, Howe said. These if filled, would reduce the number of war workers still to be fitted into civilian industry down to 280,000.

Sees Jobs for All

Howe pointed out that the vast backlog of civilian production, especially in the construction industries had not been taken into account. He assured Canadians there will be jobs for all, tho there will be some layoffs during the period of retooling.

The supply minister said the United States promptly cut back its war orders in Canada by 90 per cent. United States orders in Canada accounted for about 10 per cent of the total war production in Canada.

"All workers should return to the industries in which they were formerly engaged," Howe advised. He said agriculture, lumbering, mining, and textile industries are the shortest of labor.

Autos Need Textiles

The automobile industry, he stated, is geared to go full speed ahead on civilian production. "provided labor gets into the textile industry." Shortage of textiles for seat coverings is the bottleneck for the automobile industry.

Howe said "the big problem is to get people to go into the basic industries. We want the people to forget the war and go back to their peace time jobs."

Shortage of labor in brick yards is holding up the housing program, while shortage of men in foundries is handicapping other industries. There is a serious sheet metal shortage also, but a big expansion program is under way.

BARMAN FREED ON SALES TO MINORS

Paul Paviatos, 43, of 3836 Fremont st., a bartender arrested July 24 for selling liquor to two under age sailors, was dismissed yesterday by Judge George L. Quilici in Town Hall court.

CIVILIANS CAN BUY SURPLUS AIRPLANE TIRES AND TUBES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—Airplane tires and tubes declared surplus by the army and navy will be sold for civilian use thru the commerce department's office of surplus property, it was announced today.

Many tires have become surplus equipment because they do not meet military specifications or because the planes for which they were made no longer are being used.

Government officials expect many of the surplus tires and tubes will be converted for use on ground machines, such as tractors.

RADIO FAVORITES TO RETURN IN BIG AUTUMN SHOWS

Regular radio favorites will return to the air waves this autumn with shows which will provide listeners with one of the best seasons since radio's inception 25 years ago. Stars back from overseas tours and returning veterans who have learned a great deal about radio in the line of duty will make competition keen in both the entertaining and the technical aspects of broadcasting.

With word of peace comes conjecture about the many programs dedicated to service men and women. NBC, at this point, is anticipating a quick exit of such shows as the Army and Navy hours. W-G-N's two programs from Chicago service centers will be broadcast as long as the centers remain open. Shows similar to ABC's "Blind Date" undoubtedly will continue until the majority of men in uniform have been released.

Groucho to Be Dinah's Guest

Groucho Marx will be the first guest of Dinah Shore when the songstress brings her NBC program back to the air Sept. 6. Kate Smith's new show, "Kate Smith Sings," will be broadcast Friday, Sept. 14. It will be devoted exclusively to Kate's own renditions of popular and classic tunes. The Ginny Simms show, to begin Friday, Sept. 28, has signed Frank De Vol to provide orchestral accompaniment.

"Practically Yours," starring Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland, will be the curtain raiser for the 11th season of the Radio Theater dramas, starting the new series at 8 p. m. Monday, Aug. 27.

Gang Busters in 10th Year

"Gang Busters," the first program in radio to dramatize actual crimes, goes into its 10th year on the air Saturday, Sept. 15 on the ABC's network. Hildegarde returns to her NBC show Tuesday, Sept. 11, with Sigmund Romberg checking off as a summer replacement Sept. 4.

The Theater of Romance, heard at 7:30 p. m. each Tuesday over WBBM, will be broadcast from Hollywood and star the biggest names in the film capital. Its weekly budget has been increased from $5,000 to $10,000. Helen Hayes will return to her Saturday night dramatic series Sept. 8 over CBS. Miss Hayes has chosen "Blithe Spirit," "Arrowsmith," "Madame Curie," and "Let the Hurricane Roar" as four of the vehicles in which she will star.

100,000 TONS OF AMMUNITION GOING INTO SEA

ROME, Italy, Aug. 16 (AP)—Disposal of war materiel in the Mediterranean theater will include the dumping of 100,000 tons of ammunition into the sea. United States supply officers said today that the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration would get 22,000 jeeps, trucks, and trailers. They added that Italian railroads would receive at least 67 American locomotives.
